

FIRST TOURNAMENT HELD ON LOCAL GREENS

TWENTY RINKS TAKE PART IN COMPETITION — CAMP-
BELLFORD RINK WINS FIRST

The greens of the Stirling Lawn Bowling Club were the scene yesterday afternoon and evening of the annual mixed rinks tournament when twenty rinks from the various clubs in the district took part. Ideal weather conditions prevailed for the event and the greens were in excellent condition. The draw was composed of five rinks from Campbellford, four from Belleville, two from Kingston, one each from Brimston, Tweed, Hastings and Cobourg, and five from Stirling.

The play opened early in the afternoon and continued without interruption until midnight. The competition was governed by the Provincial Lawn Bowling rules, with the exception that the "Jack" was placed.

The honour of winning the first prize went to C. Palliser's rink, of Campbellford, with a score of 39 points. Members of the rink were: Mr. and Mrs. B. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Palliser. Second prize for three wins also went to a Campbellford rink skipped by P. Locke, with a score of 37. Other members of the rink were Mr. and Mrs. L. Glover and Mrs. Locke.

For two wins the first prize was won by a Belleville rink, consisting of Mrs. Ward, H. Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Ab. Wonnacott. Second prize for two wins went to Mr. and Mrs. H. Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. E. Sloggett, of Campbellford. The prize for one win was taken by a Cobourg rink skipped by C. M. Keith. Mr. and Mrs. F. Corbett and Mrs. Keith were other members of the rink.

At the conclusion of play the presentation of the prizes was made by the President, H. R. Tompkins, and refreshments served by the ladies of the Stirling Club. Mr. W. J. Whitty conducted the draw to the satisfaction of all.

I.O.O.F. GRAVES DECORATED

ANNUAL CEREMONY AT LOCAL CEMETERY WITNESSED
HERE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The annual Decoration Services of Stirling Lodge No. 239, I.O.O.F., were held on Sunday afternoon in the local cemetery when the graves of their departed brethren were decorated. Owing to the holiday week-end the attendance was not as large as usual, but some fifty members of the Order assembled for the occasion, including visitors from Havelock, Campbellford, Thomasburg and Tweed lodges. At 2:30 o'clock the brethren formed a parade at the Lodge room, on Front St., and headed by Stirling Citizens' Band proceeded to the Cenotaph, where bouquets were placed in honour of those who lost their lives in the last Great War. The Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Bugler James Ward, accompanied by Drummer Frank Butler, followed by one verse of "Abide with Me" by the Band.

The march was resumed to the cemetery, where the brethren were greeted by a large number of citizens of Stirling and the surrounding district, who had gathered to witness the impressive ceremony. A huge circle was formed around a large flag and as the name of each departed brother was read by Bro. E. Carlisle, a member stepped from the circle and deposited his bouquet of flowers around the flag. At the conclusion of this part of the ceremony, the flowers were placed on the individual graves. The decoration charge was given by Acting Noble Grand H. R. Tompkins and Bro. Geo. Weaver acted as Chaplain.

The graves of the following brethren were decorated:

Stephen Nolan, Dr. Blissette, Robt. Crosby, Peter Martin, Geo. L. Scott, W. T. Sine, M. Sine, John McGee, German Sine, Everett Fox, D. Ashley, Wm. Ferguson, Robt. Jones, Oliver Hewitt, John Shaw, Wm. Linn.

FRIENDS HONOR RAWDON GIRL

GIRL FRIENDS SPEND HAPPY AFTERNOON TOGETHER PRIOR TO WEDDING OF ALICE LAKE

On Wednesday afternoon, June 26th, over twenty girl friends gathered at the home of Mrs. B. Ketcheson and daughters, Rawdon, in honour of Miss Alice Lake, bride-to-be. During the afternoon a short program consisting of solo with guitar accompaniment by Miss Eida McMullen and a piano duet which was beautifully rendered by Miss Laurene Scott, A.T.C.M., and Miss Phyllis Vance, after which all gathered in the dining room where an address was read by Miss Laurene Scott. Alice, although completely taken by surprise, thanked all present for their thoughtfulness and invited one and all to visit her at her new home in Moira. The bride-to-be, assisted by Miss Vera Ketcheson, unwrapped the gifts, which revealed a large array of beautiful cups and saucers, also a pair of Madeira pillow cases.

The rest of the afternoon was spent in singing patriotic songs. A dainty lunch served by the hostess assisted by a number of the girls, after which all journeyed homeward, wishing Alice many years of happy wedded life. Among those present were Misses Lulu Hoover, Leona Christie, Phyllis Vance, Helen Fitchett, Laurene Scott, Edith Hagerman, Alice Morrison, Eida McMullen, Clare Weldon, Mildred Morrison, Mabel Lake, Muriel Welbourn, Mesdames Gordon Green, Carleton Potts and Ray Shortt.

THANK YOU!

The editor is indebted to Mr. Sam Danford, Sidney Township councillor, for a box of strawberries picked from his garden. The fruit was of uniform size and proved most delicious to the taste. We are deeply grateful to Mr. Danford for his gift.

BID FAREWELL TO PASTOR

STIRLING AND CARMEL CON-

Scott, minister of Stirling pastoral charge for the past four years, together with Mrs. Scott and family, were guests of honour at a farewell gathering held in the basement of St. Paul's United Church on Friday evening by members and adherents of the Carmel and Stirling Churches. Mr. J. B. Thompson acted as Master of ceremonies and a short programme, consisting of community singing, a solo by Miss G. Poynter, and a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, was presented. Mr. L. Bird, of Carmel, gave two readings by Edgar A. Guest, "Life's Highway" and "The Layman."

During the evening the honoured guests were presented with an illuminated address and a purse of eighty dollars. The following address was read by Mrs. R. A. Patterson, and Mr. Frank Bailey, of Carmel, made the presentation.

Stirling, Ontario,

June 28th, 1940

Rev. W. J. and Mrs. Scott and Family:

For the past four years we, as members of your church and congregation have profited by your ministry, and during that time you have endeared yourselves to many of us by your amiable character, your earnest devotion to duty, and the hearty interest you have manifested in our welfare as a people.

In the pulpit you have faithfully presented the precepts of our religion, and have earnestly pleaded with us to seek our truest happiness in the paths of rectitude and peace.

In our homes you have been our sincere and sympathizing counsellor and friend. In our hours of pain and sorrow you have spoken gentle and soothing words to our troubled hearts; you have united our sons and daughters in holy wedlock; your benediction has rested upon us in our domestic and business affairs, and in all things you have proven yourselves to be our true and trusted friends.

Please accept this gift as a token of our deep appreciation of your efforts on our behalf and may God's blessing and riches continue with you and your family in your new home and your new field of work for the Master.

Signed on behalf of the members of the United Churches — Carmel and St. Paul's.

In expressing his appreciation, Rev. W. J. Scott reflected upon many happy events that had taken place in both churches since his ministry, and of many kind associations which will always be cherished by himself and family.

FAMILY REUNIONS

The season of family reunions is again with us. Although the weather has not been the least bit conducive to outdoor picnics, the dates have been announced for a number of these annual gatherings and there is no doubt but that there will be many more in this district before the summer is over.

Oak Lake, with its fine scenery and the splendid accommodations provided by the owners of the different picnic grounds, holds an attraction for these events and many who have met with their old friends at this popular resort in other years, will return again this year. These reunions seem to keep them in touch with each other and enable them to maintain pride in a common ancestry. But they do more. They furnish an opportunity for paying tribute to the men and women of the past who settled this country, set up homes in the wilderness and left a heritage which should ever be cherished, because of the great sacrifice connected with it.

THE FARMER'S ROLE

As the war has turned now, the role of the farmer in Canada has become increasingly important in the struggle of the British Empire against dictators. With famine threatening many parts of Europe, after farm lands have been abandoned and millions of people are locked in battle, it will be one of Canada's duties to see that the English may eat, even though nearly all of them over there are concentrating on fighting. Farmers here have been advised to proceed with their work as in former years, but to bear in mind that some time in the very near future there will be a world-wide scarcity of farm products, regardless of the ups and downs of the warring nations. Despite the wet weather, which has retarded the hay crop, the outlook for farmers throughout the province is regarded as fairly bright. Pastures have been left in excellent condition and the most optimistic reports are forthcoming about the fine shape of all classes of livestock.

SHOULD BE TRIED HERE

Several times during the past few years we have urged, through these columns, that the business men unite in fostering some scheme to improve business in the village. We believe every business man in Stirling needs more business and that a little united action would pay in results obtained. In this regard, it might be wise for the Stirling merchants to study the methods being used in other centres to stimulate business and encourage the buy-at-home policy. In a recent editorial the Tara Leader tells of what is being done in a number of Ontario towns and villages. The editorial says in part:

"Teeswater merchants recently introduced a Saturday night draw for cash prizes of at least $10.00 weekly. Wingham has adopted a similar draw for cash prizes, totalling $25.00.

"In Durham a weekly amateur hour which proved very popular last year, is to be again held each week during the current season. Three prizes of two dollars are awarded the winning contestants of each performance.

"In Orangeville, twenty lucky persons each week receive ten pounds of sugar each in a campaign which ends in September when they really do it up in a big way by making a draw for a car, an electric refrigerator and an electric stove.

"In all these draws, tickets are received on cash purchases, and in the Orangeville case, on payments of accounts as well."

A LICKING FOR HITLER

Hitler and bloody gangsters are in for a tremendous lick from every nook and corner of the Dominion — and Canadians everywhere are going to enjoy themselves to the full in the process of applying the licks.

The cry has gone out, "Stamp Out Hitler with War Savings Stamps" and the licking of the stamps is being encouraged in a nation-wide drive which has been launched by the entire motion picture industry of this country to promote the purchase of the 25c stamps to aid the Government in its war effort at this critical hour. The feature of this campaign is a gala performance in all theatres, large and small, on Monday evening, July 15, which will be free in every sense of the abused word, providing — here is the one and only catch — each patron purchases at least two of the 25c War Savings Stamps from a theatre in exchange for a complimentary admission ticket.

This unusual patriotic opportunity permits every person to support Canada's war effort, make a profit on the savings stamps which are retained by the purchaser of course, and enjoy a good show at the same time. The Federal Government is getting every cent of the proceeds through its own agencies, and the theatre proprietors and film distributors are paying the full cost of the campaign, including all expenses for the performances, as their contribution to the cause. Without question, it is a praiseworthy effort and one that deserves the active support of the whole community.

The "Win the War" Campaign of the Canadian Motion Picture Industry enjoys the endorsement of Dominion and Provincial Governments, the Lord's Day Alliance and many other patriotic and service organizations because it has been shown that the industry is providing substantial assistance to the war effort at its own expense. Generous response on the part of the public will complete the success of the truly gigantic undertaking, which is to raise $1,000,000 for the Government all in one evening through the holding of shows which the people can enjoy to the limit without cost to the patrons.

AMERICA'S DEBT TO BRITAIN

A correspondent, in a letter which appeared in a recent issue of The Christian Science Monitor, hits the nail on the head, when he says:

"At long last Americans are waking up to what they owe the British Navy. In a discussion recently heard over the radio, a retired Rear Admiral of the United States Navy commented on the fact that the American fleet was then in the Pacific, and asked those who were taking part in the discussion with him if they knew why this was possible. Apparently they did not. Whereupon he told them that it was because of the protection afforded this country in the Atlantic by the British Navy. He further went on to state that if this were not so, the United States would be compelled to maintain in the Atlantic a fleet equal to that now in the Pacific.

"How many Americans have ever stopped to think of this? We have talked a good deal about Britain's war debt to the United States. What about our debt to Britain? Is it not time that we were big enough and fair enough and sportsmanlike enough to acknowledge it, fully and freely? Let us consider for a moment what it would have cost the United States to build, and to have maintained in the Atlantic during all these past years, a fleet equal to that now in the Pacific. For the first time many of us are beginning to realize what it would mean to be deprived of the protection of the British Navy. And now, when Britain is fighting with her back against the wall for those principles which America has always cherished, shall we hold back from giving the Allies all the aid in our power to back up their effort to maintain these principles? Even from the standpoint of self-interest, would it not be better to help to have the British Navy now, and so on enjoying the safety and comfort which it has insured America, than to have to double our own Navy, and even then not be assured of either comfort or safety?"

CURRENT COMMENT

Dominion Day passed quietly in the village and district with the heavy showers of rain putting a damper on picnic parties and sporting activities.

The recording of twenty violent deaths in Ontario over the three-day week-end made sad reading in the daily press on Tuesday morning. The annual vacation season is here and those who enjoy swimming and boating or motoring should observe the rules of safety.

This is the time of year to begin the annual anti-fly campaign and from now on "Swat the fly" will be the universal slogan. The common fly is a nuisance to the good health and well-being of the people. Citizens should screen their houses and keep the flies away from their food in order to eliminate the housefly pest.

The News-Argus extends congratulations to those who were successful in the recent High School Entrance, Middle School, and Lower School examinations; also the promotion exams in the local and district schools. Many of the results have been published in the News-Argus and as a whole there has been a high percentage of successful students.

hind a dishonourable success. The world would be both better and brighter if we could dwell on the duty of happiness, as well as on the happiness of duty. — Winchester Press.

BAR MOB VIOLENCE

Suspicion can be a deadly poison. Our country is at war with a ruthless enemy, and treachery within the gates is not to be tolerated. At the same time our suspicions should not be allowed to run wild without regard to good sense and decency. There are many thousands of persons of German or Italian extraction in this country who are good loyal subjects, and should not be under the cloud of suspicion simply because of their names. Canadians can best serve their country by keeping their eyes and ears open and reporting any just ground for suspicion to the proper authorities. There should be no mob violence. — Powassan News.

A STAMP A WEEK

We have talked with several people who have resolved to buy a war savings stamp a week as the weeks go by. Most of these are people of limited means, but want to help in financing war costs. Some of them even say that they do not intend camping in on them but are buying a stamp a week with the intention of forgetting that they even possess them.

Twenty-five cents a week isn't a great deal per person, but if a million people — boys, girls, men and women — across Canada each bought a war savings stamp a week it would mean a million dollars in four weeks. Just think of it! Let's get in on this easy way of doing our bit through buying a stamp a week — Cobden Sun.

HOW BIG ARE WE?

The more we think about it the more sure we become that we are just as big — or as little — as our thoughts. Now, of course, we know that the idea is as old as the world — yet we feel that it's worth thinking about just the same.

It might even be worth while to do a little "stock-taking" of our thoughts. And if we find that they're never bigger than the petty affairs of everyday let us beware — for we're dwarts for sure!.....

We'd like to tell you a lot more of our views on the subject — but, after reading over what we already have written we've decided that it sounds as though we're preaching. So — we've quit! — But think about it — will you? — Brighton Ensign.

MR. KING NAMES HIS PRICE

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has made it abundantly clear what is the primary test for entry into his Cabinet. He said in Parliament:

"When I take into the administration additional gentlemen in order to strengthen it, one of the first qualifications which I shall require of them as of anyone else, is loyalty to myself, and not a disposition to stab the leader of the party in his breast when he is trying to serve his country to the best of his ability in time of war."

If this means anything it means that any person entering the war Cabinet must pledge himself to support of Mr. King personally and support to the party of which Mr. King is the leader, regardless of the character of the war leadership given by the Prime Minister.

It is well that the country should know the terms Mr. King is exacting from new members of the cabinet. — Financial Post.

EVERY BUSINESS MUST JUSTIFY ITSELF

The small business, the independent merchant, the Main St. business man, can give a human, friendly type of service that the big organization, no matter how efficient, cannot equal, but the small business today must push and promote and justify its existence. The locally-owned business is a greater asset to any community than the outside-owned organization, although the latter, with its greater resources, makes a contribution to the community too. Too often the small independent business takes a defeatist attitude and merely aims at "getting by," whereas the big organization thrives on the theory that not to go ahead is to go back. In urging our merchants, as we do each week, to take a page out of the merchandising books of "big business" and to keep everlastingly at it with newsy news about their stores we believe that we are making a contribution to the community's welfare and are not merely securing the advertising that makes a newspaper possible. The merchant who must write an interesting announcement about the values to be found at his store will spend a good deal of time securing the kind of stock that will provide something to write about. — Bowmanville Statesman.

STRENGTHEN THE SECOND LINE

Merely to meet today's imperious needs will not win the war. Allied victory will depend rather on our ability to anticipate correctly the probable requirements of tomorrow. Senator Meighen had this in mind when he pleaded last week in the Upper House: "One recalls from even the suggestion, but we have to face facts and possibilities and I beg of the Government to base everything they do on the still more terrible conviction that the defeat of Britain would bring the war infinitely closer to our shores." One plan for meeting this dread eventuality is to transplant to Canada a substantial number of Britain's war industries, both men and machines, without delay. As discussed in recent issues of The Financial Post, this would speedily strengthen Britain's second line of defense by giving her an enlarged source of industrial supply free from the threat of destruction from the air.

It would permit Canada to utilize as quickly as possible, latent sources of materials and supply not now being used. It would speed Canada's industrial mobilization by bringing to this country the much-needed skill of trained British workmen, as well as essential machines.

It is a defeatist policy to argue that this cannot be done now because it is too late. It is never too late to strengthen second lines of defense so long as the first line is holding.

Once Britain is attacked, every ounce of energy and material should be diverted to a country free from interruption from air alarms and the rain of bombs, where it can become doubly effective in the defense of liberty. — Financial Post.

BANCROFT FAIR IS CANCELLED

At a meeting of the Directors of the Bancroft Agricultural Society held in The Times Office on Saturday night, it was unanimously decided not to hold a Fall Fair this year. Due to the serious war situation overseas and other elements entering into the situation as regards the successful operation of a Fall Fair, it was thought best to cancel this year's exhibition. BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MRS. ANDREW HAY

On Wednesday, June 26th, the Woman's Missionary Society sponsored a birthday party for Mrs. Andrew Hay, formerly Miss Mary Hubble, at her home at Mount Pleasant. Mrs. Hay was eighty-three years of age on March 26th, but at that time she was visiting her grandson and other relatives in Belleville, so plans were made to hold this event during the summer. Exactly three months later the party was held with seventeen in attendance. During the day the ladies completed a pretty quilt for Mrs. Hay which she had pieced, and at noon a sumptuous dinner was served with a tiered birthday cake as the centerpiece. Mrs. Allan Bailey assisted Mrs. Hay with the cake ceremony.

The arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. John Holmes and Mrs. Arthur Phillips, and these ladies are to be complimented on the success of the affair. Mrs. Holmes had the honour of baking the cake for the occasion. The visiting Committee canvassed the members of the W.M.S. and the older ladies of the community and these were invited to attend, but unfortunately some who had especially planned to be in attendance had to cancel their plans at the last minute because of illness in their immediate families. Following the dinner a programme was enjoyed with Mrs. Percy MacMullen, president of the W.M.S. in charge, and she spoke briefly, extending birthday felicitations. All joined in a round of community singing, "The More we get together," "Seeing Mary Home" and "Auld Lang Syne." Mrs. John Reid sang an old-fashioned vocal number, "When all are gathered in the old home," with harp accompaniment. Mrs. Frank Jeffe read an appropriate poem "getting old." Impromptu speeches on various subjects was an item of merriment which brought forth many a peal of laughter. "A well-remembered sleigh-ride." Mrs. Roy Thrasher; "Bustles and Hoop Skirts," Mrs. Allan Bailey; "How I popped the question," Rev. J. E. Beckel; "My First Beau," Mrs. Ross Hoard; "Mud," Mrs. Cyrus Summers; "Twins," Mrs. Don Campbell; "When I had my hair in pig-tails," Mrs. Frank Jeffe; "Getting Meals," Mrs. Will Hubble; "My first car-ride," Mrs. Ed. McKeown; "My first long dress," Mrs. Percy MacMullen; "My Wedding Dress," Mrs. gifts.

Held Closing Exercises

Miss Margaret Wright (Principal of the Public School) and her pupils, put on a very interesting and helpful programme on Thursday afternoon in honour of Mr. Geo. A. Kingston, of Toronto. Mr. Kingston is a native of West Huntingdon and although he has been absent from here since early manhood he is deeply interested in the community where he was born. In addition to his many duties Mr. Kingston has composed a number of songs and a large number of poems. In 1938 these poems and songs were printed in book form and named "Legendary Lyrics". Mr. Kingston is especially interested in the younger generation and each year since his book was printed has presented a copy to the best all-round pupil in the school. Those who have won this book to date are Theda Moorcroft, Lindsay Sills, Arthur Hassall and Donald Runnalls. This year Mr. Kingston was present for the closing ceremonies of the school and presented the book to Don Runnalls. A number of parents and interested citizens were present and Mr. Harold Atchley performed the duties of chairman, when the following program was presented: Opening chorus by the school "Peace to the World", a song composed by Mr. Kingston; patriotic exercise, "The Union Jack" and "My own Canadian Home" chorus; Social Studies, Grade III, Glen Wilson, Holland, Marjorie Wright, Africa; Agnes McAvoy, Switzerland; Gordon Donnan, Mexico; Kenneth Runnalls, China; Mouthorgan selection, Geo. Dafeo; recitation, Ileen McAvoy, Muriel Thompson, Bernard Hunt; chorus by Muriel Thompson, Joyce Wallace and Hanora McAvoy; Grade V, Social studies; Frank Yates, Henry Morton Stanley, Margaret Haggerty, Munro Park, Donald Wilson, Buccaneers; boys' duet, James Donnan and Geo. Dafeo; Special Studies, Grade VI, Muriel Thompson, Balboa, Geo. Dafeo, Norsemen; mouthorgan selection, John Kerby; duet, Marjorie Haggerty, Muriel Thompson; solo, Bernard Hunt; presentation of book by Mr. Kingston. In presenting the book to Don Runnalls Mr. Kingston spoke to each of the former winners. He also congratulated the trustees on the fine new school and on the efficient leadership given by Miss Wright. He also wrote a poem in honour of his first visit to the school. God bless dear England, Motherland. In these hard days of stress of war. Give strength to her brave men and boys.

Who guard her shores by sea and air; And to her soldiers in the field Be Thou at once their strength and shield.

As France, once strong ally, lays down Her arms in presence of her foes, Leaves Britain to wage the fight alone With what result Thou only knows Grant aid to all her arms and men. Britain must live, do Thou forbear. Thy sons in thy Dominions wide Wait not thy call to cross the sea, But once the need for aid is known The bugle sounds "On Guard for Thee" God bless the, dearest Motherland, On guard thy sons shall ever stand.

This poem will be memorized by the school and repeated on special occasions. Others who spoke briefly were Mrs. John Kingston, of Tweed (Mrs. Kingston's father, the late John Morton, taught in this school for twenty-two years, when there was a membership of ninety scholars); Mrs. Sam Rollins, of Tweed; Mr. Kenneth Stewart, of town; Mr. Harry Kingston, of Toronto, and Mr. Arthur Wilson. Miss Wright in a brief speech thanked Mr. Kingston for his interest in the school.

Miss Theda Moorcroft read one of Mr. Kingston's favourite poems, "Reminiscences of the old farm." This most appropriate message was written by Mr. Kingston in the front page of Donald's book, "Presented by the author to Master Donald Runnalls in honour of his high standing as a pupil in West Huntingdon Public School for

MY BUSY DAY

I often wonder what we do with all the time which is saved to us by the many labour-saving and time-saving inventions and expedients of our day. There is a multitude of them, and the aggregate gained must be a very considerable one. Yet we are just as busy as our fathers were, and it even looks on the outside as if we were a great deal busier. We haven't time to play with the children when we come home at night. We are really tremendously busy. But do we get much more real work done than our grandfathers did? I am not really sure that we do. We do make a great fuss and fluster over it; we are in a wonderful pothole and excitement about it most of the time; but the net results are what tell, and when we come to sift down to them they are not so tremendous after all. I am afraid that often we are feverishly busy doing very little, and that the things that take up much of our time and energy are scarcely worth it. Less hurry over bigger tasks might be better. A more quiet, conscientious, faithful doing of the little, commonplace, every-day tasks might be a really greater and more enduring achievement.

Here in our daily lives — oh, truth profound —
Here is our battle ground;
Unseen, ignoble, squalid is this strife.
But if we win, it makes more sure all life.
And every time we fall, through you, or me,
Evil has won another victory.
Oh, not a far,
Beneath some alien star,
But here, our field of honour waits us.
Then
See that we bear ourselves like good fighting men.

THUNDER FROM THE STANDS

by Vincent Richards

CHAPTER ONE

It was spring. At first, emerging from the shade of the clubhouse into the brilliance of the Carolina sunshine, Len Rollins saw the court and the surrounding stands slightly out of focus. He blinked as he went forward drinking deeply of the still, cool air.

The patter of applause, at first slight, became louder as he approached to where referee, ball boys and officials were waiting grouped at one side of the court near a small table. He peeled off his sweater, placed three of his rackets on a chair, retaining one. The applause started again and he looked over his shoulder to see Don Clark, his thin figure outlined against the green background, coming forward.

"Howya, Rolly?" Clark asked.

"Rotten."

"They laughed."

"To work?" Clark asked.

"Sooner we start, sooner we're through."

The thin young man made a gesture with one hand. "Hope that court's all dried up. Looks damp in that one corner."

Len shrugged. "It didn't rain much, just a couple of hours. We've played on worse."

"Sure we have! Let's go."

They walked out on the sun-flooded court. Rackets fell nonchalantly, surely; the ball danced back and forth between them as they warmed up.

Len was not afraid. He had reached the final at Alken. The tournament all the members of the Davis cup team had played in, the tournament every Davis Cup hopeful had entered in an attempt to win recognition. And he had reached the final. Only this thin young man across the net from him — Don Clark, America's number one man and world's number three, remained. Len was sure of a place in the team. They needed him to help try to wrest the historic Davis Cup away from the indomitable Frenchmen, bring it back to America.

He was a success! That's what Grace had wanted him to be. Only she — this was a hell of a time to be thinking of Grace Worthington. They were through, finished, washed up. And it was all her fault. She had her fool ideas about his not playing tennis. As if a year or two of playing could affect his whole life. He was only twenty-two! His whole life lay before him. He's never had anything — always had to work. Why couldn't she see that and understand that he had to have a year or two of fun before he decided to settle down. And this sort of fun was innocent. If he battled around with other girls, or did a lot of drinking or anything like that — then she'd have something to kick about. But playing tennis, and playing it well enough to reach the Alken final —

If it was as silly, as unimportant as Grace claimed, then why did standing out here with the musical sound of the rackets in his ears, with Don Clark across the net dancing noiselessly to and fro, with the occasional thunder from the stands in his ears, with this headiness rampant within him — why did all of this lift him out of himself and make him feel like God?

That last scene with Grace (could it really have been six months ago!) returned clearly, vividly. It was the day before he was leaving to play in the Southern championships in Florida. "Marry me now, Gracie," he had pleaded. "Right away. We'll go south together."

"No, Len," she had replied quietly. "I'm afraid. You've promised too many times to give up tennis — and you're still playing. You'll probably be playing forever."

"But it isn't forever, Grace; can't you see that? I think I'm on my way to a place on the Davis Cup team. That's something I've dreamed of ever since I first took a racket in my hand. And now that my ambition may be realized I can't give it up. I can't. I'd be miserable, and you would too, knowing that you were keeping me from something I wanted to do as much as I want to go to Europe and help win back the Cup."

He had wanted to take her in his arms but she had taken a step backward.

"No, Len. Not this time. You want to play tennis, big-time tennis. And I don't want you to. I don't want to be a tennis bum's wife, travelling all over the world living out of a suitcase. So this is good-bye forever — unless you change your mind. If you get a job and feel you still want me, need me, send me a wire and I'll come."

And then she had turned quickly and ran from him and he had thought that she was crying as she ran.

The voice from the top of the referee's ladder broke in on his thoughts.

"Len Rollins versus Don Clark for the Alken Club Championship. Best three sets out of five. Mr. Rollins will serve. Are you ready, gentlemen? Linesmen ready?"

"Play."

Like a bird getting ready for flight Len poised on his left foot, served. Clark's return of the service was weak. Len went quickly to the net for the kill. "Fifteen-love," came the voice of the referee from above.

Len forgot now, as he always did once a match was under way, that people inhabited the earth and there were grass and sky and air. The crowd in the surrounding stands fell away. A girl named Grace Worthington did not exist. The white ball went flying back and forth, the boundaries of the court, the sloping net, Don Clark, crouching, running, sweating on the other side of it — of these only was he aware. This now was his one and only world.

They changed courts and Len realized with cool elation, that he was leading two games to one. They paused at the table to sip lemon water and wipe the racket handles. If he could break Don Clark's service he would have a lead the Davis cup star would never overcome.

It was going to be a battle all right, but he would win.

He gripped his racket tightly; the ball spun up off the grass. He stroked it to Clark's backhand. The return from Clark was to his own backhand. Drop-shot. Clark racing in frantically, reaching the ball, but unable to do anything with it. Coolly Len banged it away.

Back it came, low and hard. Again the racket flashed and again the "screw ball" was good. He was "on" today all right.

The lob was high and deep. He had to go back. Far back and to his left — toward the corner. He ran swiftly, in pursuit of the ball already over his head and quickly descending.

The ground suddenly opened under him. His feet no longer were on firm grass. He was strangely in the air. His arms flayed but failed to find anything to cling to. Don Clark's words flashed alarmingly in his brain: "Hope the court's all dried up. Looks damp in that corner."

He went down heavily, trying desperately to keep his left leg free — and failing. He heard something crack sharply, yet peculiarly muffled. And then his foot went dead. But only for a second it was dead. Then searing, wracking pain — pain like thousands of nails being driven simultaneously through the ankle — gripped him. A dark and merciful blanket shut out everything.

Getting the job hadn't been so difficult, after all. He had read in the newspaper about a European princess who had found a position as de luxe saleslady in an exclusive women's shop on Fifty-seventh Street. Why then, Len had decided, wouldn't a sporting goods organization such as Talbot's, with stores throughout the country, possibly want to have someone like him serve their tennis department?

At nine-thirty the morning after his release from the hospital he presented himself at the executive offices of Talbot's Fifth Avenue store. After a short wait he was ushered into Henry Justin's office. He sat in a deep armchair facing the tall, heavy-set, grey-haired sales manager.

"I read all about it in the papers," Justin said. "Most lamentable."

Len nodded. "One of life's tough breaks, I guess. Naturally," he went on, "I must get to work; forget about tennis now that I'll never be able to play again. I'm looking for a job, Mr. Justin, and I thought perhaps Talbot's might find me of some value."

Justin was silent for a long time. Len watched his face eagerly, but his expression was inscrutable. Only the soft staccato drumming of the well-kept fingernails had relieved the tension.

Finally Justin asked: "You would not be averse, Mr. Rollins, to working in the rackets department? Most of our salesmen start at twenty dollars a week, with commissions, of course. But because of the value of the value of your name associated with Talbot's tennis department we would start you with a slightly higher salary. Say twenty-five dollars."

Len leaned forward in his chair. "If it's all the same to you, Mr. Justin," he said evenly, "I'd just as soon start at twenty, like the rest of the beginners."

The sales manager's eyes widened slightly in surprise, but only for an instant. Then suddenly the tattoo against the blotter stopped. "You start at nine tomorrow, Mr. Rollins. Report to Mr. Weir in the rackets department on the fifth floor; he'll show you around."

Len's heart somersaulted. "Thanks, Mr. Justin. I'll do my best."

The elation he felt as he left the Talbot Building defied analysis. His step became suddenly springy despite the limp, as he made his way to the nearest telegraph office and wrote on a yellow blank:

SECURED POSITION WITH TALBOT'S AT TWENTY PER. WHEN MAY I EXPECT YOU. ANSWER ST. ANDREW HOTEL. LEN

And as he dined that evening at the modest and inexpensive St. Andrew, after a day of happy, fantastic dreams wherein he was buried under mountainous orders and rose from lowly salesman to Henry Justin's desk, the answer came:

There were three other salesmen in the tennis department. Johnson, the youngest, seemed terribly impressed at Len Rollins actually here in the flesh working at his side. He was a tennis enthusiast and had seen Len play more than once. The second salesman, Carey, was slightly condescending, but Len suspected this to be a pose more than anything else; a pose by which he tried to get over to Len Rollins that for all his past glories he was, after all, just a salesman like the rest of them.

The third clerk, Martens, was defiantly unfriendly. The grip of his hand lacked warmth and his tone was surly as Len was introduced. Len wondered if perhaps fear for his job caused Marten's unfriendliness.

"Of course," Weir, the manager, explained, "you understand that any customers who come in and ask for you are your customers. There's a notice in the morning papers."

Len procured a newspaper and flipped through the first four pages before he saw set in a small oblong space, a dignified announcement:

TALBOT'S
Takes pleasure in Announcing the Acquisition to its Rackets Department of Mr. Leonard Rollins American Tennis Star

Beginning today, June 27th

At first he felt a certain sense of resentment toward Talbot's for having publicized his position. But the advertisement was bound to steer plenty of customers his way, and every customer meant one per cent. commission on the total sale. They'd get along on that nicely, very nicely — he and Grace.

Funny how love affected a girl. Look what Grace was giving up to marry him. He wondered whether, if he were in Grace's place he would exchange so readily all the wealth and comfort and security that was hers for a twenty dollar a week tennis racket salesman just for love.

But he'd make it all up to her. He'd devote his life to making her happy; he'd never hurt her or cause her to shed a single tear. He'd love her as long as he lived.

WOULD ABANDON RAILWAY

Application has been made by the Canadian National Railways to the Board of Transport Commissioners to abandon the operation of thirty-three miles of road-bed between Tweed and Yarker. Removal of the line and the closing of the station, if successful, will mean the loss to Tweed of several families who would be transferred to other points. When this matter was brought up several years ago, the railway was forced to stay their decision to remove the line.

The Tweed-Yarker line was constructed in 1889 incorporated as the Napanee, Tamworth and Quebec Railway and in 1896 became known as the Bay of Quinte Railway Company. This latter company was acquired by the Dominion Government in 1917 in conjunction with other railways and has since been operated by the Canadian National.

The railway in making application to abandon this line, points out, that a daily bus service between Tamworth and Kingston, via Napanee, and that a large number of trucking companies operate in the territory, all hauling freight, which cuts into this revenue.

Something Lost!

Boss: "Jones, yesterday you had the afternoon off on the plea that you were ill. Yet I saw you at the races and you didn't look ill to me."

Jones: "You should have seen me after the three-thirty!"

He Knew

Auto Salesman — Jones tried to make me believe that he'd driven his car for five years and never had to pay a cent for repairs. Can you believe that?

Garage Man — I'll say I do. I made the repairs.

A Sporting Offer

Her Father — My boy, you'll never be able to support my daughter. Why-I can hardly manage it myself.

Her suitor — Tell you what, sir: Let's go fifty-fifty.

The Reverse

"Johnny, I'll have you behave yourself when you're at home. What would your teacher say if you acted like that at school?"

"She'd say 'Behave yourself — remember you're not at home now!'"

Probably Right

A school inspector began by putting a few questions to the small girls of an infant school. "Now," he said, "if all the good people in the world were white and the bad people in the world were black, what colour would you be?"

Some of the children answered "white" and some were for "black," but little Mary, who remained silent until the others had replied, said: "Please, sir, I'd be streaky."

Endless Discussion

Small Boy: "Dad, what are the holes in the board for?"

Dad: "Those are knot holes."

Small Boy (after consideration): "Well, if they're not holes, what are they?"

Instructions

The editor of the financial page was going to play golf that afternoon.

"I wish you'd take care of our Daily Wall Street Letter," he instructed an assistant. "You know our style, Gonder. Everything boiled down; terse, to the point, nothing but the absolute essentials. I hardly know just what to feature today — what do you think the market will do next?"

"I haven't the slightest idea, sir."

"Great. Fine! But remember to be brief, Gonder. See if you can't say that in about fifteen hundred words."

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

THE WEED OF THE WEEK OX-EYE DAISY

Ox-eye Daisy, a hardy perennial weed, prevalent throughout Ontario, is now in bloom. It has a short thick rootstock and grows from 6 inches to three feet high. Several stems may be found growing from one root, says John D. MacLeod, Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

The leaves slightly clasp the stem, the lower ones being long, narrow and toothed along the edges, the upper ones are small and without teeth.

Flowers are one to two inches broad on long stalks with from 20 to 30 white rays and a bright yellow disc.

The seed is gray and white or black and white with 12 conspicuous white ribs running the length of each seed. Flowers appear from June to August and seeds mature during July to September. A single plant may produce 5000 to 8000 seeds. It propagates by seed and new shoots from the crown. Ox-eye Daisy is most troublesome in pastures, meadows and on roadsides. The seed is a common impurity in grass seed and is difficult to remove because of its size and weight.

Sow graded timothy which is free from this weed seed, mow pastures and hay fields before bloom appears, plow shallow immediately after, cultivate thoroughly and sow buckwheat, rape, fall wheat or rye or continue cultivation until late fall.

Ox-eye Daisy will not long survive where thorough cultivation and a short rotation of crops is practised. Do not leave infested fields under hay or pasture for too long a period. Do not attempt to keep timothy fields for seed which is infested with this weed. Rogue the seed crop and make sure that all short plants are removed.

The use of chemicals has proven an effective and economical method of eradicating this weed from roadsides and areas where cultivation is impossible. Write the Crops and Seeds and Weeds Branch for circular No. 68 "Weed Eradication by Chemicals," Mr. MacLeod advises.

Prevent Ox-eye Daisy from maturing seed by spudding, pulling, mowing, cultivation and spraying.

CREDIT UNION MOVEMENT IS EXPANDING RAPIDLY

Nine credit union charters incorporating the groups concerned, were issued during June, Hon. P. M. Dewar, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, announced recently. These newly incorporated credit unions have upwards of 640 members and $31,000 in assets. They bring the number of active credit unions in the province to 24 with a total membership of 9,449, and with total assets of $1,688,909.13. Most of the credit unions just incorporated, have been operating as unincorporated groups, following a preliminary study and educational period by their members on the aims and objects of the credit union movement. Charters were applied for as soon as the regulations and standard forms under the Credit Unions Act, 1940, were approved.

A large number of organizations have indicated they will be applying for charters as soon as technicalities connected with transferring the assets of an unincorporated group to a chartered company are completed, Mr. Dewar states.

Credit union charter applications require the signatures of twenty of the prospective members together with the usual witnessing and other legal formalities, but so-called "office incorporations" are not permitted. Applications for charters are made on prescribed forms while standard forms of by-laws in principle are used by all credit unions operating in the province. Similarly, standard forms of annual returns and audited statement giving receipts and disbursements, profit and loss and balance sheet are used by all incorporated credit unions.

The filing is certified annual EAO. The filing of certified annual returns with the Department is compulsory. In this way a check is maintained on all operations.

Mr. Dewar warned that a limited number of credit unions incorporated some ten to fifteen years ago are in serious danger of losing their charters unless the provisions of the new Credit Unions Act, 1940, and Regulations thereunder are followed out carefully.

The new credit union charters just issued are as follows:

Farm-united Credit Union Limited, Toronto, Ont.; Hamilton Street Railway Employees' Credit Union Limited, Hamilton, Ont.; Hamilton Dominion Civil Servants' Credit Union Limited, Hamilton, Ont.; Garden City Press Union, Limited, Toronto, Ont.; West Fort William Credit Union Limited, Fort William, Ont.; St. Charles Credit Union Limited, Timmins, Ont.; St. Ann's Credit Union of Hamilton, Limited, Hamilton, Ont.; Kapuskasing Credit Union Limited, Kapuskasing, Ont.; Brothly Credit Union Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Weekly News

Ontario people, in common with fellow Canadians in other provinces of the Dominion, are now busier than at any other time in the history of the country. With work of all kinds available for almost everybody, the populace as a whole has finally settled into a pattern of industry designed to preserve Canada and the British Empire and all the precious rights they afford for their subjects. While men in the construction trades are still building new factories and new additions to the old factories, completed and existing plants have swung into major production to back up the armies in the field. Farmers have a better idea of what they can do to help. Thousands of newly-recruited soldiers are training in new military camps. Welfare organizations are preparing for the reception of hundreds of children from the threatened British Isles. The Y.M.C.A. and other service organizations are building up a tremendous program of entertainment and comfort for the men in uniform. Civic organizations are conducting drives for tank and airplane funds. Banks and other financial concerns are aiding in boosting the sale of government war savings certificates.

Veterans of the last war are organizing themselves into training groups for refresher courses in case their help should be needed. Thousands of women, young and old, are aiding in Red Cross work, visiting the dependents of soldiers who are away serving with the Canadian Active Service Force, and doing scores of other necessary works for which they are particularly fitted. Boy Scouts are collecting canned groceries for the needy homeless ones overseas. Lumbermen are getting set to meet increased demands for Canadian newsprint. Men engaged in transportation, thousands of employees of the railway companies, steamship lines and trucking firms are working at a pace never demanded before.

And as the tempo of work has increased, fault-finding tongues have slackened. As there appears to be more team-work from elected representatives of the people and from public officials at Ottawa, Ontario politicians and provincial officialdom seems to be inclined to follow suit. Real unity is knocking at the door.

In his war-time budget, the Finance Minister would quite frankly have taken all the extra money needed from the rich. But unfortunately the wealthy are not quite rich enough for this purpose. So the average man, and indeed the poor man must pay the new two per cent. National Defence Tax. The most consoling fact is the manner in which the new burden has been accepted by the public generally. There has been no repining. Everybody regards the situation as inevitable, the response being that if Hitler wins people will not only be deprived of money but of freedom as well. As for business men, they seem relieved, now that they know the worst and can make commitments and lay plans for the future.

With Canadians generally realizing the supreme importance of united action, it is gratifying to realize that the shipping dispute has been amicably settled. The seven Canadian companies involved have recognized the union as a sole bargaining agency for all the unlicensed personnel, and preferential hiring of union men. An increase of $10 a month has been granted, retroactive to the beginning of the season. It is to be hoped now that the arrangement has been reached, there will be no further talk of strikes or lockouts for the duration of the war.

OVER 5,000 CHILDREN WILL SEEK REFUGE HERE BEFORE JULY 25

From 5,000 to 5,500 children, between the ages of 5 and 15 years inclusive, will be given refuge here from war-torn Europe, during the course of the month of July, according to an announcement in the House of Commons by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources. They will be placed in good Canadian homes for the duration of the war.

Offers to take these children and give them a comfortable home have been pouring in to the provincial organizations set up for that purpose. The number of offers far exceeds the demands for the present time.

The children are to be sent to Canada with the full approval of their parents or guardians. The Dominion Government will use its medical officers and its immigration authorities overseas for examination of the children before sailing. It will take charge of their reception at Canadian ports, and provide transportation and care en route to provincial distribution centres. Welfare organizations in the provinces will co-operate with the Dominion Government in their placement and after-supervision.

More than half of the initial contingent of children will be placed in Ontario and Quebec, the remainder being distributed in other provinces and a pro rata population basis.

A communication from the Canadian High Commissioner states that about 3,000 evacuees will arrive in Canada about the middle of July and a further 750 every five days thereafter to July 25.

NURSE KILLED, THREE HURT

At Cobourg, at 5 o'clock Sunday morning, Nurse Elizabeth Sheppard was killed when a car in which she was a passenger crashed into the rear of a truck which had broken down on the highway near the eastern town limits. Another nurse, Edith Boyle, was critically injured and two members of the R.C.A.F., Joseph Wallace, the driver, and William Bolte, were cut and shaken up. Miss Boyle's home is at Frankford. The auto hit the truck so hard, it was said, that the halted vehicle was pushed forward forty-five feet after the impact.

INJURED IN ACCIDENT ON WOOLER ROAD

Private K. T. Shaw of the Midland Regiment, at Trenton; Miss Betty Thompson, Smithfield, and Nancy Green, Smithfield, were admitted to the General Hospital following an accident north of Trenton, early Sunday morning. Miss Green was most seriously injured, suffering a fractured pelvis and internal injuries. Miss Thompson suffered lacerations of the face, arms and legs, and Private Shaw suffered four fractured ribs and a fractured knee cap. All three were passengers in an automobile driven by Charles Puffer of the Midland Regiment, who escaped injury. The car was proceeding south on the Wooller Road, and went out of control when a tire blew out.

HUNS NOT SUPERMEN

There is no secret, no mystery of any kind, about German victories. They have been secured simply because the Germans had more steel — more bombers, more tanks, more motorized equipment — than their adversaries. No quality of valour could stand up against that.

Actually what the record tells is that wherever the Allies have met the Germans on anything like equal terms, they have been equal to them, if not superior. That is true in the air, where the British have shown superiority in men and machines.

Also, a good many people seem to have forgotten there was a battle off the coast of Montevideo, a German warship called the Graf Spee. The Germans weren't supermen there.

RAGWEED MAIN CAUSE FOR HAY-FEVER SPREAD

Hay-fever is usually caused by the inhalation of the pollen of various plants, the proteins of which set up disturbances in the human system. Many people believe the cause of hay-fever to be the goldenrod because its golden yellow flowers are seen in abundance at the time when hay-fever becomes prevalent. Goldenrod, however, depends on insects to carry the pollen from flower to flower and because of this the pollen grains are sticky, and produced only in moderate quantity. For this reason it is practically impossible to inhale the pollen unless the flowers come in contact with the face. In contrast with the goldenrod, there are the ragweeds growing unnoticed in as large numbers. They are wind pollinated and responsible for the majority of cases of hay-fever. In the inconspicuous flowers, pollen grains are produced abundantly and being light in weight, pollute the atmosphere in the slightest breeze.

Though hay-fever is more prevalent in the fall of the year, it is not confined wholly to that season. Some people may be affected in the spring when the trees are shedding pollen in profusion. Among the offenders are maple, elm, poplar, willow, oak, ash, birch and butternut. Other people may suffer in early summer when such grasses as timothy, red top, orchard grass, Kentucky bluegrass, and couch grass are in bloom. Of the plants causing trouble in late summer and fall, ragweed is by far the most important. In fact it has been estimated that 70 per cent. of all hay-fever is caused by ragweed and related species. Other weeds causing hayfever at this time of the year are pig-weed, lamb's quarters, cocklebur, hemp and English plantain.

One peculiarity of hay-fever is that susceptibility is highly specific and those who are affected by the pollen of one plant are usually immune to that of other plants. For this reason, it is sometimes possible to move beyond the range of the plants responsible and thus escape its pollen. Others obtain relief by means of a protective injection administered by a physician. It should be remembered that hay-fever is greatly aggravated by drafts, such as provided by the electric fan or the automobile.

Ragweed is a coarse branching weed with hairy stems two to five feet high. Being an annual, it depends entirely on its seed for survival from year to year. To control it, ragweed must be prevented from going to seed, and the seed already in the soil must be forced to germinate at a time when the seedlings can be destroyed.

JAMES LINN

James Cyrus Linn died at his home, Mount Pleasant, early on Sunday morning, June 30th, after an illness of two weeks' duration, in his 77th year. He was born at Mount Pleasant in February, 1864, a son of the late Henry and Ann Linn, and resided on the homestead, near the Allan School. In 1900 he married Miss Sabra Patterson and one son, Gordon, blessed the union.

About fifteen years ago he retired and built a new home on the homestead and here he has spent his declining years. Although his health has been poor for some time, still he maintained his cheery disposition and was a friend to all. He leaves to mourn, his widow, one son, Gordon, one granddaughter, Ruth Linn; two sisters, Mrs. James Summers, Mount Pleasant, and Mrs. Joe Metz, Ottawa. He was one of a large family and five brothers and two sisters are predeceased. The deceased was active in all community enterprises and took a keen interest in remodelling the church hall. He was a member of Mount Pleasant United Church, and will be greatly missed in the community. A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral on Tuesday afternoon, July 2nd. His pastor, Rev. J. E. Beckel, took charge of the service and a former pastor, Rev. F. G. Joblin, Scugog, gave the message, picturing the glad reunion in the Heavenly Home above. The congregational hymns were "Rock of Ages," "What a Friend we have in Jesus," and "Peace, Perfect Peace." Mrs. Edgar McKeown and Mrs. Carleton Potts rendered "We'll say good-night to, but good-morning up there." The bearers were Messrs Will Potts, Claude Sharp, Will Scott, Ed. McKeown, George Weaver and Leonard Sharp. Beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and the interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

BROWN — HARVEY

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at Frankford United Church Parsonage at two o'clock on Saturday, June 20th, 1940, when Greta May, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harvey, of Frankford, was united in marriage to Jack Francis, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown, of Glen Ross. Rev. J. F. Lane officiated.

The bride was lovely in her gown of pale blue sheer accented with white accessories and carried a bouquet of peonies and maiden hair fern.

Miss Katie Harvey, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and wore dusky rose with white hat and accessories. Mr. Harold Johnson, of Glen Ross, acted as groomsmen. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful white kid purse, to the bridesmaid a compact and to the groomsmen, a tie pin. The couple left immediately after the ceremony amid showers of confetti for points west. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm at Glen Ross. — Frankford Advocate.

SCHOOL PICNIC

The pupils and teachers of S.S. 17, S.S. 19 and S.S. 22, Sidney, staged a very enjoyable event at Reid's pavilion, Glen Ross, on Wednesday, June 26th. Cars bearing pupils and parents with well-filled baskets began to arrive about eleven o'clock, and by twelve tables were spread on the ground under a large elm tree. Grace was sung and all partook heartily of the good things provided by the mothers. Among the pupils, no lack of capacity was noted whatever. After dinner seating was arranged in the pavilion and a program under the direction of Miss Sheffield, Miss Bedford and Mr. Bird, with Miss MacDonald in charge of the music, was put on. Mr. E. R. Carlisle, secretary of S.S. No. 22, capably filled the position of chairman. After welcoming all and thanking them for their interest and presence he proceeded to the following numbers of the program chorus, "O, Canada," S.S. 19 and 22; Play in 3 acts, "The Ice box speaks," S.S. 17; Chorus, "Macnamara's Band," S.S. 19 and 22; choral reading "This is the way my father sows," S.S. 19; solo, Miss MacDonald; trio, "Cradle Song," 3 girls of S.S. 22; choral reading, "Godfrey Gordon Gustavus Gore," S.S. 17; 2-part song, "The Sparrow," S.S. 19; music, Rhythm Band, S.S. 22; choral reading, "The Tower," S.S. 22; National Anthem.

After generously patronizing the booth the pupils went to the softball diamond where two teams were chosen from the boys of the three schools. A seven-inning game provided entertainment for the players and spectators. While the ball game was in progress games for the girls and junior pupils were conducted by Miss Bedford and Miss Sheffield. A team of girls then played a game of ball with a team of boys.

At four o'clock the pupils dispersed, tired but happy.

Stirling Lad Wins Soap Box Derby

DONALD MCGOWAN WINS DOMINION CHAMPIONSHIP

M. E. COYLE TROPHY COMES TO STIRLING — WINNER IS ENTITLED TO FREE TRIP TO AKRON, OHIO, TO PARTICIPATE IN INTERNATIONAL RACES FOR WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP HONORS

Donald McGowan, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John McGowan, of Stirling, brought honour to his native village and himself on Tuesday night when he outclassed all opposition to win the fifth annual Belleville Kinsmen Club Soap Box Derby, held on Derby Hill, in Belleville.

Upwards of 5000 persons lined the race-course to see young McGowan ride to triumph in winning the Canadian Soap Box Derby championship of 1940 for which he was presented the M. E. Coyle Trophy and a gold medal and earned for himself the right to compete in the World's Championship Soap Box Derby at Akron, O., next month when he will race with and against the cream of the world's Soap Box Derby contestants.

It marked the first time since the inauguration of the Derby that the championship had been won by a contestant from outside Belleville and "Donnie" received a tumultuous ovation as he crossed the finishing line a winner in the final heat. Although this was his first experience in the Derby, he handled his "car" like a veteran, and drove each heat in championship manner. His entry was sponsored by the Stirling Motor Sales.

When presented to the crowd by Announcer Tommy Mason, after winning the Canadian Soap Box Derby championship, young McGowan in a clear but excited voice, thanked the Kinsmen and all officials for the splendid treatment he received. "It was swell to win and I want to thank everybody," remarked the 13-year-old Stirling champion. President Jeff Marvell, of the Kinsmen Club added his congratulations.

Second to McGowan was Dennis

Rossatte of Belleville, who received a silver medal for his splendid effort, while Billie Boulter, Belleville, was third and received a bronze medal. Seventy-five youthful drivers competed in the fifth annual Kinsmen Ontario-Intelligencer Soap Box Derby that saw entries from Belleville, Rossmore, Trenton, Kingston, as well as the champion Stirling driver, all anxious and keyed for the winning of that coveted trip to Akron and an opportunity to compete in the International Soap Box Derby Championship.

Tuesday night's win climaxed several weeks of careful planning and painstaking labour by young McGowan. Possessed of marked mechanical ability, he made the construction of a "winner" his one objective. No effort was spared; no bit of advice from his sponsors went unheeded; with the result that his car was constructed according to the established principles of present-day motor cars. To this, along with the driver's expert handling of his machine, is attributed his success.

Reaching here at nearly eleven o'clock, Donald and his champion car, mounted on a truck, were paraded through the main streets. Although the hour was late, a very large number of the citizens gathered to congratulate the winner and view his car and the championship trophy. There was little doubt but that Donald was the happiest boy in the whole of Canada as he stood on the back of the truck, with his treasured trophy in his arms and wearing a great big smile, to receive the congratulations and acclaim that belong to a winner. The winning car and trophies have since been on display in the window of Ward's store.

EXCUSE US!

We're late, and we're sorry, but it was just one of those things.

We've been a matter of a couple of hours behind before, but this time, before we knew it, we were one full day behind. It was the press that put us behind. A row of cogs behind started to climb up a row of cogs before, and before anyone could get the thing stopped the cogs behind were before the cogs before, and both sets were behind the place they were before. Before anything could be done a mechanic had to be summoned and he got behind it far enough to get the cogs behind ahead of the cogs before and thus, even though we were behind, we were finished before we expected when we first viewed the tragedy.

It was a bit like the Irishman's version of the versatility of a donkey's hind legs — "You tickle behind before you find What the ones behind be for."

And so, once more, as we said before, we're sorry we're behind.

REBEKAH D. D. PRESIDENT

IS INDUCTED AT ST. PAUL'S

REV. JAS. E. BECKEL WAS OFFICIATING CLERGYMAN — RECEPTION HELD IN S.S. ROOMS

With impressive ritual, the Rev. A. Marshall Lavery, B.A., B.D., of Manitowaning, Manitowling Island, was inducted into the pastorate of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, and Carmel United Church, last Friday night. The service, conducted by Rev. Jas. E. Beckel, minister of Rawdon Circuit of the United Church, and Secretary of Belleville Presbytery, was witnessed by a large congregation.

The charge to the new minister was delivered by Rev. H. L. Morrison, of Tweed, while Rev. W. P. Fletcher, of Marmora, addressed the congregation on their duty towards their new minister. The vows of induction, as presented by Rev. Beckel were acknowledged by Rev. Lavery, who at the conclusion of the impressive ceremony was given the right hand of fellowship from members of Belleville Presbytery who were present. The singing throughout the service was led by the choir under the direction of G. L. Clute, organist.

Following the service the congregation gathered in the basement of the church to meet the new minister and his wife. Mr. C. F. Linn acted as chairman, and brief addresses of welcome were delivered by Messrs Lewis Bird and E. J. Pyear, of Carmel Church, and H. E. Hullin and H. C. Martin, of Stirling. Revs. H. L. Morrison and Jas. E. Beckel also spoke. Rev. Lavery in his reply voiced his appreciation of the warm welcome extended Mrs. Lavery and himself, and urged all to become partners in the work of the church. A vocal solo was rendered by Mr. William Reynolds, followed by the National Anthem.

Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies and a social hour spent. Mr. Lavery is a native of Toronto, and has been minister at Knox United Church, Manitowling, for the past three years, and was assistant at Timothy Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto, for two years previous. He is a graduate of Toronto University.

INSTITUTE MET ON THURSDAY

EXCELLENT PAPER ON THE VALUE OF AN EDUCATION GIVEN BY MRS. W. C. WEST

On Thursday evening, July 4th, the regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall. Mrs. H. Cook presided and opened the meeting with the singing of the Institute Ode. "O Canada" followed and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer. The Secretary, Mrs. Bronson, called the roll, "Name a Highlight you have learned during the past year." Sixteen members were present, six visitors and two new members joining. The minutes of the June meeting were read and accepted. All business in connection with bills and communications were dealt with. Mrs. R. Woodbeck, the W. I. Treasurer, reported $67.74 on hand. The question of making homes for the refugee children was discussed at length. It was understood the Red Cross Society was making a canvas for homes for the children. It was decided that if any member of the W.I. cared to offer their homes to these unfortunate children they could communicate with the Red Cross of the Village. Mrs. Jas. Mitchell was chosen convener for legislation studying the war charity act and naturalization act. Mrs. T. Cranston invited the members and families to their cottage at Glen Ross for the August picnic featuring "Children's Day." This invitation was gladly accepted and it will be held on the regular Institute Day. Cars will be provided and members will meet at the Community Hall at 2:00 o'clock.

Mrs. L. Rodgers and Mrs. A. Gordanier will be the sports committee giving prizes for various games and races.

Mrs. O'Donnell was chairlady for the programme, which was based on "Education." Community singing was enjoyed, led by Mrs. J. J. Wilson and Mrs. R. Shortt at the piano. Mrs. W. C. West, convener for Education, gave a splendid paper on "How much is an education worth?" Mrs. J. J. Wilson and Mrs. Geo. Lavery discussed the topic. Many valuable points were brought to light, resulting in the conclusion that an education is still a greater necessity and learning after school age, as in school age. We may not be taught by paper and pencil, but through undertakings during life we reveal our greatest education.

"The Comforts of Age," a splendid reading, was given by Mrs. O'Donnell. "Is it anybody's business," another splendid reading, was given by Mrs. J. Mitchell. Mrs. H. Rodgers gave a very outstanding contest dealing with Education.

All joined in singing the National Anthem. A delicious lunch of strawberries and cake was enjoyed. Appreciation was extended to the committee in charge of the program and lunch, namely, Mrs. Cranston, Mrs. O'Donnell, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. J. J. Wilson, Mrs. H. Rodgers and Mrs. Pollard.

The following is the paper given by Mrs. West on "How Much is an Education worth?"

The value of an education is something which cannot be expressed in dollars and cents. Every boy can name several other things which he would not sell for all the money in the world — his parents, his friends, his health, and so on. But he does not always rate education so highly. Indeed, there comes a time in the school life of nearly every healthy, ambitious boy when he longs to quit his studies, when he wishes that he could strike out tomorrow and "get a job." He feels that education is, or at least the sort of knowledge which is being crammed into his somewhat reluctant brain at school, is of little real value to him.

To examples of men who have left school at an early age, either through choice or because of financial difficulties, are still incomplete and will be published later.

Seventy girls were in attendance and seventy-three sent in their completed work. In the afternoon the attendance was increased to over one hundred.

Excellent demonstrations in the project "The Club Girl Entertains" were displayed. In addition to their exhibit each member was given an opportunity to exhibit a table set for two — menu displayed but no food.

Competitors in the various competitions and demonstration were selected from the Madoc, Wallbridge, Eldorado, Ivanhoe, Wellmans, Springbrook, Cooper and Remington, River Valley, Plainfield and Phillippston-Zion Clubs to compete later in Inter-County Demonstrations to be held at Peterboro and the Canadian National Exhibition. WARTIME COMMANDMENTS

Much has been heard of the need for careful speech in wartime, lest valuable information might be conveyed to our enemies or some innocent person libelled. But it remained for Lieut.-Col. Rev. G. O. Fallis, a chaplain of Toronto, to arrange ten commandments for our general guidance during these perilous times. These commandments should be studied by every good Canadian and truly loyal British subject.

The "War Commandments" follow:

1. Thou shalt remember the God of the Lord Jesus Christ and His leadership of good people in all generations.
2. Thou shalt not fear, those who can harm the body cannot harm the soul.
3. Thou shalt not let the external, be it circumstance or person, upset thine inner poise.
4. Thou shalt be brave, as the only creative attitude is courage.
5. Thou shalt pray, for those who wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength.
6. Thou shalt help others, for in so doing thou shalt help thyself and also fulfil the law of Christ.
7. Thou shalt guard thy tongue, for by so doing thou shalt not spread idle tales.
8. Thou shalt remember the cause we are struggling to sustain, for in so doing thou shalt be made valiant for battle.
9. Thou shalt be loyal to all the best of our past, thus shalt thou help build the future.
10. Thou shalt be willing to die for the truth, for in so doing thou shalt gain eternal life.

FARMERS DESERVE PRAISE — MUST BE GIVEN CONSIDERATION

Farmers, in general, deserve a great deal of praise for the manner in which they have contributed to Canada's war effort.

Without hysteria, and without whimpering, they have absorbed the consequences of higher costs and lower returns from their farming operations.

Higher costs have arisen, mainly from higher prices to be paid for farm labour, hog and cattle feed and groceries.

It is possible for a farmer to pay a high price for his help with profit to himself only when he receives a high price for his farm produce. But he cannot advance his price for farm help from $25 a month to 25 cents an hour without a compensating return in produce prices, which has not materialized yet.

The opposite is the case. Hogs priced at 8 cents are lower than when war broke out, while hog feed is higher, and several other items are in the same category. Strawberries are selling at 5 cents a box, with 1-2 cents for picking and 1-2 cent for the box to be paid.

Unless farm prices go up in proportion to the increased cost of farming, which includes higher labour costs and higher taxes in prospect there will have to be a way in which conscription is applied to supply labour to the farmers, which in effect, is bonusing the farmer.

Meanwhile, there is every reason to praise the farmer for carrying the load which has been on his shoulders, heavier than in the depression years, without whimpering. — Picton Gazette.

FACTS FOR THINKING FOLKS

The advisory medical committee of the National Sanitarium Association reports in a current bulletin that tuberculosis is the leading cause of death from the ages of 15 to 45, and that it is a communicable disease and not an inherited one. Every case of tuberculosis comes from another case, and is caused by germs. The disease, states the committee, can be prevented and can be cured, and a person may have it without knowing it.

To illustrate how these facts apply to life, the case of young John T. is cited. John played on the high school team, was one of the school's best all-round athletes and stood high in scholastic honors. When the school offered the tuberculin test, his parents were wise in requesting the test for John.

His skin test was positive, indicating that at some time during his life he was exposed to tuberculosis. An X-ray was taken of his chest. The X-ray showed that John was seriously sick. He did not feel sick. He had no symptoms. The older methods of diagnosis would have failed to find his tuberculosis but the X-ray revealed it.

There was no spreader of tuberculosis in John's family. However, diligent search for a spreader began. His probable "contact" was traced to his aunt. When John was a child, his aunt often called and kissed him. She had tuberculosis and didn't know it then. She planted many tuberculosis germs on John's mouth.

John and his family agreed with the doctors that he should go to a sanatorium. Modern methods of treatment cured his tuberculosis. It took him only six months to get well because his tuberculosis was found early. John then returned to school. He had kept up his studies while in the sanatorium and was graduated with honours in his class.

This typical case is only one of thousands of similar examples of how early diagnosis is saving lives. Before the chest X-ray was available for early diagnosis, John's story would have been very different. Valuable time would have been lost. John would have waited until his sickness became evident by signs and symptoms. No longer do alert physicians wait for signs and symptoms to appear because they know that early tuberculosis is usually symptomless tuberculosis. No modern physician considers a physical examination complete without an X-ray of the chest. The X-ray reveals tuberculosis before symptoms appear.

CURRENT COMMENT

Fortune is said to knock but once at any man's door, but misfortune has more patience.

Next winter may well be the most terrible in the history of Europe, but we must not allow the enemy to use any more innocent suffering as a weapon of war. — Cobourg World.

According to a story in a Toronto daily paper, the Ontario Provincial Police force is to be increased by some three thousand men to safeguard property and life from sabotage by enemy agents. Attorney-General Conant apparently believes in preparedness for any emergency instead of waiting until the damage is done before taking action. And few there are who will not back him to the limit in such preparedness.

Some idea of the immensity of modern 70-ton tanks may be gathered from the fact that the metal used in the construction of one of these tanks would make 620 typewriters, 300 lawn mowers, 8 tractors, 375 bicycles, 105 washing machines, 5175 radios, 6 automobiles, 1000 vacuum cleaners and 139,900 safety razors.

The weatherman has been providing the farmers with some good haying weather during the past week, but a shortage of farm labour is reported in many sections. Many hired men have joined the army, leaving their employers without adequate manpower at a very inopportune time. To minimize this shortage the Department of Agriculture has been sending school boys, registered with the Department as available for farm work, to the localities most in need of help. All along it has been contended that it takes longer to train a man for farm work than for soldiering, so that the seriousness of the situation facing the farmer should not be minimized.

Up in Barrie the transient traders' license has been increased from $200 to $500 in order to put a stop to fellows coming in with bankrupt stocks and staying only for a couple of weeks. But, says the Bowmanville Statesman, "the law that needs amending is to levy a decent tax on the fellows who come here with bread or what-have-you, go from door to door taking business from the local stores and contributing absolutely nothing to the maintenance of the town." The Village of Stirling is at times a mecca for these transient salesmen, and some means should be found for discouraging them. Housewives can do more to wipe out this unfair business practice than any law that may be passed by absolutely refusing to buy from these out-of-town salesmen.

A "Win the War" campaign to boost the sale of War Savings Stamps through the staging of free shows in all theatres on Monday evening next is being pushed to the limit by the motion picture industry. All the volunteer workers are animated with the one thought, "We want to do something to help," and every patriotic-minded citizen of the Dominion will be ready and willing to do his bit. The purchase of at least two 25c war savings stamps at any theatre entitles the holder to a free show — and keep the stamps in the bargain. This is a novel manner of focusing the attention of the public towards the necessity of buying the stamps. This is an opportunity for every Canadian to do his or her part in a small way to show their love for this country and their desire to get behind the government and make sure that Canada does her share in winning the war.

well no doubt. There is the Toronto hockey team that got its pictures in the paper as sure-fire recruits for the C.A.S.F. as soon as the league games were over. The C.A.S.F. is looking for them yet. Conscription will now step in and do what public opinion should have demanded from them for making just a joke out of such a serious matter, as a man offering his life for his country. — Trenton Courier Advocate.

BE ALERT!

Sabotage has a meaning to Canadians to a greater extent than many can seem to appreciate. Some are wont to say, "It cannot happen here," but it is happening here just the same. The other day two cans containing gasoline were found hidden in some grass at Gananoque in close proximity to a manufacturing establishment working on war orders. There is no person for anyone to become jittery over the situation but it behooves all of us to be on the alert. — Carleton Place Canadian.

A PATRIOTIC DUTY

Have you figured out the amount you must pay on your salary, as required by the War Defence Tax? Or are you trying to find some way to avoid it? It will not do you any good to try and evade the tax. You have to do your share to finance Canada's War Effort, even if it leaves you short of finances. Winning the war should be the first consideration of every Canadian — and money is one of the first essentials the Government needs to increase the country's war supplies — so dig down and do it with a smile, even if the smile is only a camouflage. — Winchester Press.

GET PEOPLE INTO YOUR STORE MORE OFTEN

All retailers should try hard to get customers and non-customers to visit their store frequently. Getting orders by telephone or via delivery men is all right, of course, but more sales will be made if and when buyers visit their store. In the store they will see many things some of which are likely to be bought — impulsively. Then, too, there is the mutual satisfaction of personal acquaintanceship frequently renewed.

Loyalty to a store is promoted by frequent visits to it. So stores ought to make themselves attractive and interesting. Displaying an interesting object in the store, is one way of attracting visitors — both customers and non-customers. Exhibiting a freak vegetable or flower or curiosity or ancient tool or interesting piece of needlework, or an old portrait or a pioneer, or an interesting bit of craftsmanship — these are suggestions.

Many stores advertise forenoon bargains, with no delivery — this as a means of attracting visitors. A visitor is likely to be a buyer — and a repeat buyer. — Renfrew Mercury.

ASLEEP AT THE WHEEL

There was an old saying "asleep at the switch," but the more modern phrase is "asleep at the wheel," and it means just that. In the days gone by when a lad courted a girl or when a person was returning home late at night, old dobbin would get his passenger back home in a safe manner. Not so today. The use of the automobile has changed all that, and now when a person falls asleep on the way home, instead of being taken care of by horse sense, he finds himself in the ditch or over the fence or stopped against a tree. It does not pay to fall asleep in a car but the number of accidents that happen this way appear to be on the increase. It is a bad type of accident as it gives an approaching car no chance and very often the sleeper is badly injured. When one becomes overcome by drowsiness the thing to do is to stop the car and have a rest. A slow trip home is better than a fast trip to the hospital. — Wingham Advance-Times.

ONE MAN — WITH AUTHORITY

The incisive brain of Senator Melgren laid bare recently the weaknesses of Canada's present programme of munitions and supply. Speaking in the Upper House he said: "There has been too much circuitousness and perhaps meticulousness in the deciding of contracts and the starting of work. That policy has its root in the absence of a single and ample authority."

"In the last war we did not get to the establishment of that single and ample authority very swiftly. War was never to us then than it has been in the last year. We had then . . . the Imperial Munitions Board which really meant the supremacy of one man in whose business capacity and integrity the whole nation, whatever anyone might complain of, had confidence."

"That man is dead. But this Government should before now have selected a man for a similar position, and agreed with the Imperial authorities with regard to him and given him the same ample authority and should not have been under the necessity of shuffling between a Supply Board here and a British representative there and of having references sent back and forth with all the ensuing delays."

"The Minister of Supply has been overwhelmed. I beg of the Government to select the man now . . . agree on that man and give him authority, and get that acceleration which Lloyd George got in the last war and which Beaverbrook is undoubtedly getting in this."

Choosing the best man this country can produce as industrial co-ordinator and giving him ample authority to direct the procurement of munitions and supply is a first, essential need. It is a need that becomes more apparent and urgent with every speeding up of industrial mobilization.

As Senator Melgren later remarked, our national registration, our voluntary offerings and the like, "all such things do not matter the turn of a hair" compared to the swift effective production of planes, tanks, shells and other munitions of war. — Financial Post.

"HYPOCRISY TO THE NTH DEGREE"

From his pulpit in St. Thomas' Church at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, New York City Rev. Dr. Roeliff H. Brooks had something to say recently about America's "empty-sounding neutrality."

"I am not pleading that we go into the war by sending an army overseas. I do not believe the Allies who are today fighting our battles — do not forget that — for the preservation of democracy and the right of small nations to live, I do not believe they want our men."

"Neutral or not, we are helping the Allies now by permitting them to buy at a price the implements of warfare — mark that — buy for a price the things they need for the prosecution of the war."

"We are not giving them anything, not even our moral support, officially as a nation. Yet we stand by and say we hope they will win, so we may share in the victory without assuming any responsibility."

"Now my friends, if this is not hypocrisy raised to the nth degree, then I do not know the meaning of the word hypocrisy."

Mission Band Rally Kingston Presbytery

A very interesting and encouraging Mission Band Rally of the Kingston Presbytery was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville on Saturday afternoon, at 2.30. Mrs. (Rev.) W. H. V. Walker, of Stirling, the Presbyterial Mission Band Secretary, was in charge of the rally and gave the call to worship. The devotional part was given by Deseronto Mission Band. The Scripture lesson was read by Joan Babcooke, Margaret Douglas led in prayer. Ann McCullough favoured with a solo. Everyone then joined in singing hymn 773. A very hearty welcome was given by Jean Mills, President of the Belleville Mission Band. Jean Haggerty, of West Huntingdon, responded. Mae Johnston was appointed secretary, and read the report of the last year's meeting. The roll call was taken, showing that seven mission bands were represented. The offering was taken by two Belleville girls. Mrs. Tompkins, of Stirling, read greetings from Mrs. Darling, President of Kingston Presbytery. One verse of hymn 746, a request by Mrs. Darling, was sung. Marjio Haggerty, of West Huntingdon, sang a solo, "Harbour Lights", taken from the Study Book, and was accompanied by Muriel Thompson, also of West Huntingdon.

A short play was then put on by five little girls from Belleville. Marie Collins, from Roslin, then followed with a recitation on the Cella Jeffrey School. A play composed by Mrs. Hill Provincial Mission Band Secretary, was put on by several members of the Madoc Mission Band.

A recitation was then given by Ann Marie McCullough of Foxboro. A demonstration of the Honour Member test was given by the Stirling group. Shirley Ormiston, President of the Mission Band, was in charge and gave an outline of the test. Doreen Fox, Marion Mitts, Gordon Mitts and Dora Rodgers each recited passages of Scripture. Miss Gena Spry showed the posters the children made. Jean McIntosh told the story of the M. G. Ahey Memorial Children's Nursing Home. The life of George Leslie Mackay was told by Shirley Montgomery and Mary Agnes Fox. These stories were very interesting because they were written by these girls themselves. Marilyn Eggleton and Arline Tammon followed with a missionary hymn. The nine members from Stirling, who had completed the Honour Member test, were presented with pins by Mrs. Hill.

Jean Mills, President of Belleville Mission Band, received the banner from Mrs. Hill, who later delivered a very inspiring address to the young folks. A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. (Rev.) Hill, of Madoc, and seconded by Mrs. (Rev.) Douglas, of Deseronto to Mrs. Hill for the fine address and also to the Belleville Mission Band for their fine hospitality. Rev. Douglas, of Deseronto and Rev. Hunter, of Madoc, spoke a few words of encouragement to the young folks. Rev. W. H. V. Walker of Stirling closed the service with the Benediction. The afternoon was brought to a fitting close with a delicious lunch, served by the members of Belleville Mission Band.

180 PERIODICALS ARE BANNED BY CENSORS

One hundred and eighty periodicals, a quantity of books, pamphlets, circulars and other material have been banned in Canada by the Press Censors since the start of the war, according to information made known in the House of Commons. This number included 117 periodicals from the United States. Eight or ten others are at present in the process of being excluded.

Mother Shipton's Prophecies

The following is reprinted from a scrap book owned by Mrs. Sarah Coulter, of Stirling:

Because of the uncanny manner in which the prophecies of Mother Shipton have been coming to pass during recent years, considerable attention has been attracted to this strange creature of four centuries ago. Even those who have in the past scoffed at the world predictions of this ancient "witch", are now stirred by curiosity to wonder what will next occur in this connection.

Mother Shipton, we are told, was born in Yorkshire, England, in July, 1488, and died about 1559. In books of information she is described as a half mythical English prophetess, baptized Ursula Southill, who later married Tony Shipton. According to tradition she was the child of Agatha Shipton and the devil.

The following extracts from her amazing prophecies were taken from a scrapbook made more than forty years ago and owned by a Rochester woman:

A house of glass shall come to pass in merry England, but alas, War will follow with the work In the land of the Turk. And state and state in fierce strife Struggle for each other's life. Carriages without horses shall go And accidents fill the world with woe. In London Primrose Hill shall be And the centre of a Bishop's see. Around the world thought shall fly In the twinkling of an eye. Through the hills men shall ride And neither horse nor ass bestride. Under water men shall walk Shall ride, shall sleep, shall talk. Iron in the water shall float As easily as a wooden boat. Gold shall be found and shown In a land that's now unknown. Fire and water shall wonders do, And England shall admit a Jew. Three times three shall lovely France Be led to dance a bloody dance. Before her people shall be free Three tyrant rulers she shall see. Each springing from a different dynasty.

And when the last great fight is won England and France shall be as one. And now a word in uncouth rhyme Of what shall be in latter time. In those wonderful far-off days Women shall get a strange odd, cease To dress like men and breeches now, And cut off their beautiful locks of hair.

And ride astride with brazen brow, As witches do on broomsticks now. Then love shall die and marriage cease

And babes and sucklings so decrease That wives shall fondle cats and dogs, And men live much the same as hogs. In eighteen hundred and ninety-six Build your houses of rotten sticks For then shall mighty wars be planned And fire and sword sweep o'er the land.

And those who live the country through In fear and trembling this shall do: Fly to the mountains and to the glens, To bogs and forests and wild dens, For tempests will rage and oceans will roar,

And Gabriel stand on sea and shore. Old worlds shall die and new be born In the air men shall be seen.

In white, in black, in green: Now strange, but yet they shall be true

The world upside down shall be And gold shall be found at the roots of a tree.

Through the hills men shall ride, And horse nor ass be at his side. Explaining the Primrose Hill line: At the time the prophecy was uttered Primrose Hill was two miles from London. Now it is nearly in the heart of London, but a short distance from Regent's park.

Weekly News

To those in many areas of Ontario who have felt themselves frustrated in their desire to take a more active part in Canada's war, there comes an interesting message from a man at Ottawa, who has an important part in the country's present effort. To a few friends gathered at a quiet dinner last week he said, "The need for men and women at home to preserve our democratic institutions is every bit as important now as the need for those of us on the war front to preserve the freedom of Canada and the British Empire."

The remark arose when the group began to talk about the extent of regimentation found necessary to make victory sure. The speaker, born and brought up in a small town explained his point this way:

"There is no good purpose served in trying to fool ourselves that we Canadians can drop our free institutions for a period of one, two or three years and then find them unimpaired when we are ready to pick them up again. That is — if we forget all about them while we concentrate on our version of a national effort, to match that of the enemies."

"It seems to me that while the men of the country go to military camps when ordered by the government; while factory workers accept conditions imposed on them, and industry and the public generally bows to the inevitable financial sacrifices demanded by the state; and while members of parliament and government officials of necessity assume more and more power without further recourse to the ballot, there should be some organized attempt to hold on to the community freedom we are fighting for. And I think the answer lies with our people in the smaller centres throughout the country — in the towns and villages and on the farms."

"If the people in hundreds of small municipalities in Canada retain an intense interest in self-government through township, village, town and county councils, and become more and more enthusiastic about their agricultural societies, school fairs and the like, those people will be serving Canada just as emphatically as those who serve on the military and economic fronts."

When restrictions born of war activities keep Canadians on their own soil, and holiday planners must travel in Canada instead of the United States the result may not be a bad one. There are so many Canadians in western Canada who have not been east, so many easterners who have not been west, such a large number of Ontario people who have not been in Quebec and the Maritimes, that a boom in home travel would not be amiss in building up a better understanding with the Dominion.

There are two sides to the question which the Ontario government brings up in the decision that every possible non-war activity is to be dropped for the present. The lighting program for the Queen Elizabeth 30-mile four-lane highway near Grimsby will not be carried out, involving a saving in capital expenditure of $273,000. Other works will also be dropped. While all things must be subordinated to the far effort, there are a few undertakings which should not be left in a half-finished state.

Acting Premier Nixon states there will be no increase in provincial taxation. The Federal government has cut into provincial sources of revenue, and while this is offset somewhat by a sharp decrease in unemployment relief costs, a situation may develop which will force a review of the whole system of provincial taxation.

McMULLEN — DEWEY

A quiet, but very interesting wedding took place at the parsonage in Stirling, on Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock, June 29th, when Miss Rose Luella Dewey, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dewey, of Seymour, became the bride of Mr. Earl William McMullen, of Rawdon, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John McMullen. Rev. Jas. E. Beckel officiated.

The bride looked very charming in a dress of rose sheer with white hat, and accessories, and wore a pearl necklace. The bridesmaid, Miss Lettie McMullen, wore a powder blue sheer with matching accessories. Mr. Vernon Thompson was groomsmen. The groom's gifts to the bride and bridesmaid were compact; to the groomsmen a cigarette case. The happy couple left for a honeymoon to Toronto and western points and on their return they will reside in Rawdon. The bride travelled in white.

We wish to express to you our very best wishes for a long and happy married life. It has been said that we are in the midst of difficult times, when it is hardly wise to plan for the future, yet in all times young folks have dared, with courage and high resolve to plan for the future. The spirit of the pioneers, our forefathers, is with us still and bravery and courage have always been rewarded. Even so, you will go forward and build upon the foundation which have been laid.

Although your own home is not far distant, Greta, we feel that you will find true friends in the community and we will be grateful for any duties you may care to accept for the furtherance of the enterprises of the community.

We ask you to accept these gifts as a token of our good wishes.

the kind of work you will enjoy. It will not be so far away but that you can come and visit us.

As a teacher you have given yourself conscientiously to your task. You have taught your pupils to take an interest in their work by being kind and patient with them.

In remembrance of your friends and pupils we ask you to accept these gifts. As you use them may they bring back fond memories of the good times we have had together during the two years that you have been among us.

tures throughout the province, says John D. MacLeod, Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

Both are vigorous perennials with trailing branches or stems close to the surface of the soil. These take roots every few inches and one neglected plant may increase to a large patch in a very short time. The leaves of both plants are, for the most part, attached to the crown and not to the stems. Leaves and stems are extremely hairy and filled with a bitter milky juice. Due to the pungent flavour and hairy nature the "Hawkweeds" are not relished by livestock, although they will eat them when pasture becomes short.

"Orange Hawkweed" or "Lion's foot" is a somewhat common weed in the province. It is sometimes called "Box Elder" and is a common weed in the province.

WHY SHOULD WE FIGHT FOR ENGLAND?

"Why should we fight?" he asked me. "Cause England is at War? Why are they fighting now, dad. What are they fighting for? What does it mean to you, dad. To babe and nuns and me? The Germans won't come here. From away across the sea."

So why should you go there, dad. And leave us here to cry? Is it 'cause England owns us? Is that the reason why? His eyes looked widely at me. I tightly held my son, And this is how I answered, His questions one by one.

"We fight when England calls us. For in her sacred keep The ashes of our fathers Lie in her soil — asleep. And many times for England, They fought that she'd be free, And they are part of England, And so, my son, are we."

And some may pass her by, lad, And some may scorn her hand, But we must be forever, A part of that fair land. For everything we have, son, That's good and fine and just, Was washed in British blood And given to us in trust.

And we must keep that trust, son, Against the force of greed, And fight beside Old England Whenever she's in need. And once again she's calling, Across the Empire wide, And all her Empire answers, "You'll find us at your side."

Oh, yes we're owned by England, But we own England, too, As you are part of me, son, And I am part of you."

INSTITUTE MET ON THURSDAY

(Continued from Page One) ties, and who have become rich or famous, or otherwise "made good" in spite of lack of schooling. It is always easy to forget, too, that for every one of these successful men, there are thousands of others who neglected their schooling and are now digging ditches or carrying bricks. Indeed they can find a job at all. And it is a striking fact that most of the men who have become famous without the early advantages of school training are far from advising a similar course for others. They are careful to give their own children the best that the educational system offers, and usually prefer college graduates, or at least high-school graduates, for employment in their places of business. They often give freely of their riches for the support of colleges and schools.

If we are to ask what an education is worth, we first have to consider for a moment what an education is. It is unfortunately true that many people go through school and college without really getting an education at all. They learn a lot of facts, or at least remember them long enough to scrape through the examinations, but that is as far as it goes. Education is mind-training, not mind-cramming. The educated mind may hold plenty of valuable facts, too, but it is not satisfied with that. It is a keen mind, always inquiring after new truths; it is an understanding mind, which can see the other fellow's point of view; it is a mind as highly trained as the body of a great athlete, always alert and ready to make the best of what it knows and what it can learn, able to fit itself into every situation or new surroundings.

And if many go to school and college for years without achieving such a well-trained mind, it is also true that some who have had very little schooling are able to become educated without it. Though the mere fact of going to school does not give us an education, school is the means, or the tool, by which we may best fashion out an education for ourselves. It offers the surest and most direct road to the goal, a road which has been laid out, and improved from time to time by the most able men of each generation, men who have made a lifelong study of the educational needs of just such average chaps as you and me. If we fail to take advantage of the chances for education which are provided us — and Canada does not have to take second place to any other country in the matter of her school system — we are being unfair to ourselves as well as to the nation.

What is an education worth? There have been elaborate charts worked out, estimating in dollars and cents the "value" of an education, how much a high-school graduate, or a college graduate, is "worth" how much more he is liable to earn, during his lifetime, than the man with more limited schooling. And, indeed, in a world where it is necessary to earn a certain amount of money to secure the ordinary needs of life, this consideration of earning power is important enough. Certainly our chances of being able to earn a steady income are improved if we go on to high school and college. True enough, in hard times there may be many highly-trained men out of work, but their chances of employment are many times better than those of the un-schooled.

And quite apart from this money point of view, an education is of untold value. As Christians, we must remember that to make money is not the chief aim of life. If we can make money honorably, well and good, its possession may give us the opportunity and independence to accomplish other things of higher value. And it is a good education which enables us to enjoy many of the finer and higher things of life, and gives us the power to live more fully and nobly than we could otherwise manage to do.

In the ordinary contacts of everyday life, the man with a good education is easily picked out. In conversation he will not fall into the common mistakes of grammar and pronunciation which betray his ignorance to well-informed ears; he will be able to display knowledge of, or at least intelligent interest in, whatever is being discussed, whether it concerns art, history, religion, economics or some important topic of the day.

Education develops a taste for these things, so that the educated man finds no difficulty in keeping posted on such affairs as are liable to be discussed at his club or at the homes of his friends. He is at ease in feminine company, but is always a gentleman in every sense of the word, and as such is respected and admired by men and women alike.

Perhaps the surest way to tell the truly well-educated man from the one who tries to make a smattering of knowledge pass for great wisdom, is by his honesty. The man who has really learned the meaning of education is always modest about his own accomplishments. The ignorant man is usually the one who talks the loudest and longest, who is most sure that he is right and the other fellow is wrong, and who tries to give the impression that he knows all there is to be known about everything. The more we learn the more we realize how little we know or can ever know in comparison to the great sum total of human knowledge. And if all our schooling did nothing else but make us realize that one fact, it would not be wasted. The boastful self-satisfied man is a nuisance to everyone, and chests himself of every chance of true knowledge.

NEWLY-WEDS HONOURED

On Friday evening, June 28th, the hall was crowded with friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shortt (formerly Miss Hazel Lough) and tendered a miscellaneous shower. About 10.00 o'clock the gathering was called to order by Mr. J. F. Baker. A short programme was enjoyed after which the bride and groom were called to the platform and an address was read by Miss Joy Harding, as follows:

Springbrook, Ont., June 28th, 1940

Dear Hazel and Roy—

It is a pleasure to all of us to see a couple of young people such as yourselves starting out in life together. Tonight we are gathered here to wish you the greatest possible happiness and success on the road that lies ahead of you — a road which for most of us is not without some rough spots.

It is most fortunate for us that you are not leaving us and that you will still be able to depend upon you both, as we have in the past, for support in all the activities which make up our social life as a community.

We, your neighbours and friends, would like you to accept from us our most sincere good wishes for uninterrupted joy and prosperity in the years that lie ahead of you.

Signed on behalf of your friends:

Following this address the members of I.O.O.F. No. 429 presented the bride and groom with a silver flower basket. The presentation was made by Mr. Sid Mason and the address read by Mr. W. J. Barlow. Suitable replies were made by the bride and groom. Lunch was served and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. Following is the address. Springbrook, Ontario, June 28th, 1940

To our Noble Grand, Roy Shortt.

Dear Brother— We, the officers and members of Springbrook Lodge, I.O.O.F. No. 429, of which you are our Noble Grand, feel that we cannot let this opportunity pass without offering our best wishes and congratulations.

You have the unique distinction of being the only member of this Lodge who has taken unto himself a wife while occupying the chair of Noble Grand.

We therefore ask you to accept from us, as a token of the esteem in which you are held by every brother Oddfellow, this gift.

May you and Hazel live long and enjoy many years of happy wedded life.

SYNOPSIS

Len Rollins, tennis ace, is torn between two desires. He dreams of going to Europe with the Davis Cup team to help win the cup for America; and he is in love with the rich Grace Worthington, who is willing to defy her family and marry him if he will give up tennis. Fate seems to decide the matter for him when in a match game he injures an ankle so seriously that the doctors say he can never play again. He gets a job at Talbot's sporting goods shop — selling tennis equipment — and sends for Grace.

There was sudden activity at the train gate. Len's heart thumped against his chest. People were filing out. He scanned each individual eagerly, his heart making it possible for him to peer far down the runway.

And then he saw her! She was dressed in chateau, a shade particularly becoming to her unusual coloring. Over one arm she carried a light coat. A porter followed her, a bag in each hand.

Then she saw him! She hesitated for the fraction of an instant, as if realizing that her next step was the most momentous of her life, then came quickly forward.

He held both her hands in his.

"Oh, Len!" There were tears in her eyes.

"Grace, honey!" His voice was husky.

They walked, automatically, across the rotunda toward the taxi-stand, her hand tucked under his arm. Strangely silent, each wanted to speak, but, embarrassed, did not know how to begin.

"When I first saw you," he said in the taxi, "I thought you looked a trifle pale, but I guess it was just my imagination. You look marvelous, sweetheart."

She laughed, but her voice was nervous. "You'd be a trifle pale, too, I suppose, if you were running away from home to get married."

"So, it's like that?"

She nodded. "Yes, like that. They were furious. Threatened to cut me off without a penny and all that sort of thing. I told them it didn't matter the least bit. And here I am with two bags of clothes. But I'm not at all afraid, Len. Funny, isn't it?"

He held her close to him. "You'll never regret it, Grace. Never."

From his coat pocket he shyly extracted a little box, took the ring from it, boyishly demanding that she close her eyes. Pumbling, he slipped the tiny solitaire on her finger; allowed her to open her eyes.

They decided that the next day they would look for an apartment. Until something that was both comfortable and within their means was found Grace would stay at the St. Andrew. Len saw her settled in a room two floors above his and then explained that because this was Saturday he had to be back on the job at seven. She insisted on having tea and a sandwich with him in the drug store at the corner.

They sat on high stools at the counter and made plans for the immediate future. During Len's Monday lunch-hour they would dash down to the Municipal Building and get the license. They would go to the church not far from the hotel and arrange with the minister to be married sometime during the week. He kissed her and strode off toward Fifth Avenue and Talbot's, whistling merrily as he walked.

How good it was to have someone to kiss before going off to work! And to know she'd be there waiting for him, when he came home. Something to work for.

At five minutes after ten, having finished serving a middle-aged dowager who had beamed a constant smile upon him, Len took his hat from the locker and walked hurriedly back through the brightly illuminated New York City streets to the St. Andrew Hotel. Grace was waiting for him in the lobby.

The buses were crowded, but they finally got a top bench and sat close together, hands interlocked, the touch of the small diamond giving him a sense of possessiveness. Shoulders touching, they rode thus through the night.

When Len returned from lunch on Monday, Carey said: "There's someone waiting for you up front. Wants Mr. Rollins and no one else but."

Dan Worthington rose from a chair at Len's approach. Len stole himself. He would be pleasant, listen patiently to what Grace's father had to say. He offered his hand, said: "Hello, Mr. Worthington."

"Hello, Rollins," Dan Worthington ignored the outstretched hand. "You have a few minutes? What I have to say won't take long. There's no use beating around the bush. For some fool reason my daughter seems to have become infatuated with you. We can't persuade her to change her mind, but we're sure if she would consider the utter futility of the whole situation—"

"Futility?"

"Yes. You know she'd never be happy with you, Rollins. She's been used to such things as you never can possibly give her. Soon she'll miss them, then—" he shrugged. "I want to spare her that if I can. I quite appreciated what you're doing, but you must admit that it's all too hazardous and poor a life for a girl like Grace."

"She's happy," Len said quietly.

"She'll be even happier."

"Every girl thinks herself happy when she is in love. That's Grace's trouble. Of course I may be wrong. You two may actually be deeply in love and it may last forever. But I don't think so. I ask you to talk it over with Grace, persuade her not to marry you until — well, until after you've reached a position where you can take care of her as she's always been taken care of. Ask her to come back home; give up this — this gamble Rollins."

Len's eyes bored into Worthington's. "If you wish," he said grimly. "I'll tell you where Grace is staying. You can go to see her. We've already discussed the entire situation from every possible angle, Mr. Worthington, but the conclusion is always the same. We love each other. Somehow nothing seems to matter but that. And nothing in the universe, I'm sure, can change us."

"Nothing in the universe, Rollins?" The words were clipped, decisive, confident. "Not even — thirty thousand?"

"Nothing!" Hoarse, vibrant, and threatening.

But Dan Worthington was undaunted. Len watched, held speechless and immovable, fascinated, as he watched the older man's pen slide quickly over the check book. Without emotion Dan Worthington tore out the check, folded it and thrust it into Len's hand. Then he turned quickly and, disdaining the elevator, disappeared down the stairs.

Len laughed. "Why it was just like the movies. Yet here it was happening to him in real life. He could see the tabloid headlines: 'Wealthy Father Buys Daughter from Former Tennis Star' — 'Tennis Ace Sells Placette to Father.' Then anger transcended all else; anger that made him feel like lashing out, hurting, maiming, killing. He was glad Dan Worthington had gone.

Should he rip the check to shreds or first show it to Grace? He decided almost instantly to show it. He opened the folded white paper, looked at it for a long time. A tremor raced through his body, shaking it as a sudden draught causes a chill. The check was for fifty thousand dollars.

At dinner that evening in an uptown restaurant Len said: "Bet you can't guess who was in to see me this afternoon."

"Who?" The smile she attempted was thin. "Father?"

"Yes."

"I was afraid of that, Len. What did he want?"

"He wants me to give you up. Send you back to Easthampton. Thinks I can make you see things differently. He asked me to point out to you that, cut off from them and entirely dependent upon my twenty dollar a week salary, you'll soon become restless and unhappy. That our marriage is doomed to failure."

"And what did you say?"

"Not very much. Told him he could talk it over with you if he cared to, but that I wouldn't try to change your mind because you seemed perfectly happy with things as they are. Then he offered me money if I would consent to give up the thought of marrying you. If he'd been anyone but your father I'd have kicked him down the stairs. He pushed this into my hand as he left."

Len took from his pocket the small folded paper, passed it over the table to Grace, busied himself lighting a cigarette so that he would not embarrass her as she opened it.

"Len!"

"They must want you back an awful lot," he said.

She answered softly: "You could have all this money. But instead—"

He took the check from her hands, tore it in half, then into small pieces. These he put into his pocket.

"When we get back to the hotel," he said, "we'll put them in an envelope and return them. Now let's go to the movies."

Hard, driving rain slanted down as the cab rolled to a stop before the church. Grace raised her eyes to Len. "This is the last chance you'll have to kiss me as a single woman, Len. All I ask is that you will always keep me as happy as I am now. Remember, darling, you're all I have. Never, never stop loving me."

He kissed her, held her close, felt her heart beating against his. "I'll always love you," he said quietly. "Always."

To Len the minister's words formed a series of meaningless phrases. Occasionally he heard something reminiscent of other weddings he had attended. But for the most part the kindly clergyman's voice was only a vague and nebulous chant which would make Grace his wife, and him her husband.

But of Grace at his side he was acutely conscious. Conscious of the soft, irregular rise and fall of her breasts; her shoulder touching his arm; the faint aroma of the small bouquet; the perfume of her hair.

Grace's hand found his as they rose to their feet. He kissed her. And he realized that those two kisses — the one in the taxi and this one here in the church — were probably the most important ones of his life. He had arrived at the church free, a boy, he was leaving as a man, with all a man's responsibilities. A wife to look after, a home to maintain, perhaps in time children.

Side by side they made their way up the aisle. She was trembling. But the trembling ceased as they reached the vestibule. The taxi was waiting. They ran again quickly through the driving rain, this time from the comfort and safety of the church to that of the interior of the cab. Thunder growled and lightning reached down toward them. But they laughed. A little later the car stopped before the building which housed their thus-far uninhabited apartment. Len paid the driver. They walked through the hall and up three flights of stairs. The door closed behind them. They were in their new home. Grace said, "Well we've done it darling. We're married."

He nodded, smiled could think of no reply but to take her in his arms. She responded to his kiss as she never had before. Her body seemed to flow into his. He could feel her trembling; knew that he was trembling, but could not control himself. Her arms were around his neck her lips warm and moist against his, her body soft and yielding. "How I love you, Len!" she breathed. "So much. So terribly much it hurts — way down deep in me somewhere."

His hands, though he was unaware of it, were gripping her bare arms, his lips were bruising hers. He drew her still closer to him. There was a deep roaring in his ears, as if of the sea. Her breath came sobbingly.

The rain continued to beat against the windows.

Len was halfway through lunch in the late autumn when two young men entered, big coats belted about their bodies. One was short and chunky and the other very tall and slim. They recognized him even as breathlessly happily, he recognized them. Frank Wheatley and Don Clark!

END OF UNEMPLOYMENT

"There is every likelihood in my opinion that the expenditure of $700 millions and more, for war purposes, plus the very large amounts which the United Kingdom is spending in this country, will bring us before very long, to the point where nobody able and willing to work and not needed for military service will find an opportunity for productive employment." — Hon. NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

THE WEED OF THE WEEK HAWKWEEDS

King Devil and Orange Hawkweed, two closely related weeds are spreading rapidly on roadsides, old meadows and especially rough permanent pastures throughout the province, says John D. MacLeod, Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

Both are vigorous perennials with trailing branches or stems close to the surface of the soil. These take roots every few inches and one neglected plant may increase to a large patch in a very short time. The leaves of both plants are, for the most part, attached to the crown and not to the stems. Leaves and stems are extremely hairy and filled with a bitter milky juice. Due to the pungent flavour and hairy nature the "Hawkweeds" are not relished by livestock, although they will eat them when pasture becomes short.

"Orange Hawkweed" or "Devil's Paint Brush" as it is sometimes called, grows from one to two feet in height with orange red blossoms grouped in clusters.

"King Devil" will grow three feet or more in length and has a yellow blossom similar to, but less than half the size of "Sow Thistle."

The roots of both plants are near the surface and are therefore easily killed by cultivation. Individual plants should be pulled out and great care should be taken to completely eradicate all small patches before they become firmly established in areas which are not being cultivated. This can be accomplished by the use of chemical weed killers and at a very small cost. Salt and waste oil have also been used to eradicate small patches, and tar paper, manure and straw have been used to smother out patches.

One farmer reports that he has been able to control Hawkweeds on rough pasture by tearing up the ground early in the spring with an old harrow. (A disc harrow has also proven effective). Owing to shallow roots, both Hawkweeds may easily be pulled out when the ground is wet. The area then can be given a little covering of manure and seeded with vigorous grasses. This method stimulates the growth of grass and helps choke out the Hawkweeds.

Both these weeds are easily eradicated by cultivation. However, in any rough permanent pastures they spread rapidly by means of blowing seeds and trailing stems and are rapidly ruining thousands of acres.

CAN SOW BUCKWHEAT UP TILL JULY 15

Any farmer who has been unable to sow low lying areas or who has had crops drowned out as a result of recent heavy rains would be well advised to consider sowing Buckwheat at this time, says John D. MacLeod, Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

This crop, which may be sown as late as July 15th in many sections of Ontario, is adaptable to a wide variety of soils and will yield fair returns on soils which lack fertility. The usual rate of seeding is from 3-4 to 1-2 bushels per acre.

As a farm crop, Buckwheat is entitled to a place of considerable importance among coarse grains; as food for livestock, it is regarded as almost interchangeable with barley and may be included in the rations for feeding all classes of livestock; it is extremely resistant to the attacks of insects; it makes an excellent green manure crop when ploughed down; it improves the physical condition of the soil and cannot be beaten as a smother crop for weeds.

Weedy pastures and weedy hay fields may be broken early in July, worked thoroughly and sown to Buckwheat. If soil and moisture conditions are favourable the crop will be up in 4 days and the ground well covered with a luxuriant growth of leaves in a short time, which will assist greatly in smothering weeds.

Clean, well-graded, healthy seed and a well prepared seed bed are essential in order to obtain maximum yields. Mouldy Buckwheat seed as a result of harvesting and threshing under unfavourable conditions is not uncommon and should be avoided.

LAWNS NEED FERTILIZER

Probably the most common cause of poor lawns is low soil fertility. Since the grass is continually growing and producing new leaves, the greatest demand is for nitrogen, the element which is chiefly concerned with the stimulation of vegetative growth. The other two important soil elements phosphorus and potassium must not be neglected in the fertilizer program however.

It is recommended, states J. H. Boyce, Division of Forage Plants, Dominion Experimental Farms Service, that lawns receive two applications of a complete fertilizer each year, one in the early spring and one in the early fall. The spring treatment should be given just before active growth begins and the fall application should be made around September 1st. On soils of moderate to good fertility, the application of fertilizers containing 8-12 per cent. of nitrogen, 5-8 per cent. phosphoric acid and 2-6 per cent. of potash at the rate of 8 to 10 lb. per 1000 square feet per application is recommended. Fertilizers of such analyses as 10-6-4, 12-6-4, 10-8-6 and 10-5-2 are suitable for this purpose. Soils of low fertility which are particularly low in phosphates should receive fertilizers which are high in phosphoric acid, and which contain sufficient nitrogen for the production of a satisfactory top growth. Fertilizers containing 4-5 per cent. of nitrogen, 8-12 per cent. phosphoric acid, and 4-5 per cent. of potash are recommended for such conditions. Suitable analyses are 5-10-5, 4-12-4, 4-8-4 and 5-8-5. These fertilizers should be applied at the rate of 15 to 20 lbs. per 1000 square feet per application.

It is sometimes desirable to make applications of small amounts of quickly available nitrogenous fertilizers once or twice during the growing season. Sulphate of ammonia applied at the rate of 2 or 3 pounds per 1000 square feet is highly satisfactory for this purpose under most circumstances. Sulphate of ammonia should be used with caution on soils which tend to be acid, however, since it makes the soil more acid. Nitrate of soda has the opposite effect on soil reaction, and consequently is recommended for acid soils. Care must be taken not to over stimulate the grass by making too heavy or too frequent applications of nitrogenous fertilizers. It is important that the fertilizer be spread evenly. It is advisable to divide the required amount into equal parts and to spread each half uniformly over the entire lawn in opposite directions. The grass should be dry at the time of application, and the fertilizer should be thoroughly watered in immediately after application in order to avoid burning the foliage.

MEET BRITISH REQUEST FOR CANADIAN CHEESE

Following the statement by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, that, according to cable advice from the United Kingdom, the British Ministry of Food is desirous of obtaining the largest possible quantity of cheese from Canada this season, the Agricultural Supplies Board has asked provincial departments of agriculture to take whatever measures are possible to increase the production of Canadian cheese this season.

Exports of Canadian cheese to the United Kingdom are already being stepped up to meet this request from the British Ministry, the Board points out. Whereas the quantities to be shipped according to the agreement recently signed were 1,500 long tons in May (2,240 lb. per ton) and 3,000 long tons in June, the Dairy Board charged with purchasing and shipping the cheese under the agreement is making the provision to have these quantities increased to a total of 6,000 long tons by the end of June.

Under the terms of the original agreement, the British Ministry of Food agreed to take up to 35,000 long tons (or 78,400,000 pounds) of Canadian cheese manufactured during the season ending November 30. The Ministry's recent decision means that additional quantities will now be taken — as though they had been included in the above agreement, namely, on a basis of 14 cents per pound for first grade cheese, f.o.b. Montreal.

On the other hand, the Agricultural Supplies Board explains, there is no indication that Canadian butter will be required by the United Kingdom. Butter in Britain has been strictly rationed at four ounces per person per week, and British consumers have been encouraged to use margarine widely since the materials needed in its manufacture are available in large quantities in Great Britain. So long as plentiful supplies of these materials are available, margarine will doubtless continue to be used.

In view of these facts, it is the opinion of the Agricultural Supplies Board that farmers who can take advantage of cheese factory outlets for their milk should be urged to do so, in the knowledge that the resultant product will be needed for export. Dairy farmers and others interested in the Canadian dairying industry, the Board points out, know from experience the result on domestic butter prices of the accumulation of any considerable surpluses of butter when there is no export outlet in sight. More cheese and less butter this season should give more stable prices for factory milk in general.

Those provinces chiefly interested in the production of cheese for export have therefore been asked to have their dairy commissioners bring to the attention of the dairying industry and particularly the operators of cheese factories and creameries, the turn that events have taken, and to have their agricultural representatives and other fieldmen urge upon the farmers in their districts the advisability of taking measures to increase the production of Canadian cheese. Other provinces have been asked to see what action they might take to increase cheese production for export, or for the domestic market in order to release cheese for export.

SEES WIDER MARKET FOR CANADIAN WOOL

Increased use of Canadian wool in the manufacture of cloth for military purposes will result from changes in the cloth specifications of the Dominion Government, David C. Dick, Wool Administrator for the War Time Prices and Trade Board, predicted at the annual field day of the Ottawa Valley Sheep Breeders' Association at Old Chelsea, Quebec.

The specifications which are now being amended, had been "laid down largely by guess and largely by copying English standards built around New Zealand wool." The policy in the past had been "if it's different from the specifications, it's wrong." The change should bring about a substantial increase in the potential market for Canadian wool.

Mr. Dick emphasized the point that the purposes of his office were administrative and not to control the wool industry. He hoped the wool industry during the war would continue to be regulated by a measure of administration rather than by drastic control. The Wool Administrator's office was designed to be of service to the producer and to the manufacturer and to help in overcoming mutual problems.

Mr. Dick said there was no shortage of wool in Canada now, although there had been when was declared. Last fall it had been necessary for the War Time Price and Trade Board to prevent prices of wool rising higher than they did. Wool producers had been called upon to make a contribution in the national interest.

"Scarcity of supply should not fix the price during war time, should security be brought about by enemy action," said Mr. Dick. The Board wanted to keep a fair and open market for producers and to see that they were adequately protected.

Dr. Georges Bouchard, Assistant Deputy Minister of Agriculture, also spoke to the sheep breeders. He pointed out the possibility of a famine in Europe. Although he did not know what effect this would have on Canada, he felt that the traditional policy of the farmer maintaining as much as he could of everything, was generally a sound one.

NOT FINISHED WITH FUEHRER ARCADE

Though Adrien Arcand is interned and others associated with him also, the fact does not preclude further penalties, the Minister of Justice, Hon. Ernest Lapointe informed the House of Commons. "They are interned in order that we may know that they are safely in custody," said Mr. Lapointe. "They are being held to await any further proceedings or prosecutions to which they may be liable." Arcand was the leader of the Canadian Unity party, which had outwardly, aims of making Canadians totalitarian in the Nazi-Fascist mould.

FISH-SKINS PROVIDE SUIT OR GREATCOAT

Germany propaganda is making strenuous efforts to popularize fashions in fish-skins. Wool, cotton and leather running dangerously short, German technicians have been working on substitutes. Three special fashion institutes — one in Berlin, another in Vienna and a third in Frankfurt — have designers working out new styles.

Reproductions in the Frankfurter Zeitung show gloves and coats made from fish skins, shoes from flexible glass and suits from substitute cloth.

WAR VEHICLE PURCHASES

Answering a question in the House of Commons, Hon. C. D. Howe said the value of the war equipment purchased from the companies mentioned up to April 10, 1940, was as follows: Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd., Windsor, Ont., $765,562; General Motors Products of Canada Ltd., Oshawa, Ont., $272,572; General Motors Sales Corporation, Cleveland, $766,52; Chrysler Corporation of Canada Ltd., Windsor, $41,045.

WAR PRISONERS ARRIVE FOR RAPID DISPERSAL

Numbers of German prisoners recently arrived in Canada are now safely interned in various camps throughout the country. Broken up into small groups, they are so distributed as to present little danger to Canada.

It was to ensure that they would be beyond the reach of fifth columnists and parachute jumpers they were removed from England to Canada. Had they been released during an invasion of Great Britain, they might easily have constituted a menace. Scattered across Canada's broad spaces, they are no longer considered to present such a threat.

To those who watched beneath the ramparts of Quebec's ancient citadel, the war was brought close to Canada as the heavy clump of Nazi boots sounded on the plank platform of the railway siding and the uniformed airmen, soldiers and sailors were loaded aboard the waiting trains.

Closely ringing the entire pier area were 500 picked sentries, their bayonets fixed. Another set of guards lined the route from the ship to the trains.

First to be brought off ship were the civilian prisoners, many of them crew members of Nazi ships seized by the British Navy on the high seas. Next came the soldiers, sailors and non-commissioned officers of the Nazi air force, army and navy.

The majority of the navy prisoners were submarine crews. Included in the Nazi "panzer" units and parachute jumpers. The latter wore a distinctive uniform composed of slacks and jumpers made of a leather-like material.

Masks, issued for protection against their own gas while they were prisoners in the British Isles, were taken back from the prisoners when they landed in Canada.

Last to leave the ship were the officer prisoners. They were followed

Johannes' Prophecy

The following remarkable prophecy was made nearly 400 years ago by Johannes, an itinerant scribe, who was well known through middle Europe for his devoutness and apt sayings. The records in many French and Swiss towns contain writings and letters by him, but among them all not one is so remarkable as the "prophecy". Close students of political history will see a wonderful picture, part of which has been fulfilled before our own eyes and part is nearing fulfilment.

"JOHANNES' PROPHECY" (About 1600 A.D.)

Part of an extraordinary prophecy made by "Johannes" in 1600, quoted in a recent issue of "The Figaro" and copied from that paper by the New York Evening Standard.

Key to the Prophecy:
France is represented by a Cock. England is represented by the Leopard. Russia is represented by the White Eagle. Germany is represented by the Black Eagle. Austria is represented by the other Eagle. The Lamb stands for Justice, Mercy and Truth. Toward the year 2000 the Antichrist will manifest himself and his army will surpass in numbers all that can be imagined. There will be Christians among his legions and Mohammedans and savages among the defenders of the Lamb.

For the first time the Lamb will be all red. There will not be a single spot in the Christian world that will not be red, and red will be in the heavens, the earth, the waters and even the air, for blood will flow in the domains of the four elements at once.

The Black Eagle will throw himself on the Cock, who will lose many of his feathers but will strike back heroically with his spurs, but would soon be crushed were it not for the help of the Leopard and his claws.

The Black Eagle will come from the country of the Cock and will invade the country of the Cock up to the middle of it. The White Eagle coming from the north will surprise the Black Eagle and the other Eagle will invade the country of the Antichrist from one end to the other. The Black Eagle will see himself forced to liberate the Cock in order to fight the White Eagle and the Cock will pursue the Black Eagle into the country of the antichrist to help the White Eagle.

The battles fought up to this time, will be as nothing compared to those which will take place in the country of the Lutherans, for the seven angles will together pur in their censers on by their own batmen, who loaded their trucks and other baggage aboard the trains.

An interesting side-light was the way in which the Nazi prisoners studied the husky and bronzed Canadians who stood guard over them. While waiting in the piers to be marched to the trains, they constantly gazed at the Canucks. The smirking attitude of one party of prisoners rapidly evaporated into one of thoughtfulness the impious earth, which signifies that the Lamb will order the extermination of the race of the antichrist.

When the beast sees that he is lost he will become furious and for many months the beak of the White Eagle, the claws of the Leopard and the spurs of the Cock will cross the rivers over the bodies of the slain and these in places will change the course of the waters. They will bury only the men of noble families and leading commanders, because to the carnage made by the armies will be joined the wholesale death of those who will die of hunger and of pest.

The Antichrist will ask many times for peace but the seven angles who walk in front of the three animals defending the Lamb have declared that peace will only be granted on the condition that the Antichrist be crushed like straw on the barn floor. The ex-ecutors of the justice of the Lamb cannot stop fighting as long as the Antichrist has soldiers to fight against them. That which makes the decrees of the Lamb so implacable is that the Antichrist has pretended to be a follower of Christ and to act in His name. If he does not perish the fruit of the Redeemer will be lost and the doors of Hades would prevail against the Saviour.

The fight which will take place where the Antichrist forges his arms will not be in any way a human fight.

The three animals defending the Lamb will exterminate the last army of the Antichrist, but they will be forced to erect a pyre as large as a city for the bodies of the dead will change the aspects of the countryside as there will be mounds of the dead.

The Antichrist will lose his crown and will die in solitude and madness. His empire will be divided into 22 states but none of them will possess fortresses, armies or vessels.

The White Eagle by order of St. Michael, will drive the crescent from Europe and will install himself at Constantinople. Then will begin an era of peace and prosperity for the earth, and there will be no more wars, each nation being governed according to its desires and living according to the rules of justice.

There will no longer be Lutherans or schismatics. The Lamb will reign and the supreme happiness of humanity will begin. Happy will be those, who, escaping the perils of that period, will be able to enjoy the fruit of the reign of the Spirit and of the purging of humanity which can only come after the defeat of the Antichrist.

when a leather-lunged sergeant-major started to put the Canadians through their paces with smart precision.

Many Iron Crosses dangled from the tunics of the Nazi officers. One German aviator told a Canadian officer he had received his Iron Cross in the morning and had been shot down over England by four Hurricanes on the afternoon of the same day.

"Your aviators were excellent, but short on planes," he said.

MRS. HAYWARD IS GUEST SPEAKER

Over two hundred ladies representing Women's Missionary Societies in all parts of the Stirling District, gathered at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Tuesday afternoon for a rally and to pay tribute to Mrs. (Dr.) Hayward (nee Ruth Eggleton, of Stirling) and recently returned from China. Ladies were present from the following organizations: St. Paul's, St. Andrew's and St. John's churches, Stirling; Bethel, Mount Pleasant, Wellmans, Madoc Junction, West Huntingdon, Carmel, Foxboro and River Valley. The devotional period was directed by Mrs. Pidgeon, President of St. Paul's W.M.S., and Miss Grace Pitman presided at the organ. Mrs. H. C. Martin welcomed the guests on behalf of the Stirling group and expressed the honour felt in having Mrs. Hayward present as guest speaker. At the close of the address of welcome all stood for a brief moment as tribute to the guest of honour. Response to the welcome was made by a member of the Foxboro group, with which Mrs. Hayward was associated before her departure to China. A reading "The friends around the corner" was given by Mrs. John Moorcroft of West Huntingdon. Mrs. H. Elliott of Bethel contributed a vocal solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Wm. Heath. Greetings from the Eggleton appointment were extended briefly by Mrs. Clarence Fitchett and Miss Grace Pitman offered a splendid organ solo entitled "Alleluia Con Moto." Appropriate scriptural passages were read by Mrs. C. Macklin during the devotional period.

Address by Mrs. Hayward

The speaker of the day was then introduced by the President of the local organization. Mrs. Hayward, who recently returned from the mission fields of China, where her husband is a medical missionary, was born in this district and received her education in the schools of Foxboro and Stirling. She expressed her joy at being home again and her happiness at being guest speaker. While engaged in the work in China many letters had followed them from the organizations present. For them they were grateful and more than all they had been grateful for the sincere prayers of those in the homeland. Since leaving Stirling she and her associates had endured hard times and danger and "there was comfort always in the thought that back home people were praying for us." "It is well to remember," said the speaker, "that we are co-labourers together with God and you in the home church are at the working base of a great enterprise for Him." Describing her trip to China she said that it was the first time she had ever been far from home and out there where the greatest difficulty was that of mastering the language she found herself soon becoming really fond of the Chinese. During the days of bandit raids it had been ne-necessary to store provisions in hide-outs and flee to the mountains for safety. In the air raids untold misery was brought upon aged folk and children; innocent people were killed and maimed and the drug supply at the hospital was not nearly sufficient to meet the need. Many stories reach this continent of the horrors of the war, but much of the suffering is never heard of. After returning from a mountain hide-out after one of the raids the Church and all the buildings of the compound were found totally destroyed.

"The medical branch of Mission work had played a great part during the war days and each day found more and more refugees pouring in. In peace time China is a lovely country at this time of the year. The main agricultural product is rice which is grown and cultivated under ancient methods." She also described the outdoor trading bazaars which litter the streets of Chinese towns and cities. People have little use of the sidewalks when the merchants display their goods the customers walk on the road. The United Church had erected a hospital, schools for boys and girls, churches, and successfully-operated health clinics which were educating the Chinese in hygiene. Such work may be delayed temporarily, but it shall move forward again in the days to come, until all men know God." At the close of this fine address the National Anthem was sung and the ladies withdrew to the Church parlours for supper served by the ladies of the Stirling W.M.S.

Honoured by Gift
During the supper hour the guest of honour was presented with a lovely autographed bedspread by the Stirling ladies, with Mrs. Geo. Luery making the presentation and Mrs. R. A. Patterson reading the illuminated address. Expressions of gratitude to the local organization and the speaker for the fine address were given in brief addresses by Mrs. P. D. MacMullen, Mrs. E. Rennie and Mrs. H. Rodgers. Mrs. H. E. Hullin and Mrs. H. H. Alger, who both celebrated their birthday on that day, were honoured by all the ladies greeting them in song.

The following is the address read to Mrs. Hayward:

Stirling, Ontario,
July 9th, 1940

Dear Mrs. Hayward:—
— Or Ruth, as you are familiarly known to most of us — I have been asked by the members of St. Paul's W.M.S. to make this presentation, but before I do, may I say how proud we are to have such a worthy representative working for us in the foreign field. Seven years ago, when you left us, our feelings were mixed ones. We were glad to know that you had chosen such a high calling for your life's work. But we were sad when we knew you were going to be separated from us by such a vast expanse of land and sea. So, this afternoon it is with deep joy in our hearts and wide open arms that we welcome you back to the home folk.

On behalf of the members of St. Paul's W.M.S. I ask you to accept this autographed quilt. Mingled with the many stitches are the prayers of those who love you and trust God's richest blessing may continue to be yours.

TAX RATE WILL BE 47 MILLS

THREE MILL ADANCE OVER LAST YEAR — NO PROVINCIAL SUBSIDY — STREETS MARKED

At a special meeting of the Village Council held on Friday evening last the tax rate for 1940 was struck at 47 mills. This is an increase over last year of three mills and results from a raise of a half mill in the library levy, one mill in the school levy, three-quarters of a mill in the County rate and the deletion of the provincial subsidy of one and one-half mills. Slight decreases were made in the expenditures on streets, hydrant rentals and debentures and village levy, while the Board of Health remains the same. No notice has been received to date concerning the provincial subsidy and it is considered unlikely that any rebate is forthcoming.

Reeve W. C. West occupied the chair and Councillors Rollins, Thompson and Bailey were in attendance.

On motion of C. B. Rollins and E. G. Bailey, written notice of the special meeting was waived.

A tender on construction of a new sidewalk from J. C. McGee's residence west to the Library, also new approaches to the theatre and hydro office was tabled from Fred Elgie, local contractor. Mr. Elgie, who was present, outlined the nature of the work but Council deferred decision on the matter until the estimates were considered.

Letters were tabled from the Provincial Department of Welfare re direct relief, stating that the province would not contribute toward the support of fully employable male heads of families with one dependent, the same to take effect on July 22nd, 1940.

The Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada also wrote Council concerning the clearing of the railway crossing north of the Village on the Marmora Road.

Mr. Fred Elgie addressed Council relative to purchase of Lots 1, 2 and 3 on the south side of Elizabeth and east of Emma Streets for the sum of $25.00.

It was moved by Councillors Thompson and Bailey, that the Reeve and Clerk be authorized to consummate the transaction.

The following accounts were presented and ordered paid on motion of Councillors Rollins and Thompson: Sam Bowen, $13.00; A. A. Reid, $11.15; Thos. Francis, $4.25; Hydro, $196.94; Waterworks, $122.53; J. West, $30.00. (Continued on Page Eight)

STORM DESTROYS FARM CROPS

SPRINGBROOK DISTRICT VISITED BY DOWNPOUR OF HAIL — GRAIN AND TREES SUFFER

On Monday evening, shortly after six o'clock, one of the worst hail storms in the history of the district struck at Rawdon farmers, cutting a mile-wide swath which included the Village of Springbrook and farmers east and west of there. Hailstones, claimed by eye-witnesses to vary in size from peas to walnuts, completely mowed down fields of grain which had up until that time, held every promise of an exceptional harvest. Trees were left with their leaves in shreds, and corn, which has not yet attained a very great height, was left with leaves cut in shreds.

On Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock Harry McCutcheon, of Saginaw, Mich., who is visiting his mother, Mrs. Annie McCutcheon, of Stirling, brought a quantity of hailstones to the News-Argus Office, and explained that large quantities of these could still be found in the district visited by the storm, despite the rays of the sun all through the day. He also had a number of branches from the trees, showing how completely the limbs were stripped of leaves.

Eleven panes of glass were broken at Bateman's store in Springbrook, while other buildings suffered equally as much property damage as the hail stones were driven before a 50-mile gale. Two miles west of the village the Gospel Hall suffered the loss of 36 of 48 panes of glass, while at the home of Percy Mumby, 40 panes of glass were shattered.

As an example of just how freakish the acts of Nature sometimes are, in the vicinity of Bonarlaw, only three miles north, only a light rainfall was experienced, although in the vicinity of Stirling, and particularly in the Glen Ross District, deep ditches were washed out through fields, although little damage to crops is reported.

Crops in the hail-storm area suffered greatly. On the farms of Sidney Mason and Percy Mumby, west of Springbrook, wheat and other grains were levelled to the ground, and it is feared, are a total loss. For several minutes the storm battered anything which grew in the fields, and those farmers whose crops were cut off will, of course, be at an almost total loss, for due to the lateness of the season there remains no time in which to replant anything which will yield a money-crop by harvest time.

NEW FACTORY IS OPENED

RE-CONSTRUCTED FACTORY AND NEW MODERN EQUIPMENT INSPECTED BY MAKERS

Cheesemakers representing three association groups of the Centre Hastings Cheesemakers' Association gathered on Tuesday night in the newly-completed factory on the Frankford road, just south of Stirling. "Shamrock" factory, as it is popularly called, has been rebuilt recently, and the new building houses the most modern in mechanized cooling rooms, with all other up-to-date equipment. The former building, which was greatly in need of repair of late years, was built in 1884. It was torn to the ground and the new plant offers a much more pleasing appearance, both inside and out. Mr. Larry McAvoy is the present maker at the factory.

Messrs J. N. West and Morris Rose shared the duties of masters of ceremonies and addresses by Chief Dairy Inspector H. Sandwith, of Kingston; Dairy Inspector Owen McAvoy, of Madoc District; Dairy Inspector J. Murray, of Campbellford, George Pollard, Stirling, and James Irvin, of Belleville, were speakers on this occasion. Many helpful remarks and suggestions were received by those in attendance, which included many of the district cheesemakers.

BOWL AT KINGSTON

Mesdames E. G. Bailey, R. A. Patterson, H. R. Tompkins and W. J. Whitty attended a ladies' rinks tournament held by the Kingston Lawn Bowling Club on Tuesday.

STIRLING TO HAVE FAIR AGAIN THIS YEAR

CERTAIN LINES WILL RECEIVE SPECIAL ATTENTION WHILE OTHERS WILL BE CURTAILED

Stirling Fair Day is only eight weeks distant. The Directors are once more hard at work making plans for their annual show. Despite the stress of the present time, it was decided at a meeting of the Board of Directors held at the Agricultural Office on Tuesday night to proceed with plans for the event in an effort to give the customers of the Fair the very best possible kind of exhibition and at the same time make certain changes in the programme and prize list which would serve to the best advantage. Many other centres have met with disappointment during past years, and that, coupled with the scarcity of money for other than war purposes, has caused the cancellation of many of the fair shows.

It was the feeling of all present that to encourage the junior farmers in this, one of the finest farming counties in the province, the Stirling Board should continue to conduct the Fair, paying particular attention to the dairying industry, insofar as the exhibition of dairy cattle were concerned; the horse show, for which the Stirling Fair has always been particularly noted; certain types of hogs, and some poultry. The most popular and necessary classes will be given additional encouragement this year, while the less popular classes will, in all probability, be omitted from the prize list for the present. Last year, approximately $1400.00 was distributed in prizes. As is the usual case, much of the prize money from the local fair goes to those who specialize in travelling from place to place with the same exhibits, and drastic changes, which would tend to give the Stirling District farmers more opportunity to receive those prizes, would be welcomed by all.

The "Black-and-White Day", a feature which attracted much attention at last year's show, will again be held here. Holsteins, the breed of dairy cattle featured by this project will again be the major attraction. J. Thompson, L. Fair, G. Thompson, W. Fitchett and Secretary Mallory were appointed as a Committee for the revision of the Prize List. This Committee, to which the name of B. Blecker was later added, were instructed to add to or take from the prize list such articles or entries as they saw fit, and will submit the re-arranged list to the Directors at a meeting to be held on Tuesday of next week.

A canvas will be made for members again this year, and the following were appointed to take charge of this in the district: Sidney Township, E. J. Pyar and B. Blecker; Rawdon, J. B. Thompson and S. L. Lucas; Stirling, W. H. Patterson and Gil. Thompson. It is the hope of the Directors that the canvassers will meet with ready response.

Even though the successful operation of war activities is of primary importance, the farmer must play a major part if the country is to be successful. Therefore, the encouragement given by the Stirling Fair Board in offering good prizes for the most-desired types of livestock is commendable, and it is hoped that when next Fair Day rolls around, it will be the best in the history of the Society.

Those present at this meeting were Messrs J. B. Thompson, President; F. R. Mallory, Secretary; B. Blecker, W. H. Patterson, W. Fitchett, E. J. Pyar and Gil. Thompson.

APPOINTED REGISTRARS

Government officials have appointed the registrars an assistant registrars in the federal electoral districts for the taking of the national registration next month. Those for the riding of this district are as follows: Hastings-Peterboro — Grant Thala, Madoc, and James Irvin, Madoc.

Hastings South — Col. W. Ray Richardson and Fred Wiggins, both of Belleville.

Northumberland — T. Hall and Judson Kennedy, Cobourg. Prince Edward-Lennox — Wilfred S. Wilson, Napanee, Clarence Rutter, Picton.

COUNTY GROUP WILL FORM

LT.-COL. B. C. DONNAN WILL BE IN CHARGE OF BATTALION — HEADQUARTERS AT MADOC

Under the new organization of Home Defense, the H. & P.E.R. has again been honoured by the order that the regiment is to form a Second Battalion with headquarters at Madoc, under the command of Lt.-Col. B. C. Donnan. This second battalion will be on the non-permanent basis. This means that it will be organized much the same as the mother battalion was in the Militia, with the headquarters staff and company commanders on permanent. Other ranks will be enlisted for a period of thirty days' training.

The battalion will be known as a decentralized unit the same as the mother regiment was before the war. The regiment headquarters, under Lt. Col. Donnan, will be situated at Madoc, along with the Orderly Room under the charge of Captain George S. White, M.P. Five companies will be situated throughout the two counties.

"A" Company will be stationed at Bancroft under the command of Major Harry Leroy Babcock, formerly a Lieutenant-Colonel of the Frontenac Regiment; "B" company will be at Madoc, with Captain Newell Broad, M.C., M.M.; "C" Company will be at Picton, under Captain W. N. Grother; "D" Company is to be stationed at Wellington, under Captain W. Davern, and Headquarters Company will be stationed at Trenton under the command of Major Angus Mowat. The Officers Commanding and all the above mentioned officers saw active service in the Great War and all volunteered to go in any capacity with the First Battalion of the regiment last fall.

RED CROSS GAME

Although the attendance was not as large as had been expected, the softball tilt held at the Stirling Fair Grounds on Saturday night between the married and single men of the Rawdon Softball league, under the auspices of Rawdon Red Cross Society, was an enjoyable one. The play was even and in most innings it was hard to pick a winner. Darkness in the last couple of innings made it impossible to follow the ball and runs began to come in pretty thick. Gerald Broadworth pitched the married squad to their win, while Runnalls and Potts served them up for the losers. All three heaved good ball, the variety that is likely to win for any team, and it practically amounted to a pitchers' battle. One run in each of the first, second and fourth, with 4 in the fifth was the way it read for the single outfit, while their opposition got one in each of the first and fifth, with 3 in the third and 6 in the fourth, making it 10-7, which isn't too one-sided to be thoroughly enjoyable.

The lineup:
Married Men: Gordon Bailey, c; Bob Rennie, 1b; Harry Brown, ss; Gerald Broadworth, p; Burton Morton, cf; Bill Heath, 2b; Herb Higgs, 3b; Gordon Green, lf; Jack Armstrong, rf. (* Fraser relieved Brown in the 4th.)
Single Men: S. Delle, 1b; C. Thompson, 2b; Don Rodgers, c; E. Runnalls, p & rf.; McDonnell, cf; J. Burton, ss; Ab. Holland, lf; Don Broadworth, 3b; I. Potts, rf and p. Potts relieved Runnalls in the 4th.

FARM LABOUR SCARCE

The farmers of this section are harvesting a bountiful crop of hay under difficult circumstances. Due to the number enlisting in the army and the demand for men by industry engaged in war work, there is an acute shortage of farm help. This has resulted not only in an increase in farm wages at a time when many farmers are unable to pay them, but in many instances the women folk on the farm have been compelled to take a hired man's place in the hay field.

The Ontario Government has formulated a plan to register workers who will be available to harvest the crops, and farmers needing extra help should apply to the nearest employment office or write direct to the Department of Labour, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. But we wonder why the transients who pester the residents of the village for a handout from time to time don't accept jobs on the farm. They should either be compelled to go to work or be picked up by the police as vagrants. There should be no loafers in these days of labour shortage.

DIRTY PICNICKERS

Now that the weather has become warmer the holiday season is in full force, and picnic parties are a favourite pastime with many residents of the cities and smaller towns. Although the weather has hampered this form of entertainment, many of the favourite picnicking spots are crowded on holidays and Sundays. As usual there are many complaints heard of the old dirty paper, empty tin cans, broken bottles and banana and orange peelings left lying around. These testify to the filthy habits of picnickers who are so inconsiderate as to mar these favourite beauty spots. Many of the picnickers trespass on private property as though they owned the place and make themselves a general nuisance.

Owners of cottages or picnic grounds cannot be blamed for objecting when all kinds of litter is left lying around for someone else to clean up, and folk who do that sort of thing have no one but themselves to blame if they are deprived of a place to spend a quiet hour or two. If rural dwellers were to go into the city and stage a picnic on a privately-owned property a great howl would be raised and they would probably be faced with court action for trespassing. City and village dwellers should keep this in mind when they are spending a holiday in the country and observe the golden rule, "Do unto others as ye would that they do unto you."

TAX RATE GOES UP

Citizens of Stirling will be required to meet a slightly higher tax rate this year than last, following the striking of the rate by Council on Friday evening. This may or may not have been expected by the property holders, but there are slight increases in some departments over which Council has no control, while in other cases the increase is justified because of increased services. There is an increase of some seven thousand dollars in the village assessment bringing it to $450,236.99.

Owing to an increase in the requisition from the School Board of five hundred dollars the school rate goes up one mill over last year, when it was reduced one and three-quarters mills from 1938. This fluctuation is more or less expected as the attendance of county pupils in the Stirling High School is always likely to vary from year to year. Due to added expenses in the general upkeep of the Public Library, it was deemed necessary to increase the Library rate by half a mill. The County rate is also up three-quarters of a mill over 1939. In addition to the above-mentioned increases, no advice has been received from the Provincial Government relative to the one and one-half mill subsidy received last year, and until some notification is received Council is taking it for granted that the subsidy will not be forthcoming.

To offset the increases Council cut its expenditures on roads, walks and sewers approximately two hundred and seventy dollars, fifty dollars; fire hall seventy dollars, and other incidental expenses to permit reducing the village levy three-tenths of a mill. The debenture rate is reduced slightly, as is the hydrant rental rate, but the street lighting is up a little. This makes a total of forty-seven mills, or one and one-half mills higher than last year before the subsidy was subtracted.

What Others Say

ONE REASON

The greatest reason for the collapse of France's Army was the building of the Maginot Line, which induced a spirit of inertia and over-confidence. The United States should heed. The Atlantic Ocean will be no Maginot for America if Gibraltar ever falls to

The hard part for many a young man is to find a girl attractive enough to please him and yet dumb enough to

When one considers the small proportion of the total taxes collected over which Council has control, and the many calls upon the Treasury, the members of Council have done exceptionally well in keeping the rate at its present level. If one takes the trouble to compare the local rate with the villages of like size in the district, it will be found that the local taxpayers are in a most favourable position.

THE INCOMPREHENSIBLE BRITISH

The British are hard for some people to understand. You offer them advice when what they need is airplanes. Do they appreciate the advice? And when they are steeling themselves for the sort of ordeal their tight little island has not faced since 1066, when all the free world knows that its present line of defence against Hitlerism rests on the steadfastness of the British people, when that people needs the faith as well as the material aid of other free peoples — just then you advise them to run away.

And do they appreciate your advice? No; for the British are hard for some people to understand. It is plain that the British do not intend to lose the Old World. That they will pit themselves against a war machine which has overrun half a dozen countries in about as many weeks may be hard for some people to understand.

That the British are hard to understand in such matters is what makes them so hard to beat. — Christian Science Monitor.

HOW TO SAVE LIVES

Resuscitation methods should be continued for at least four hours or until rigor mortis has set in, according to a summer health bulletin just issued by the Health League of Canada.

Many lives might have been saved had rescuers worked on supposedly-drowned persons for another hour or two, officials of the League stated.

Simple methods of artificial respiration follow: The person to be treated should be laid on the ground at full length and face downward, with arms extended in front of the head. Then the operator should kneel across the body with one knee on each side of the unconscious individual. He should place the palms of his hands on the small of the patient's back just below the lowest ribs, and leaning forward bring the weight of his body to bear to press the ribs upward, thus helping to force out any water from the lungs. This pressure should be released gradually, and the operation repeated about 13 or 14 times to the minute, rhythmically and regularly.

Half a dozen or more people should be available to take turns in resuscitation. "Don't give up too soon", the Health League advises.

Before one begins artificial respiration one must be certain there is no obstruction of any kind in the air passage. The obstruction may be due to a foreign object, or to laryngeal spasm. Remember artificial respiration is useless unless it results in the actual passage of air in and out of the larynx. Always make sure that this has been established. A doctor can advise best as to this.

CURRENT COMMENT

There is no need to worry about the war. Just turn in and help in every way you can think of and remember "Britain always wins the last battle."

Huckleberries have made their first appearance on the market and prospects are that the crop will be the largest and best in several years.

Some disappointment has been expressed locally that the plan to bring British children to Canada to escape the dangers of war has been postponed for a time. Many local and district residents have offered to care for a number of these children for the duration of the war, but as things look at the present time this opportunity of helping out will not be afforded them.

This is the time of year when it is imperative that all weeds should be cut and destroyed to prevent them from going to seed. The Streets Committee is having the noxious weeds growing along the village streets cut, and it is expected that citizens will follow suit and have them cut on their own properties. If we are to keep our village attractive it will be worth while to check up on the weeds and see that they are destroyed.

Congratulations are due the Smiths Falls Record-News for winning the George Legge Memorial Trophy emblematic of first place in the commercial printing competition staged as a feature of the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association. The contest is open to only members of the association and papers from all parts of Canada competed.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

There are those of us who get a bit jittery when we read of the death toll taken by Germany in a day and night bombing attack on the British Isles. More lives are lost in the Province of Ontario over a week-end through avoidable accidents than in a day and night bombing raid. How careless many people become when they get behind the wheel of a motor car. — Carleton Place Canadian.

JUST HOW?

Just how the United States would prevent the invasion of Canada at any time within the next twelve months, if the British fleet were in German hands, is hard to see. By 1943 or 1944 the United States should be able to offer stout resistance to any seaborne attack against the North American continent. But that is three or four years away. — Edmonton Journal.

SAME OLD STORY

The wholesale paper houses are now hearing down on the printers who have kept them in business all these years. Some of the advanced prices may be justified, particularly on stuff imported from the United States, but not so when the product is Canadian. Unfortunately for the printers there is nothing to do but to pay. Printers have little or no chance to do a bit of profiteering for self-preservation. — Trenton Courier-Advocate.

THE SUNDAY VISITORS

If rural preachers and those in the urban places as well, want to know why church services are poorly attended on Sundays, they should read the country correspondence in the weekly newspapers, comments the Whitby Gazette and Chronicle. In one budget alone, published in this paper recently, there were no less than ten references to Sunday visitors in and out of a certain place. People who leave their communities on Sunday to visit elsewhere cannot attend their local church, while visitors from urban places make Sunday the hardest day for many country women, and this is one of the reasons why they cannot attend church. — Bowmanville Statesman.

THE SCIENCE OF TRUTH?

"Arithmetic is the science of truth," said the professor earnestly. "Figures can't lie. For instance, if one man can build a house in 12 days, 12 men can build it in one." "Yes," interrupted a quick-brained student, "then 28 will build it in one hour, 17,280 in one minute, and 1,036,800 in one second. And I don't believe they could lay one brick in that time!" While the professor was still gasping the smart reckoner went on: "Again if one ship can cross the Atlantic in six days, six ships can cross in one day. I don't believe that either; so where's the truth in arithmetic?" Then he sat down. — Winchester Press.

THE EDITOR'S BEATITUDE

Blessed are the merchants who advertise, for they have faith in their business, and their prosperity shall increase many fold.

Blessed is the woman who sends us a written account of a party or a wedding for she shall see the details and the names of her guests reported.

Blessed are they who do not expect the editor to know everything by telling him whenever an interesting event occurs in which they are interested, for they shall have a better newspaper in the town.

Blessed are they who get their copy in early, for they shall occupy a warm spot in the heart of the editor.

Blessed are they who do not think they could run the paper better than the editor runs it — yea, thrice blessed are they, because there are so few of them in a community.

WE'LL HAVE TO GET TOUGH

Penalties for treachery and aiding the enemy are to be increased. It is right that that should be done. Canada has been much too easy on those who would destroy the state that gives them freedom.

But it is not only treason that requires attention. Here are some sample penalties recently meted out in Canada to those who have sought to sabotage Canada's war effort:

A man in Montreal who boasted that he was in communication with the Nazis and Fascists was fined $50 and costs.

A service station operator in Sarnia, found guilty of subversive talk, was fined $10 and costs.

An ex-associate of Arcand, the Fascist leader, found guilty of subversive language, was given six months in the Ontario Reformatory.

A Communist who cut power lines in Ontario got two years in the penitentiary.

An enemy alien in British Columbia, found with firearms, was fined $25 and costs. He had just been released from an internment camp.

Another young man in British Columbia who hoped and boasted the Nazis would win the war was sentenced to the time he had spent in jail waiting trial, and then let off.

An Edmonton Communist, circulating pamphlets against the war, was given six months. One in Ontario got seven months.

A British Columbia youth, who boasted of his German heritage and said he stood by that country, was let off with a scolding.

Two prairie farmers who annoyed their neighbours by their pro-German talk, had their homes searched. "A small arsenal" was found. They were fined $100 each.

A naturalized German in British Columbia who tried to discourage recruiting was fined $50.

An Alberta German, found distributing Nazi propaganda, was given eight months' imprisonment.

Another who tried to discourage recruiting was given six months.

A Smith Falls man who said he would lead the parade when Hitler came to his town, got three months. A man in Noranda who spoke similar sentiments, was fined $50.

A Saskatchewan woman, German by descent, who was said to have boasted of her relationship to Hermann Goering, was fined $25 for making statements favouring the Nazi cause.

Each of these cases was reported since the first of June.

Most people will agree that the sentences were ridiculously light.

What would have happened to these people in Germany if they had been guilty of similar offenses? Some of them would have been shot; some given life imprisonment. All would have been severely punished.

Few reports come out of Germany now of penalties for offenses against the State. But here are some recent sentences in the Bohemia-Moravia, which is theoretically a free country although actually a Nazi protectorate:

A man who stuck up what the Gestapo called treasonable posters got 10 years.

Another who distributed leaflets was given three years.

A man who repeated news heard on a foreign broadcast was sentenced to six years.

A Czech who distributed "anti-German" badges was sentenced to two and one-half years.

These sentences were all light, compared with others that have been reported.

Germans who listen to any foreign broadcasts get 5 to 10 years in prison. For repeating something heard in a broadcast they are apt to be shot. For hoarding currency they can go to prison for life and for hoarding a little extra food they can be, and often are, shot.

The French people now come under these decrees. All Frenchmen have been ordered to turn in their radios. If they don't obey they have been told ominously that they will never again be able to disobey a Nazi law. In Holland, listening to a foreign broadcast can now get a foreign broadcast practice lies a happy medium.

In brief, we shall have to start getting "tough" with people who undermine our war effort. The war is too serious a matter to be fooled with. — Financial Post.

Royal Canadian Air Force

Air gunners and Air observers, unsung heroes of the first great war, have come into their own in the modern style of sky-fighting. A Royal Canadian Air Force crew works with all the close co-ordination of a football team in this new war.

The gunners and observers share the pages of Air Force gallantry along with the pilots. It is "all for one and one for all," since the pilot of today cannot carry out his mission without the aid of his gunners for protection and wireless communication and his observers for navigation, bombing, photography and observation.

The Royal Air Force innovation of a multiple-gun power turret mounted in an aeroplane has enabled keen-eyed gunners of the Empire air-forces to take deadly toll of enemy aircraft with flashing broadsides of a machine-gun fire like a salvo from a battleship's heavy guns.

The four-gun turrets make Britain's latest fighters and bombers literally battleships of the air. Just as the R. A.F. was first to arm single seat fighters with a devastating volume of fire from eight machine guns mounted in the wing, the power turrets now provide the larger planes with a deadlier weapon than their antagonists.

The air gunner is of tremendous importance in this war. Bombing and reconnaissance aircraft carrying the Empire's insignia on their wings make a formidable foe, as tremendous German air losses in recent massed fighting over France indisputably proved.

The Boulton and Paul Defiant, newest two-seater fighter, is essentially an aeroplane for the gunner. The shooting is left to the gunner enclosed in the power turret just behind the pilot's seat. Four machine guns each capable of a rate of 1,200 rounds a minute poke from the turret, which revolves automatically at the touch of a control. He can fire forward, upward, downward, on each side, and sweep a hall of nickel-jacketed death at the rate of 80 bullets a second at any plane crossing the tail of his own machine. As the line of fire crosses his own rudder and tail fins, the guns cease fire automatically, resuming their chatter when safely past the tail assembly.

Defiants, similar in appearance to the single seater Spitfires, mixed with Spitfire formations during the fierce air fighting over Dunkirk. Swarms of German fighters dove at the "Spitfire" from the rear in anticipation of easy victory, but met a stinging fire from the Defiants' four-gun turrets while the real Spitfires, secure as to defence behind, opened up with their eight wing guns at anything that lay in front of the mixed formation. One squadron of 12 Defiants knocked down 50 German planes in two days without losing one of their own number.

Big British Bombers and flying boats mount power turrets in their noses, as "blisters" on the top of the fuselage, and as a sting in the tail. Their gunners, battling against numerical superiority of the enemy, have made scores easily comparable to the individual tallies of the fighter pilots in Hurricanes and Spitfires.

But gunners, like air observers, have more than one job to do in the modern air force. The aircraft's crew must function with the team work and precision of a star formation flying squadron at a peacetime air display.

Gunners are wireless operators too. By their radio they keep in touch with ground control stations and with other planes in the formation. While war planes keep radio silent as much as possible to avoid detection, once the enemy is sighted, the radio crackles orders. The voice of the formation commander issues movement orders just as a naval commander marshals his vessels into battle array.

On more prosaic missions of co-operating with army and navy, the wireless operator relays to artillery batteries and ground commanders what those in his plane can see, spotting artillery fire and revealing movements of enemy forces, operators working with the fleet or on convoy duty relay information of an enemy submarine or other raider sighted.

Air observers become air navigators and air bombers when their trained eyes are not sweeping the world below, sketching maps or taking aerial photographs. As navigators, it is their responsibility to lay the course through fog and rain or blackness of night from the home base to the objective, and, once there, to lead the crew safely home again. They are also skilled in using the complex electrical bombight, lying prone with an eye glued to the bombight aiming through a glass window in the floor. A finger touch on a button close at hand opens the bomb ports, sending the missiles plunging to the target.

Arduous training goes into the making of air gunners and observers. Thousands of physically fit young men aged from 18 to 32 will receive such training under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan in Canada.

The prospective air gunners and observers report to a manning depot, where they receive uniforms and kit, learn to salute and drill for two weeks or so. The next step is four weeks in an initial training school for a more formal introduction to Air Force life.

They next go to specialized schools. Air observers proceed to one of 10 air observers schools for 12 weeks of intensive study of the intricacies of air navigation, reconnaissance work and photography. Then follow six weeks of bombing and gunnery school, of which there are ten, and then a course of four weeks at one of the two air navigation schools for advanced of an Army private. All the ears above this, will go to the Department of Finance as voluntary contribution to war effort.

"For some time past," he writes to the Minister of Finance, "a plan has been formulated in my mind, and realizing the grave situation the Allied forces are facing, I feel compelled to hesitate no longer in presenting to you my plan for your kind consideration.

"I will state at the outset that I am a naturalized Canadian of Italian birth.

"I feel, together with several of my fellow workers in the Canadian National shops in Winnipeg that at the present time I am of more value to

LIFE UNDERWRITERS GIVEN BIG JOB

The employees of Canada's larger industries have been able for some time to purchase War Savings Stamps and Certificates on the convenient pay-roll deduction plan. Many thousands throughout the country have already taken advantage of this opportunity to help Canada's war effort, and at the same time save money for the future.

The smaller industries have not been able to give their employees the same opportunity simply because no record of the smaller businesses was available either in Ottawa or in the Provincial capitals and the War Savings Committee has been unable to forward the necessary material to put the pay-roll deduction plan into operation.

Life Underwriters from coast to coast, have been asked by the War Savings Committee at Ottawa to make a survey of all employers in Canada whose names are not already on file at Ottawa. They have also been asked to call personally on as many of these employers as possible, and also to make personal calls on employers requiring further information when requested to do so by the War Savings Committee at Ottawa.

This work is being done by Life Underwriters, including those assisting in the work in this district, without cost to the War Savings Committee as part of their donation toward Canada's war effort. No salaries or commissions or remunerations of any kind is being paid which means that every dollar received through the sale of War Savings Certificates will be available for war purposes.

The Life Underwriter even pays his own travelling expenses, and a courteous reception is requested for him if he should call on you in connection with this work. He is glad to give his time in this way to help the employers and people of Canada in making their contribution toward Canada's war effort.

SLEEK SUBMARINE CHASER LAUNCHED IN CANADIAN WATERS

Without ostentation, in a war setting, one of a fleet of sleek Canadian-built submarine chasers was launched from an Eastern shipyard. While rain fell from dull skies overhead and while a couple of hundred grimy workmen cheered, the trim craft slid along greased runways into the St. Lawrence River. A handful of company officials, several of the Royal and Royal Canadian Navy's officers and a lone khaki-clad military representative were on hand.

Constructed of Canadian materials by Canadian craftsmen, the war vessel will serve under the ensign of the British Royal Navy soon after she is outfitted.

It was quiet formality, different from any peacetime launching, where according to sea tradition, a woman has the honour of naming the vessel. Rear-Admiral H. A. Sheridan, R.N., Admiralty representative on the British Supply Board, cut the white ribbon that sent the champagne bottle smashing against the bow of the ship. She knifed into the waters and he declared: "Normally we have a ceremony when we launch a ship. But on this occasion no name has been given her. I wish Godspeed to this ship and to everyone who sails in her."

Later he explained that contrary to custom a woman had not been asked to participate in the official christening, simply because no name had yet been decided on by the Admiralty in London. The likelihood is, he said, that she will bear the title of a Canadian wild flower, following the style of similar British-made submarine fighters.

Nearby, other chasers, which shortly will be completed for use in the British Navy or the Royal Canadian Navy lay silent while workers put aside blowtorches and rivetting machines to watch the launching.

OFFERS PLAN OF SACRIFICE TO AID WAR FINANCE

A naturalized Canadian of Italian birth has submitted to the Minister of Finance a novel plan to further free-will offerings to Canada's war cause. He is employed in the Canadian National Railway shops at Winnipeg and is voluntarily working for the pay of the country in remaining at work in the shops. However, because I am single and have no one dependent on me, I feel that it would be taking advantage of the grave situation at hand to continue to work at home in perfect safety, drawing a monthly salary, while others are sacrificing so much, I feel therefore that it is my duty to do as much as I possibly can to support the Government's war effort.

"Therefore my plan is to work on the basis of a private in the Army, turning the balance of my wages every month to the Government of Canada for the duration of the war. I ask nothing in return at the end of the war."

The writer of the letter makes further suggestion:

"In discussing this proposal with my fellow-workers we have come to the conclusion that, in all probability there are many more throughout Canada who could, and would, be glad to do likewise if the idea were presented to them for consideration. I have wondered whether a campaign to this end might be launched by the Government."

With the letter was forwarded a testimonial from the writer's employer referring to him as a "steady and conscientious worker willing to do anything that is required of him and even exceeding the requirements of a request."

Many willing workers have registered for work with the Ontario Department of Labour and are now ready for immediate employment. War Victims Safe in Canada

—Canadian Pacific Photo.

Innocent victims of a war in which their fathers are playing a noble part, these youthful evacuees from England arrived unaccompanied in Montreal after an uneventful journey by Canadian Pacific services. In Windsor Station, Montreal, the young Britons showed deep interest in the railway's War Memorial commemorating the death of Canadian Pacific soldiers of a generation ago—many of them fathers of the Canadian Pacific employees who are today bringing the youth of England safe by land and sea from the horrors of Hun air raids.

"And having found one pearl of great price, he went and sold all that he had, and bought it." — Matthew 13:46

RATING IT HIGH

Jesus said that the Kingdom of Heaven was like a pearl of such great price that a man was fully justified in selling all that he had in order that he might buy it. Whether or not we can fully understand all that is implied in His use of that figure, at least it gives us a most impressive sense of the value of that of which he speaks. Here is a thing, He says, that is worth everything else which life has. Having this, a man can afford to be largely indifferent about everything else. It is a tremendous claim to make, but evidently He meant it, if ever He meant anything. Do we agree with Him? Perhaps we are just a little ashamed to say, lest those who look at our lives would answer that they had not seen many signs that we did. Surely we ought to agree with Him, and our lives ought to witness our faith. We know fairly well that Jesus means His phrase "Kingdom of Heaven", and we needn't make any difficulties for ourselves over that. Is it to us the great, big, vital, all-important thing that claims our thought and interest and activity as nothing else does? If it isn't well then it must be that we are giving to lesser and smaller and meaner things what they have no right to claim. At any rate, we ought to face right up to the question that His great estimate throws at us. The matter would seem to be one that ought to have the most earnest and honest consideration.

The gods are round us night and day, And in their hands they carry gold, Silver and gold they offer us, Free harvest ere our hearts grow cold.

Gold and silver the gods display And yet, behind our backyard fence, We in our grimy corner sit And play at pitch and toss for pence.

CHAPTER III.

Synopsis

Len Rollins, tennis ace, is torn between two desires. He dreams of going to Europe with the Davis team to help win the cup for America; and he is in love with the rich Grace Worthington, who is willing to defy her family and marry him if he will give up tennis. Fate seems to decide the matter for him when, in a match game he injures an ankle so seriously that the doctors say he can never play again. He gets a job at Talbot's sporting goods shop — selling tennis equipment, and he and Grace are married. Len is eating lunch when two old friends run into him.

"Pappa Rollins, as I live and breathe!" Wheatley cried.

"How the hell are you?" Don asked, gripping his hand.

"Don! Frank! It's good to see you!"

They stood for a moment scrutinizing one another, their silence a bond. Then coats were thrown off and the three of them were sitting at the table, all trying to talk at once.

"Tell us, Frank, demanded, 'what have you been doing with yourself? Of course we know you married that rich Worthington girl—'

Len grimaced wryly. "It's not that kind of a marriage at all, believe it or not. She was cut off, you know, without a cent."

Len told them then of his experiences from the day he had played Clark at Alken and had broken his ankle. The other two young men listened attentively with much interest. "And so," Len finished, "I'm a happy old married man of seven months with a swell wife and a fairly good job."

Frank asked: "Don't you ever miss the old life, Rolly?"

Slowly Len shook his head. "No-o,"

"You mean to say," Don pursued, "that you never feel sort of tied up? Never miss travelling around the way you used to? You know — Bermuda, Berkeley, New Orleans, Europe...."

"Damned shame about that ankle," Wheatley broke in irreverently.

"Just one of those things," Len grinned. "They happen, I guess."

"Sure. But why did it have to be you?" Clark exclaimed. "Why not someone who didn't mean anything to the game? With you, Rolly, we could bring back the cup this year, I think."

He felt Frank Wheatley's gaze upon him, heard the chunky older man say, "You're right, Rolly, it was a good thing to happen to you. You're really happier than we are, more substantially happy, if you know what I mean."

"Yes," Len repeated, "I'm happy. And I know what you mean."

Frank said: "I'd change places with you in a minute."

Good old Wheatley! what a swell guy!

"Wouldn't you, Don?" Frank asked, turning to his teammate.

Don's eyes lit inquiringly on the older one's, read something there, nodded vigorously.

They talked then of politics, the possibility of war in Europe, of plays and books and many things. The hands of the clock spun around and at last Len's time was up. He had to go back. Back to Talbot's. To work.

He stood up and said:

"Sorry, mugs, but I'm a hard-working guy with only an hour for lunch. How about coming in to see me at the store sometime? Or the house?"

He gave them the phone number but knew they'd never call; they'd never have time.

"Rolly," Frank Wheatley asked, "could the ankle stand the strain of giving lessons? Nothing drastic. A kid. A rich kid. You probably know his old man — Dayton Richmond."

Len looked down into Frank Wheatley's face. How nicely he and Grace could use some extra money.

"Yes, I might give it a try, Frank. Thanks."

"Oke. Call Richmond tomorrow. He's in the mood. I'll get in touch with him this afternoon and tell him."

Len's mind remained in a ferment of doubt all the rest of that day. He knew Grace would be opposed to his going back to tennis even if it was just a matter of tutoring. But the money for each lesson certainly would add mightily to their meager income. With it they could do a lot that they had not been able to do before.

Surely Grace would be reasonable. Finally he decided to take the coaching job and not tell Grace anything about it. For Christmas he would buy her something really nice. Surprise her. She loved surprises. How her eyes would glow! Yes, he'd tutor young Bob Richmond, save the money, and give Grace the most beautiful Christmas present he could afford. Certainly she deserved it.

As to his arriving home late two evenings a week, he could pretend he was working overtime at the store. It was lying, in a sense, and Grace hated people who lied. Too, they had solemnly promised never to hide anything from each other. But this really wasn't lying — a white lie never was. And, after all, wasn't he doing it entirely for her?

Exhilaration flowed through Len as he pulled on white woolen socks, firmly laced the low-cut tennis shoes, slipped into flannels, drew a light sweater over his head. The feel of the racket in his hand was good. He bounced a ball, the gut humming as he stroked it against the ground.

Bob Richmond was waiting for him at court number four of the spacious Park Avenue armory. It had been arranged that every Tuesday and Thursday at six o'clock the son of the wealthy Dayton Richmond was to receive an hour's instruction.

Len took one side of the court, the youngster the other. For a time they hit the ball back and forth, young Richmond often netting the ball or knocking it out of bounds. After fifteen minutes of this sporadic volleying Len called the boy to the centre of the net.

"There are many faults we will correct eventually," he explained, "but you handle your racket naturally, and that's a good sign. Two glaring weaknesses we will work on first, before going on to the lesser ones. You stand with the front of your body toward the net when you stroke, instead of sideways; and you fail to follow through after making a shot. But we'll let that go for a minute. The grip of the racket is of major importance and we'd better make sure yours is right before we do anything else. I'll teach you mine. They're the same that four out of every five players use."

The next fifteen minutes were devoted to the backhand and the other grips that constitute a tennis player's equipment. When Len felt that young Bob had grasped these well enough he concentrated on the follow through.

"When stroking," he instructed, "let your arm go all the way around, or up or down as the case may be — but all the way. If I were teaching you boxing I'd say don't pull your punches. Do I make myself clear?"

"You mean, Mr. Rollins," the boy said, "that I don't keep my racket moving, that I stop it when it's gone only half or three-quarters around?"

"You read that somewhere?"

The boy nodded. "Bill Tilden had an article on it in the newspaper once."

"It's good advice," Len said. "You try to follow it; I'll help you along. And don't forget, when you stroke, always make sure your body is sideways, facing the net. All right now, we'll hit a few. And don't mind where they go, or how many you net. Just stick to the points we've covered. After a while you'll get the knack of it and the ball will behave."

Grace had waited dinner for him and they ate in a leisurely manner, exchanging news of the day. She asked whether he had had many customers. He answered that things had been rather slow.

"I don't see why they make you work overtime, then," she pouted. "Do you get paid for your overtime, Len?"

"No. Damn women's curiosity, anyway! 'That is, we don't actually receive pay,' he amended, 'but they give us a dollar for dinner. And we're going right out to spend the first dollar as soon as we get these dishes cleared up. We haven't been to a movie for weeks. I wish, darling, that I could take you to a play. I know very well you don't give a hang about pictures.'"

She smiled tenderly. "Next year, when we're rich, we'll be able to go to all the good plays, won't we?"

"You bet we will. And perhaps an opera or two?"

"Oh, Len," she breathed. "That would be nice." She clung to him. "I'm so terribly happy, darling."

He kissed her passionately. "And so am I, Gracie. Now get your hat and let's go."

"But the dishes—"

"Throw them out the window," he said smilingly.

During the weeks that followed every Tuesday and Thursday evening found Len Rollins at the armory court tutoring Bob Richmond.

The first dozen lessons the youngster took to the game amazingly well.

They were out on the wooden court now, two days before Christmas, and young Bob Richmond at thirteen was a tennis player any other boy might well envy. As Bob's tennis had improved, so, proportionately, had Len's bank account prospered. Twenty dollars a week for nine weeks had given much-needed support to a bank balance entirely depleted by furniture purchases. Back and forth went the ball — back and forth....

On Saturday Grace was buying a suit. And just the other day he had seen in one of the Fifth Avenue shop windows exactly the sort of fur scarf he knew she would like and appreciate — the soft, fluffy silver fox —

At noon the next day he went to the bank and drew a hundred dollars. Then he made his way directly to the shop where he had seen the fur piece. Yet, it was still there in the window, stretched out in all its soft, luxurious beauty. Five minutes later he stepped out of the modern red and silver interior, a long narrow box tucked cautiously under his arm, and walked quickly to the Metropolitan.

"Happy Christmas from the boss of 4-B," he said to Grace that evening, handing her the box.

Her eyes widened. "Oh, Len! Len, what is it?"

As naive as a child opening the box containing her first doll, Grace tore nervously at the strings. At last the cover was off, now the tissue paper hurriedly was thrust aside. She was overwhelmed, staring at the lovely contents — pleased, stirred.

She lifted the soft fur out of its wrappings. "Oh, Len, darling," she breathed, "It's beautiful! How did you ever—"

She draped the scarf around her shoulders. "It looks twice as lovely on you," he claimed.

"I think," her voice still quivered with emotion, "that I saw a card."

The silver scarf still draped around her shoulders, she took the card from the box — a plain white one on which was written simply, "Merry Christmas."

But what made it differ from all other cards were the two yellow pasteboards attached to it with a clip. "La Boheme," he said simply.

"Oh, Len!"

He smiled. "I suppose I'll have to drag the soup and fish and the ivory collar out of the mothballs."

"I — I suppose you'd better," she replied, her eyes starry.

This was Tuesday, one of Len's late evenings. If Grace walked slowly, however, and window shopped on the way, she'd not get to Talbot's too early. They could have dinner out. It would be fun; the change would do them both good.

When she arrived outside Talbot's at seven-fifteen it was dark inside. Probably, though, they worked in the back somewhere, or upstairs. She waited. No one came out. Minutes went by. Still no one emerged. Quarter to eight. Where in heaven's name was Len? He'd never been this late before.

Resolutely she went up to the big door and rattled the handle of the brass knob; knocked as hard as she dared against the window panes. After about five minutes a wizened old man opened the door.

FAMILIES OF TWO CUT OFF RELIEF

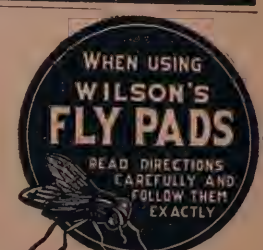

Because of improved employment conditions the Ontario Government has decided to discontinue contributing towards the relief of families of two. The ruling becomes effective July 22nd.

In a point announcement, Acting Premier H. C. Nixon and Welfare Minister Eric Cross said that "this Province does not propose to support anyone in idleness while this (improved) condition prevails in a time of national emergency."

The ruling affects families of two consisting of husband and wife; a widower with one dependent child, or the employable head of a family with one dependent. The announcement said that all municipalities will be advised of the change within a few days.

POISON IVY IS THREE-LEAVED

The best cure for poison ivy is to avoid it. The ivy may be identified as a vine-like shrub with compound leaves of three leaflets.

Its flowers are clusters of inconspicuous greenish white bloom, followed by waxy white berries.

In dry open woods it usually is found growing as a shrub; in moist places, it grows as a vine. Whichever way it grows its leaves are always in bunches of three.

Thrifty Wins

A "save your waste paper" campaign reminds one of the story of the four men who died on the same day.

One was an author. He left $5.

The second was a bookseller. He left $50.

The third was a publisher. He left $500.

Fourth was a waste-paper merchant. He left $50,000.

"Gone With The Wind"

Are you a "Gone with the Wind" advertiser?

Does your advertising get as far as the front porch only to be caught by a gust of wind and gone to clutter up your yard or your neighbour's.

This "Gone with the Wind" advertising fails in its purpose to get into the home, to be interesting enough to be read, to be convincing enough to sell the merchandise you offer.

"Gone with the Wind" advertising fails to serve you properly, and costs you too much.

In modern merchandising, time is money, and rapid turnover is good business. "Into the Home" Newspaper Advertising fulfils its purpose, works quickly, cost less because it sells more.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

ONTARIO LABOUR DEPT. TO HELP FARMERS

Farmers throughout the province are to have the co-operation of the Ontario Government in securing inexperienced but able-bodied young men for two or three months for haying, harvesting and general farm work.

In making this announcement, N. O. Hipel, Minister of Labour, intimated that the Ontario Department of Labour, had made arrangements to register all workers who would be willing to help harvest the crops which are vital to Canada's war effort.

Mr. Hipel pointed out that there was a scarcity of experienced farm help and asked all farmers who required extra workers to co-operate with the government by using the men available. It was suggested that farmers would have to exercise patience and realize that these men could not be expected to attain complete efficiency at first.

Farmers who desire extra men should apply to the nearest Ontario Employment Office or write direct to A. MacLaren, Director of Farm Training, Department of Labour, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Already, the Minister of Labour stated, many willing workers had registered for work on farms and were available for immediate employment.

SPRAY POTATO PLANTS WITH BORDEAUX MIXTURE

Late blight has been the cause of heavy losses to many potato growers in Ontario during the past two or three seasons, says J. T. Cassin, potato authority of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Fields were attacked during August and September and in a few days the leaves turned dark brown in colour. The crop which was not matured ceased growing and in many cases tuber rot developed. Proper applications of Bordeaux in spray or dust form at the right time (before fungi develop) will give protection.

During periods of frequent rainfalls and heavy fogs late blight fungi develop on the green leaves. Weather conditions and plant development determine when Bordeaux should be applied. Dust applications should be given late in the evening or early in the morning when dew is on the plants.

To have protection from late blight, applications of Bordeaux should be made before rainfalls rather than after. It is during the period of excessive moisture that light blight commences.

From the time the plants are six or eight inches high during new leaf development the plants should be kept covered with Bordeaux. This may require four to six applications, and gives protection to the plants and permits natural maturity which increases the yields and improves the quality with profits.

The Bordeaux Mixture Formula is as follows: Bluestone (dissolved) 4 lbs.; Hydrated Lime (spraying) dissolved, 6 lbs.; Water, 40 lbs. If an insecticide is required, add Calcium Arsenate or Arsenate of Lead, 2 1/2 lbs.

Liquid applications to give satisfactory results should be applied with power sprayers developing 250 to 300 lbs. pressure, applying 80 gals. to 100 gals. per acre.

The Bordeaux Dust formula is as follows: Copper Dust (dehydrated, ground very fine) 15 lbs.; Hydrated Lime (ground fine) 85 lbs.

If insecticide is desired, add 15 to 20 lbs. calcium arsenate or arsenate of lead and reduce the amount of hydrated lime accordingly. Twenty lbs. to thirty-five lbs. of dust per acre according to the size of the plants are required to give protection, Mr. Cassin states.

THE WEED OF THE WEEK BLADDER CAMPION

Bladder Campion, Cow Bell or Bladder Weed is a common impurity in clover and Timothy seed and is impossible to remove with ordinary seed cleaning machinery, hence the importance of preventing it from becoming established. An average plant may produce from 10,000 to 20,000 seeds. It is a deep rooted, freely branching, persistent perennial weed. The root is very long, thick and much branched. A good-sized plant will have a root over three feet long, at the top of which is a crown, bearing buds, shoots and branched flowering stems. The plant grows from one to two feet high often forming large clumps. The leaves are smooth and in pairs. Flowers are white, nearly an inch across, and borne in loose clusters which are often drooping. The calyx or flower cup is much inflated and bell shaped. It is from this inflated calyx that the plant draws its name.

The main object in eradicating this weed should be to prevent seeding and to get on the land as soon as possible after the crop is removed. Purchase clover and grass seed free from Bladder Campion seed. Watch for scattered plants. Eradicate them with chemicals or dig out the crown and apply a few handfuls of salt to the portion of the root that remains.

Immediately after the hay or grain crop has been removed plough deep, using a sharp share on the plow to cut off the roots, follow with the stiff-toothed cultivator with wide shares which overlap, cultivating both ways at intervals of one to two weeks. This thorough cultivation may be continued until time to sow fall wheat or rye or until late fall and again the following spring, followed by a hoed crop, a smother crop, an annual hay or pasture crop, a grain crop, fall wheat or rye. In badly infested areas it might be necessary to continue this thorough cultivation for a second year before the area is seeded down. This plan should eradicate Bladder Campion from cultivated areas. Livestock relish this weed and pasturing will prevent seeding until one is prepared to break and cultivate the infested area.

The use of chemicals is recommended for areas where cultivation is impossible, including roadsides, railroads, fence lines, gravel pits, etc. Rogue clover and timothy fields which are being kept for seed.

BUDDING FRUIT TREES

The season is approaching for budding fruit trees. The grower of fruits may have on hand seedling stock of suitable kind and size for budding to commercial varieties; he may desire to propagate a promising chance seedling or bud sport; or he may wish to bud a few branches of his trees to some good pollinizer. Then, too, stocks grown for double-working as a means of producing hardy disease-resistant trees may have reached the age and size suitable for budding. Whatever the purpose of budding; consideration should be given the matter some time ahead of the actual time to bud, states A. J. Mann, Dominion Experimental Station, Summerland, B.C.

Probably the most important consideration is procuring a source of good budwood. The buds should be free of disease and injurious insects, and true to name, preferably from a tree of known desirable performance. Although the principles of budding are age-old, and generally well known, nevertheless, if inexperienced in this art, it is well to consult a reference on the subject, or ask the local District Horticulturist to explain the various steps involved in budding, and give a demonstration.

Budding is usually done in July, August or September when the leaf-buds are well developed and while the bark is moist underneath and lifts easily. The stone fruits are ready for budding first, then quince and pear, and latest of all, the apple. Generally budding can be performed to best advantage just before the terminal bud is formed on the stock. The actual operation of budding calls for quick, deft, sure movements with the hand and knife, the result of experience.

According to progressive orchardists and gardeners, now is the opportune time to take stock of plantings and see what improvements may be made by means of budding. If new plantings over a period of years are contemplated, contact now with commercial nurseries, making known the probable requirements, will assure delivery of the particular varieties wanted.

NIGHT CONSTABLE NAMED IN CAMPBELLFORD

At a special meeting held Friday evening the Campbellford Council appointed Percy Bartley as night constable to replace William Normington, who left the force about a month ago. There were six applications for the position and on motion of Councilors Dorle and Burgess Mr. Bartley's application for the position at $70.00 a month was accepted. He will commence his duties July 15th, after having sworn in by the Mayor on Saturday for a month's probationary period.

ALL BEHIND CANADA

"Der Nordwestern", Winnipeg, June 19, 1940, in an editorial on French negotiations for Armistice said:

"The peoples of all races who make up Canada's population stand firmly behind Canada. No one, either by word or deed, should work against this spirit of unity. That is of national importance. Every Canadian who wishes to retain his personal and political freedom should know that this is the time for help."

General Motors' War Effort

Three factories of General Motors have thrown their weight into Canada's resolute war effort in collaboration with the War Supply Board and the British Purchasing Mission. This week an additional sum of $1,297,000 was appropriated by the company for factory re-arrangement, bringing to $3,000,000 the amount spent on plant adjustment since February. A stream of army trucks being driven away, daily, by men in khaki, enormous daily shipment of munitions units and tooling for production of component parts of the armoured Universal carrier (Bren gun) all demonstrate the effectiveness of the Company's industrial contribution to date. The new expansion program indicates the much higher production speeds of the immediate future when the larger units will roll off the assembly line every few minutes.

Harry J. Carmichael, vice-President and general manager of General Motors, today told as many details as censorship would allow.

"We have appropriated three millions to speed up deliveries and production rates," he said in an interview. "In addition to about $1,000,000 for rearrangements of plants and equipment, $300,000 is going into a new assembly line for army trucks and $485,000 more for special tools to increase facilities. The plants involved are at Oshawa, St. Catharines and Windsor. Outlay at one factory alone will total $1,175,000 this year. Tooling at another plant is being rushed 24 hours a day and seven days a week. I can't tell you what each plant produces."

At one factory, it was revealed, rates of delivery were stepped up in January, April and again in June. Another plant is delivering trucks at the rate of more than one hundred a day, working two shifts of men for a seven-day week. These are the drab coloured short-coupled 8-cwt trucks frequently seen in convoys on the highway, or big four-wheel drive gun-tractors, or sizes in between for other military transport.

General Motors is at work on enough military trucks to carry the whole Canadian army, although the orders were not necessarily placed by any one country.

Eight thousand Canadian employees in the General Motors plants alone are engaged in fabricating war materials, but the army of labour involved altogether reaches the tens of thousands in the mills and mines and forests and local industries where scores of millions of dollars are being spent for source material, keeping pay-rolls on the march all across the Dominion. Army truck bodies come from as far away as Winnipeg. Lumber comes from British Columbia and down east. The small contributors to the great automotive industry are working overtime.

Biggest problem to be licked was making tools and dies to turn out parts and material new to the industry. Men for this work are highly skilled, hard to find, but General Motors found them. Looking to the future, the company is tapping its apprentice system and the technical training schools for boys of top rating to go into industry as machinists or welders.

Thousands of motorized military vehicles have gone into service and have stood the test. Word to plant officials tells of strenuous trials in which trucks and tractors proved they could take it; trials in which the big gun tractors hauled timbers and artillery over stiff terrain or, having gone on alone, anchored and pulled vehicles into position by cable. The engines are all Chevrolets.

General Motors' part in building of light-armored carriers, Mr. Carmichael said, consisted of collaboration with the Ford Company of Canada by supplying component parts. In truck-building for the army there has been, up to date, a certain amount of standardization so that parts would be interchangeable, no matter whose plant built the trucks. Later on, there may be independence of manufacturing ef-

"Our example of service," Mr. Carmichael said, "has come from the top. The president of the parent corporation, Wm. S. Knudsen, left his job to take on the direction of the industrial war effort of the United States. Edward R. Stettinius a former corporation vice-president, is serving on the same board."

In Canada, General Motors' efforts are not confined to production of war material alone. The need for trained types of personnel, such as the automotive industry might be expected to supply, has also been considered. It was this factor which influenced the company in organizing the Voluntary Auxiliary Drivers' Corps for Canadian girls. In the past four months this corps has held 24 classes, with the co-operation of dealers and factory experts, and over 1,100 girls have already been trained for a practical contribution to the war. These have all passed examinations in operation and maintenance of motor vehicles. Before the year ends 60 classes in 25 cities will have been held and 2,000 girls qualified.

The part the company is playing would not have been possible without foresight and planning. It is now two years since military officials surveyed the Canadian plants and were assured by Mr. R. S. McLaughlin, president, that all the company's factories and personnel were at the disposal of Canada and the Empire when the occasion required.

Some idea of the complexity of the problems facing the Foreign Exchange Control Board is gathered from the fact that it took officials of the board 46 hours to explain fully the general broad aspects of foreign exchange control to 24 chartered accountants who were added to the staff of the Board some time ago.

VOLUNTEERS CALLED FOR H.&P.E. REGIMENT

ED HERE UNDER COMMAND OF LIEUTENANT F. HOUGHIN

Forty recruits are wanted immediately for one platoon of Headquarters Company 2nd Battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, which is a non-permanent Active Militia for service in Canada. This platoon will be stationed in Stirling, and the recruits will train three nights each week preparatory to going to military camp for two weeks, August 28th to Sept. 7th. Recruits are asked to apply at F. Houghin's place of business at once as the first parade will be held on Tuesday evening, July 30th.

The Stirling platoon will be under the command of Lieut. F. W. Houghin, who served with the Imperial forces during the first Great War and was connected with the first Battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment for several years, rejoining upon the re-organization of the Battalion in 1932 and leaving the service in 1937 with the rank of Regt. Sergt. Major W.O. 1.

According to the new defence measures, every able-bodied man in Canada between the ages of 18 and 45 will be compelled to take military training in the near future. By taking the military training in Stirling it is expected that those enrolled will be exempt from the draft when it comes.

Major-General H. D. G. Crerar, appointed on Sunday as Chief of the General Staff, answered affirmatively on Monday what he described as the "personal problem which every Canadian must face," namely, "Should I volunteer for active service?"

General Crerar, in a broadcast, based his answer on the situation Canada would face if Hitler achieved his ambition of conquering England and overthrowing "the front line of defense of this continent."

"In effect," General Crerar emphasized, "Should that egomaniac succeed in his plan, Canada would become the front-line trenches of North America in what would be the final single-handed struggle of this continent against the domination of the would-be dictator of the world."

"That, I assure you, is no panicky superficial statement of future possibilities, for in truth the technical, military and political means would then be at Hitler's disposal. It is based upon knowledge which I can claim to possess; it is a prospect which no Canadian who holds in regard his family, his country, his religion and his King, can possibly exclude from his thoughts. It is also a situation which we can decisively prevent if

CIPIENT OF WATCH AT GATH-ERING OF BETHEL FRIENDS

On Friday evening a number of friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Brady to bid farewell to one of the young men who has joined the C.A.S.F., namely Pte. Jack Vilneff. A short programme was enjoyed with Mr. B. C. Tucker as chairman. Readings were given by Mrs. Stewart Brady and Miss Mabel Kirkey and a song by Misses Irene, Shirley and Bernice Preston with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Jack Preston. A few short speeches were given and Mr. Murney Scott read the address and Jack was presented with a lovely watch. Pte. Vilneff made a suitable reply, thanking all for the gift. Following is the address:

Harold, Ontario,

To Pte. Jack Vilneff

Dear Jack,—
We have gathered here tonight to pay our respects to you and to express our best wishes as you take your departure for overseas to serve your King and Country.

We admire in you the qualities of character and loyalty to country that prompted you to enlist to serve the empire in a time when our bravest and best young men are needed to serve in order that the traditions of our forefathers may be upheld and that our homes and loved ones may be protected from an enemy who would enslave us in a most brutal way.

The thanks and appreciation of every member of this community is extended to you as you depart to render the service that is so vital to the best interest of every Canadian citizen.

We ask you to accept this gift as a remembrance of friends in this Stirling Community whose thoughts and prayers will follow you wherever you may go.

Signed on behalf of the donors.
"For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and The National Anthem were sung, after which lunch was served. All left wishing Jack the best of luck and a safe return.

every fit man among us, rising above self, offers himself for service and, as required, goes overseas to meet the enemy, and to defeat him as he strives to emerge from that unhappy Europe now so largely the victim of his aggression."

THE LETTER "B"

Since reporting that the letter "B" had been found on some oats in this district last week, the News-Argus has had several calls reporting the same phenomenon.

BOWL AT PETERBORO

One rink of lady bowlers attended the annual ladies' rinks tournament at the Peterboro Bowling Greens on Friday. Three games were played, with the local entry winning one and losing two. Mesdames J. Whitehead, F. Jackman, C. N. Baker and W. J. Walley, skip, were members of the rink.

TAX RATE 46 MILLS

The tax rate for Stirling for 1940 has dropped one mill since last week's paper was published and is now 46 mills. The cause for the decrease is found in the discovery of a communication on file from the Department of the Provincial Treasurer, stating that the provincial subsidy for this year will be one mill. Some months ago Clerk Luery received the said communication and placed it on file, where it was entirely forgotten until late last week. Property holders will welcome the lower rate.

MT. PLEASANT ENTERS FINALS

TAKE SERIES IN TWO CON-SECUTIVE GAMES — WON ON TUESDAY BY A 16-10 SCORE

Showing far too much power for their opponents, Mount Pleasant gained the second round of the play-offs for the Faulkner Trophy, emblematic of the Championship of Rawdon Softball League on Tuesday evening, when they defeated Bethel by a score of 16-10 in a six-inning contest. The game, which was played at the Stirling Fair Grounds, drew one of the largest crowds to witness a softball game in Stirling this year and the fans were treated to everything that goes to make a good ball game — snappy fielding, heavy hitting and plenty of runs. The winners were full value for their win on the night's play, outbitting and outfielding their opponents throughout.

Potts, who started on the mound for the winners, got off to a rather shaky start when his opponents combed his offerings for seven hits and a walk in the first inning for six runs, but he straightened away and allowed only one run in the next four innings, only sixteen men facing him from the second to the fifth, inclusive. Burton replaced him in the sixth and gave up three runs.

Bateman looked after the pitching chores for Bethel and turned in a fine effort. His support was wobbly at times and contributed to his defeat.

Bethel opened the scoring in the first inning when they shoved six runs across the plate on six hits and a walk. They were blanked in the second but added another in the third when Hart was safe on an error by the Mt. Pleasant third baseman, and crossed the rubber to bring their total to seven. In the last of the sixth they added three.

Mount Pleasant went out in order in the first but counted three in the second on Johnston's two-bagger and singles by Rennie, Potts and Brown. They continued their heavy hitting in the third, scoring four more runs to take the lead 7-0 on five straight hits. In the fourth they increased their total by three on a walk to Johnston and four hits. They counted five in the last of the fifth on hits by McKeown, Fitzgerald, Burton and Bert Jeffs and walks to Bill Jeffs and Johnston. Their final run came in the sixth when McKeown dented the rubber for the third time during the game.

Mount Pleasant — M. McKeown, 3b; Fitzgerald, cf; Jeffs, c; Burton, ss; Johnston, rf; Bert Jeffs, 2b; Rennie, 1b; Potts, p; Brown, lf.
Bethel — Bill Heath, 2b; Richardson, ss; Harrington, c; Morton, cf; C. Heath, 3b; Hart, 1b; Wright, rf; Bedford, lf; Bateman, p.

Score by innings:
Mt. Pleasant 034351—16
Bethel 601003—10
Umpires — Harry Rollins at plate; W. Jones, bases.

Seamen's jackets are being made by the Belleville Chapter from old kid or leather belts, gloves, etc. Anyone wishing to donate such leather for this worthy purpose can do so by leaving same at the residence of Mrs. Jas. McC. Potts.

Tea in Aid of Red Cross

The members of River Valley Institute sponsored a successful 10c tea in aid of the Red Cross at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh on Thursday afternoon last. The afternoon was spent in tying a quilt for the refugees, followed by a social hour. The proceeds amounted to $6.00. This is the fifth quilt the River Valley Institute has completed.

The executive of the Rawdon Township Red Cross met at the home of the president, Mrs. Geo. E. Thompson, Springbrook, on Wednesday, July 17th. After a short business meeting a shipment to Red Cross Headquarters was packed, consisting of 99 pairs of socks, 4 sweaters, 6 scarfs, 3 pairs knee caps, six new quilts, large quantity of refugee clothing.

Notice to Stirling Members

Thanks to the unsolicited efforts of Mr. J. B. Belshaw, the local Red Cross Society will hold its weekly meetings for the remainder of the summer in the Home Economics room at the High School. Entrance may be made by the door on the eastern side of the school. The first meeting at the new location will be held tomorrow (Friday) afternoon. The Red Cross workers will please take note of the change in the place of meeting.

SAW DEER

Messrs Lawrence Wilson and Gordon Clark, of Madoc Junction, reported seeing two buck deer on Thursday last. When seen the animals were crossing from Geo. Heasman's farm to Percy Craighead's. Several reports have been heard of deer in the Oak Lake district and probably those seen by the above parties are making this section their stamping ground.

STAY OFF! OR ELSE —

Constable S. E. Eggleton has requested that we issue a warning to bicyclists against riding on the sidewalks of the village. This is a dangerous practice and those who persist in using the sidewalks as a roadway are inviting trouble. The Constable intends confiscating the bicycles of all those found using the village sidewalks, for an indefinite period. The second offence will receive even more severe punishment. So, take a tip boys, and avoid trouble.

STIRLING OFFICER HEADS GUARD

MAJOR E. W. MATTHEWS IN
ING ALL COMBAT UNITS

Somewhere in England, prepared and anxious to give any enemy intruder a warm greeting with cold steel, several hundred Canadian troops guard an airfield that is home to one of the Royal Canadian Air Force squadrons now in England.

Lieut. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton spelled off a strong formation from the Canadian Active Service reserve units to guard and defend the drome on which the Army Co-operation Squadron under Squadron-Leader W. D. Van Vleet, of Winnipeg, is poised for action. Major E. W. Matthews, Stirling, Ont., commands the force, which is composed of men representing every combat unit in the Canadian 1st Division.

Aided by civilian labour, the troops constructed blockhouses, earthworks, and other fortifications around the field. Behind thick walls sentries stand to around the clock, ready to bring their automatic arms into play and to flash the alarm if invaders attempt to storm the airfield.

FLOWER SHOW TO BE HELD

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY TO GIVE PROCEEDS OF SHOW TO STIRLING RED CROSS BRANCH

At a meeting of the Stirling Horticultural Society held recently it was arranged to hold the annual Flower Show and Supper on Thursday, August 29th.

Permission having been obtained from the Provincial Headquarters of the Horticultural Society, it was decided to turn over the proceeds on this occasion to the local branch of the Red Cross.

To this end committees of members of both organizations have been formed to undertake the various tasks necessary for the occasion and it is felt that this can be made a highly successful affair.

The support of the general public is solicited and tickets will be sold throughout Stirling and district.

The 25c ticket will include admission to both flower show and supper. The prize list will be published in the near future. Watch for it and plan to attend this outstanding event.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tanner, Harold, announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith Elizabeth, to Mr. Algernon J. Edwards, Sudbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Edwards, New Carlisle, Ont. Marriage to take place the latter part of July.

CONCERT ENJOYED

That the concert presented on Tuesday evening, July 23rd, by the Stirling Citizens' Band was very much enjoyed was apparent from the large crowd present. M.M. and Front Streets were lined with cars and many fine compliments were paid Bandmaster Bell and the members for the excellency of the program. It is hoped that the performance may be repeated frequently during the remaining summer and fall months.

ST. JOHN'S S. S. PICNIC

Under the direction of Rev. L. Harding, Rector, and Fred Houchin, Supt., a very happy afternoon and evening was spent by the members of St. John's Sunday School, and their parents, on Wednesday, July 17, at Oak Lake. In delightful weather, swimming and general fun was the order of the day, and advantage was taken of the facilities at Bird's Beach up to supper time. Lots of good things to eat were arranged on tables by the ladies, and when "cookhouse" was blown a happy crowd eagerly responded. After supper came the sports and some keen and hilarious racing and competition of young and old resulted.

Prizes were handed out to the lucky winners and then it was time to pull out for home, but not before all agreed that the Sunday School picnic was a most enjoyable occasion.

B. O. LOTT HONORED

Friends of Byron O. Lott surprised this well known Hastings County veteran politician on the occasion of his 55th birthday on Tuesday evening when they gathered at his Sidney Township home to signify honour Mr. Lott and celebrate with him his birthday. Many prominent citizens of Belleville and the surrounding district were present to add their good wishes for a long life and generally felicitate the occasion. Mr. Lott was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, marking the occasion while the evening was spent in general reminiscence and toasts of good fortune to Mr. Lott upon reaching such an advanced age, while still enjoying good health and many friends. — Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer.

ERNEST HAMILTON

The death of a life-long resident of this district occurred in Belleville Hospital on Monday, when Mr. Ernest Hamilton passed away following a long illness. The deceased was born at Oak Hills and has lived all his life in the community. He served overseas in the first Great War. He leaves to mourn one brother, John, of Stirling. The funeral took place this afternoon with interment in Eggleton cemetery, and was semi-military, with a number of the members of the local Legion attending in a body.

PLAY-OFF SERIES IS TIED UP

GLEN ROSS TRIMS LEAGUE
THE PLAY-OFF SERIES GAMES

Pounding the offerings of Broadworth, star Springbrook hurler, to all corners of the lot, Glen Ross took the second game of the semi-finals in the Rawdon Softball League last night, by the score of 14 to 5. The game, which was played on the diamond at the Stirling Fair Grounds, drew a large crowd of spectators who were treated to a real ball game.

After going through the regular schedule with only one defeat, most of the fans expected the Springbrook squad to take the series in two straight. But they reckoned without the fighting qualities of the boys from the Riverdale. Re-arranging their line-up from the opening game of the series, Glen Ross played high class ball all the way through. Pyear, on the mound, never pitched a better game. He was on top of the batters throughout and limited the powerhouse hitters of the northern hamlet to six hits. He only issued two walks and had four strikeouts to his credit.

He also aided his own cause with a homer and a triple and scored two runs. In the field he was given glib support. Time after time the infielders came up with sparkling pick-ups to turn back the losers, while the outfielders gathered in everything that came within range. J. Armstrong, who patrolled centre field for the winners, was the fielding star of the game, hauling down several hard-hit balls that were labelled for extra bases.

Broadworth, on the mound for Springbrook, pitched good ball, but his speed ball held no terror for the Glen Ross hitters last night, and they smashed his offerings for 12 hits, including five homers and a three-bagger. He had six strikeouts to his credit and gave up two walks, both in the fifth inning.

Springbrook opened the scoring in the first when Ross Bailey poked a homer far over Armstrong's head in left centre field. They were blanked for the next three innings, but added four in the fifth when, with three men on base, Don Broadworth cleared the sacks with a homer down the left field foul line.

Glen Ross scored three in their first inning when D. Pyear got a life off first, H. Brown singled and G. Pyear cleared the sacks with his first homer of the game. They added one in the third when R. Pyear homered and one in the fourth on a homer by A. McDonnell. Springbrook tied the score in their half of the fifth, but Glen Ross sent ten men to bat in the last half of the fifth. R. Pyear led off with a triple, H. Brown and Hagerman singled, followed by homers by G. Pyear and McDonnell; Armstrong and Lavery were given free passes, to first and D. Pyear and R. Pyear singled to account for eight runs. Their final run was scored by Hagerman in the sixth.

The final game of the series will be played tomorrow (Friday) night at the Stirling Fair Grounds. Following last night's display by Glen Ross the fans are looking forward to a hard fought game and one of the largest crowds of the season should be on hand to witness it.

The line-ups:
Glen Ross: D. Pyear, 3b; R. Pyear, p; H. Brown, ss; B. Hagerman, rf; G. Pyear, 1b; A. McDonnell, c; J. Armstrong, cf; J. Brown, lf; M. Lavery, 2b.

PAY ON TIME

Citizens of Stirling will receive reminders this week that the first instalment of their taxes is due on or before August 3rd. For a number of years the first instalment of the taxes was made payable on July 1st, but for the last few years this has been changed to the later date to permit the payment of taxes on the current year's assessment. The village is required to pay a considerable sum each year for interest on loans to meet current expenses, and the early payment of taxes by the property owners will be a big help in keeping this amount at a minimum. Each property holder should make an effort to meet their payment on time.

IT'S REGRETTABLE

At this season of the year when Nature has provided a bountiful harvest, it is a sad sight, and an altogether too familiar a sight to see farm buildings neglected and crumbling, many fine homes with closed doors and uncultivated windows; orchards neglected and fields uncultivated. One sometimes wonders if the attraction of farm life will ever come back. We do not know that this section of the province is any worse off in this respect than other parts of the province, but it is a pity that so many comfortable homes should be untenanted and so many fertile acres uncultivated and becoming ruined by rank weeds. Barns and outbuildings soon show the lack of attention and, regrettable as it is, it is nevertheless a fact that there are many beautiful country homes falling into decay because there is no one to care for them.

NEIGHBORS

It is in the rural districts that one appreciates the value of good neighbours. The family 'next door' may live a mile away, but the rural dweller knows that they stand ready to lend a helping hand in any emergency. They will be there to comfort one in a bereavement, to lend kindly aid in the sickroom, to lend a willing hand at the sawing bee or the harvest.

One may not have many friends or neighbors in the country, but they are tried and true. The happiest moments of farm life are those spent in the company of the folks from the next farm or the next concession. A farmer once explained his philosophy of life.

'I have always lived in the country. I hope to die in the country. I have a good farm, a contented family and good neighbours. My neighbours are my best friends. I know that when I am in need, they will help me. They have stood by me in the past, and I have stood by them. I can lose almost anything I possess, but if I still have neighbours, will still have plenty.'

OBSERVE STOP SIGNS

The attention of the motorists of the village and community is drawn to the fact that certain streets within the village limits have been made through streets and others designated stop streets. The through streets are Emily, James, from Mill to Gore Streets, and Mill, from North Street to the eastern limits of the village. All streets approaching the above-named have been designated Stop streets and signs have been erected accordingly.

It is hoped that motorists will observe these signs better than some that have been in place for years on the highways passing through the village. The stop signs at the intersection of Highways 14 and 33 are frequently ignored and the marvel is that no fatal accident has occurred at this point. Motorists, and many of them are residents of the village, only stop if they feel so inclined. No one wants to see people get into trouble over traffic regulations, but it seems that there is no other way to impress on some that the rights of others must be protected. Observance of these stop signs means that both drivers and pedestrians are assured of adequate protection while using the streets of the village. Every driver should cooperate or else the Village Constable should bring offenders before a magistrate.

CURRENT COMMENT

Is anyone else in the world glad that you are in it? Then your life is worth living. If not, you can make it so.

From an exchange we clip the following. Take one natural born fool, place in a high-powered car. Fill the car with gasoline and the driver with some our government's beer. Let go. After due time remove the wreckage. Place in a satin-lined box and garnish well with flowers.

It must be disconcerting to Hitler to make one of his typical blustering speeches and have the British show no signs of fear.

Can you believe it? Yes, there were those who were predicting a crop failure a few weeks ago because of too much rain. The same people are grumbling today because they fear they will not be able to harvest and store their crops.

When every legitimate means is being used to raise money through war savings stamps and taxes to pay for Canada's war effort seems to us a very poor time to saddle the country with the added cost of unemployment insurance.

With the price of cheese better than thirteen and one-half cents per pound and hogs selling at eight and one-half cents per pound, together with the bountiful crops the farmers of this section haven't got very much to complain about.

Hometown boosting is infectious; it spreads fast. It often keeps a community out of a rut. Boosting gathers momentum as it goes along. It gives pleasure, satisfaction and experience. It broadens the vision, destroys selfishness and makes everyone see the brighter, happier side of community work.

In the neighbouring village of Havelock a campaign is under way for saving papers, shaving tubes, etc., to be picked up and sold in the interests of the Red Cross. The local Boy Scouts have raised various sums in past years by the same method and might be willing to undertake the work again for the Red Cross.

With the summer weather here the Citizens' Band has commenced a series of Band Concerts, to be held throughout the season. These concerts have been much enjoyed in the past by the music lovers of the village and surrounding community and we are sure they will be equally popular in the coming weeks.

Have you noticed the many beautiful flower gardens and flower boxes about the village. Not wishing to discriminate, we are not going to mention any names, but they all are very attractive indeed, and together with the many well-kept lawns add much to the beauty of the village. Visitors to our village, or tourists passing through cannot but notice the progressive-ness and community spirit of the citizens.

No reports have been received from local residents which would indicate that they are having any trouble keeping warm these days. However, July is nearly gone and it will not be long before August arrives and departs, taking with it the vacation period and heralding September, the month in which school opens and cooler weather arrives.

A number of municipalities will hold a plebiscite some time before the general elections at the end of 1940 to give the electors the right to decide whether the Council elected for 1941 shall remain in office for two years or not. Under the Local Government Extension Act, if no vote is taken the term of a Council will be automatically extended. A petition of twenty-five of the electors will compel the Council to hold a plebiscite on the question. It will be up to the electors of Stirling and the surrounding townships to consider the question and take the desired action.

"Sew your lips with khaki cotton lest you say what's best forgotten," is a suggested slogan in Britain's drive to kill rumours and defeatist talk. "Chatter boxes" are to be placed in hotels, clubs and homes. People who circulate rumours or talk indiscreetly will be invited to drop in a contribution for charity. It is pointed out that rumours and depressing gossip often are inspired by the enemy. It would be well if some similar action were taken in Canada to discourage the circulation of malicious rumours concerning loyal and patriotic citizens.

One of the leading editorial writers of the New York Times, Simeon Strunsky, maintains that a single copy of a weekly newspaper slowly absorbed may succeed in driving home a point more effectively than seven daily newspapers repeating the same point every day for a week. He says "With us the small-town and country weekly journal is more influential than the daily press. A weekly newspaper which is read and absorbed in the seclusion and comparative leisure of a small town or the farm is likely to exercise a greater pull on its reader than the daily paper, crammed with a bewildering array of reading matter and consumed amid the distractions of urban life." — Gananoque Reporter.

THE RADIO JITTERS

Merchants are talking too much about war and not enough about business. It doesn't speed up the war effort any to sit down in an easy chair and have both ears glued to the radio. — Farmer's Advocate.

SIGNS OF VICTORY

Readers of this page who are interested in signs are perhaps missing the best assurance of victory which has so far appeared. Remember we are at war to save Christianity and our leader is a man named CHURCHILL. And his first name is WINston. There is an assurance of victory for you. The CHURCH will WIN, the heathen hordes will be dispersed. — Trenton Courier-Advocate.

POOR SCOTCH ECONOMY

"Fergus spent $7,000 last year on its High School to teach the younger generation how to make their own living, and also spent $10,000 on charity and relief to those who seem to have forgotten how to make their own living. That doesn't sound like good Scotch economy." — Chesley Enterprise.

KEEP THE FLAG FLYING

In this time of stress when we are striving to show our loyalty, the least we can do is to proudly fly the Union Jack. In the last war we sang lustily "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall," but in this war how about hoisting a few flags to cheer our spirits while the boys do their bit to keep them flying. We see a flag on the post office, but what is the matter with having a flag on the town hall, the schools and other public places and why not flags on verandahs of private homes. With American and other tourists coming through it would give the town a much brighter appearance and it would have a stimulating effect on our loyalty and desire to help win the war. It would also give fifth columnists something to think about and would show them what we are fighting for.

IDLE GOSSIP MIGHTY BUSY THING

A great many people in every community acquire the habit of talking too much. They pretend to know much about the other fellow and his personal business affairs. Without making sure of their facts they proceed to pass out gossip. As soon as they see or hear of something with a doubtful or suspicious side to it, they proceed to make it the shaky foundation for their next line of chatter.

Whenever you are tempted to tell a bit of gossip you have heard, or whenever you see something that you do not just understand, give it this test before you tell it.

Would you be willing to write out, sign your name to, and pass around the gossip which you have heard or the suspicious which have been aroused in you by what you have seen or heard? Could you honestly say that what you are about to say or repeat would be right and that by repeating it you would not be injuring anyone and would not object to having it published over your signature?

If what you might otherwise say will not bear this test, let it alone. Let the subject drop right there. If you won't sign it, you are suspicious of it; so — Don't say it! — Port Elgin Times.

PROTECTION IS NEEDED

All over this province are motorists who have, at one time or another, suffered damages — through the recklessness and indifference to danger of other motor vehicle operators who, upon investigation prove to be financially irresponsible.

Such operators constitute a real menace on Ontario's highways. After their ignorance of, or indifference to, the traffic laws — and even to the rule of common sense — has caused a serious accident, they plead (and can frequently prove) that they have no property of any account, nor sufficient income to make worth while legal action against them to collect damages. Consequently, the careful motorist, who, despite every reasonable precaution, finds himself involved in a collision with one of these gentry, is left, in popular phraseology, "holding the bag."

A short time ago, a citizen of this town was the victim of such misfortune. As a result, his wife suffered a broken leg and other serious injuries. She has been in a hospital for four weeks and will be compelled to remain there for several weeks more. In all probability she will be incapacitated for some time after she is able to return to her home. Aside from his wife's physical suffering and discomfort, this Port Elgin citizen will have to meet bills for a substantial amount to cover medical attention and hospitalization. In addition it has cost him nearly $200 to repair his damaged automobile. Yet, he is unable to get a cent from the man whose recklessness — according to reliable witnesses who saw it — was the sole cause of the accident.

Why does the Ontario government permit this condition to continue? If any valid argument exists against compulsory insurance covering public liability and property damage, it has been concealed remarkably well. We suggest that this question of compulsory insurance is one that deserves immediate attention. — Fort Erie Times-Review.

DEATH TAKES CLARKE LAPP, OF BELLEVILLE

Royal Canadian Air Force

A preparatory school for the future pilots, air gunners and air observers of the Royal Canadian Air Force, No. 1 initial training school at Toronto, is operating at full capacity months ahead of the original schedule of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Hundreds of young Canadians have taken the four weeks' course of basic air force training at this school since it opened to a small introductory class late in April. The graduates have passed on to the next phase of their training either as pilots, air observers, air gunners, or instructors.

The initial training school at Toronto is housed in the renovated and adapted premises of the Eglinton Hunt Club. Two similar schools will be organized elsewhere in Canada. Lounge rooms in the old Toronto Hunt Club headquarters have lost their luxury fittings to become lecture rooms with bare floors and blackboards around the walls.

The banquet hall contains long tables and benches; the arena is a paved parade and drill hall. In this big building, young men spend four concentrated weeks in the processes which determine their aptitude for training as pilots, observer-navigators or gunners.

Elsewhere they spend much longer training periods, yet here is where they are observed most closely, far more than they realize, with the result that a lad's destiny may be determined to a great extent by his conduct during leisure hours. And here they all learn the basic essentials for service as members of an air crew.

When a lad enters the school, with a draft from the Manning Depot, not knowing whether he is to be a pilot, air gunner or air observer, he is first identified and entered in the station strength. He then gets an issue of bedding, is shown his bunk, documented into the school training strength and paraded with the rest of the new draft. Then the Commanding Officer addresses the newcomers.

His address is brief and friendly. He reminds the lads that they have been chosen because of their high calibre, and that because of this fact much of the routine is based upon an honour system. He points out that no barbed-wire fence surrounds the station, and that leisure hours are exceptionally free. Men can leave the school any time until 10.30, can obtain passes for leave until midnight. But he stresses that studies are heavy and a man personally determines much of his destiny by his use or abuse of privileges.

Thereupon the new classman enters into school life. Henceforth he rises at 6 a.m., must be shaved and ready for physical training at 6.50. Breakfast follows, with everyone reporting for work at 8.00 a.m. The day, until 4.30 p.m., is solid with studies or drills. Studies include mathematics, administration, duties of an officer, armaments (gas and small arms), etc. There is much route marching and drill.

During his studies, the student finds himself undergoing regular physical tests, even more rigid than the original medical examinations prior to his acceptance into the Force. Coupled with these, he gets lectures and demonstration on what is called sanitation, but is actually a sort of aerial medicine. He is told of things that happen to airmen at high altitudes, of what happens when they dive too fast to low altitudes, and a blackout is described. This is the momentary loss of consciousness which faces a pilot or crew if a plane dives or turns at terrific speed. He is told how to recognize approach of a "blackout" and what to do to avoid it.

All these things he learns during his four weeks at the school. Regularly each week he writes examinations as a member of either A, B or C Flight of No. 1 Squadron, or as a member of D, E or F Flight of No. 2 Squadron. As he leaves one classroom, another flight follows his flight into it. In this way every room is busy at every hour of the working day; no time is lost.

Then he reaches the stage when he gets a "trip" in the Link trainer. This is a full size aircraft cockpit, with stubby wings attached, equipped with normal flying instruments, and as responsive to control movements as a real plane. It is connected with instruments at a table where an instructor can sit and watch the student's progress. But the table is outside the Link room, so that the student is alone on his "flight."

The Link trainer is placed in the centre of a circular room which is painted to represent open country. There are mountains and bays, a storm at one side, open country on another. The objective is to teach the lad to learn how to "feel" the horizon level of his ship, and how to turn, bank, climb and dive.

els to a nearby research institute or clinic where he is taught the use of oxygen, what effect it has on the human system, why it is used for high flying altitude, and so on. He is also told of its dangers, if used to excess, and is given opportunity to have a whiff or two of it.

So, day after day, he travels the concentrated route of study and practical experience. During this period he does not know if he will be a pilot, an observer or a gunner. His enlistment allows his assignment to any of these three branches of air crew service. And, almost unknown to him, he is being carefully assigned by his instructors and officers. They call it "categorizing" the embryo officer.

At nights he may study or go out. There is considerable freedom in granting late leave passes. He is left to determine his own desires in this course. If he stands high on examinations, stays out late, and conducts himself properly, he is not criticized severely in general report. But if he stays out late often and fails in exams it is assumed that he is showing little interest in his future. He may be warned once or twice. But, to a great extent, he is largely master of his own destiny. As one officer put it: "He is judged on his life here; his future will be the sum of his actions here whether they be off or on parade, off or on duty."

There is plenty of wholesome entertainment and recreation for the student in his off-hours. There is a swimming pool under the management of a former Canadian swimming champion. There are Y.M.C.A. tennis tables and a library. Citizens flood the school with invitations to tea or dinner; theatres supply free tickets. There is regular Sunday church service, plus facilities offered by nearby churches such as socials, dances and so on.

There is much of high-class preparatory school atmosphere about the whole school. Discipline is strict on duty; officers are saluted and addressed with briskness and courtesy. But they smile as they return the salutes, and they try to get across an air of friendliness because they know better than the boys themselves just what it is like to be a long way from home among high-spirited companions who do a lot of kidding and ragging in leisure hours. If a lad seems to be too quiet or despondent, officers go out of their way to chat with him and the Y.M.C.A. officer in station quietly starts to work at interesting the lad in books, games or talk. Incidentally, the whole syllabus of duties provides one full afternoon a week for games such as bowling, baseball, swimming and so on.

Under these conditions the lads work out their own future. Then comes the eventful day when they are paraded before the command and told they are being assigned to flying school, observer school or gunner school. Ninety of every hundred want to be pilots. But the rule of the Air Force is "The best man for the job." "It's tough sometimes to tell a lad he is going to gunner school when you know his whole heart is wrapped up in a pilot's job," said one officer. "But we try to break it gently. We explain that numbers of each group are essential to our future success, that they will serve as good a cause. And we try to explain just why the particular lad has been categorized to so-and-so grade. They take it like men, usually."

MADOC FARMER FRACTURES NECK

Dr. Eagleson was called and the injured man was taken to Belleville General Hospital and it was found he was suffering from a broken neck and is considered in a serious condition. Hallstone is about 66 years of age and has resided in Madoc Village for the past six years.

RT. HON. R. B. BENNETT TAKES FULL-TIME POST

Former Prime Minister R. B. Bennett has assumed a full-time post in the British Ministry of Aircraft Production, it was learned on Friday. Mr. Bennett went to England in February, 1939, and while over there has been active on behalf of the Canadian Red Cross. It is not known just what position he is filling in the Aircraft Production Ministry, which is headed by Lord Beaverbrook, like Mr. Bennett a native of New Brunswick. Another Canadian helping the dynamic Lord Beaverbrook to speed up production of war planes is Beverly Baxter, formerly of Toronto.

Weekly News

If by chance there are yet some Canadians who do not fully appreciate first that there is a war on, and secondly that practically everybody in Canada is involved in the country's major job, the national registration of all citizens next month will remove all misunderstandings. None will escape the duty of answering questions, and most people will not fail to grasp the significance of these questions. Only a single reading of the nineteen questions is required for a good understanding that we are about to conscript not only the necessary men for our fighting forces, but man and woman of all descriptions for a special war programme for industry and agriculture.

Every man must tell whether he was brought up on a farm; how long he worked on a farm; whether he can handle a horse, drive a tractor, use farm machinery, milk a cow. Every woman must inform the government whether she can milk, drive a truck or car, handle horses, do plain cooking; whether she has had any experience in any branch of farming, be it chickens, fruit, general or dairy.

Then note this question: "Do your circumstances permit you to serve in this present national crisis by changing your present occupation to some other to which you are qualified? (a) Where you can return home daily? (b) Away from home?"

Here is one of the first definite signs that we in Canada are about to put into action those plans for regimentation which we have accepted as necessary in the fight to avoid permanent regimentation. It is considered extremely likely that well before the end of the year the Government agencies will be reaching out to this citizen and that, giving directions that they begin work in certain essential industries. And when next spring rolls around, the farmer will no longer be wondering where he is going to find his hired help for the extra acreage he is pledged to work.

Further tightening of war regulations is observed in the amendment of the budget resolutions at Ottawa under which the War Time Prices and Trade Board is given unlimited policing power, and assumes full responsibility for seeing that no one in Canada take advantage of the 10 per cent. War Exchange Tax to be levied on all goods brought in to Canada from other countries. It will be the duty of the Board to see that all importers, wholesalers and retail merchants do not increase the price of the goods by an amount greater than any justified by any increase in cost, arising from such tax. Any person who takes advantage of the tax to increase prices unduly may have an excise tax up to 10 per cent. imposed on all or any of his goods in which he deals, and become subject to other drastic punishment.

Many friends of Premier Mitchell Hepburn, who wishes him well during his recent illness and are now glad to see him back in harness in Queen's Park, are also praying that he will not revert to his former tactics of sniping at the central war effort being made at Ottawa. Healthy criticism from the Opposition at Ottawa is one thing, but a battle between a province and the federal authorities as to division of responsibility in these war days is something else.

The murder in cold blood of a decent Canadian recruit, 26 years of age, at the training camp at Niagara Falls on Sunday, July 14th, calls for the earnest attention of the authorities at Ottawa. The man charged with the slaying spent thirteen years of his life in the penitentiary and the reformatory.

It is reasonable to assume that young men joining up for service should not be compelled to associate with the criminally minded. While great care is exercised in medical tests for admission into the army, it would appear to be equally essential that applicants of bad moral character and criminal tendencies should be declared ineligible for enlistment.

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association, the question of tax exemption will be a lively one. It is pointed out that in Toronto alone, exemptions are as much as the whole assessment in Hamilton. Comparatively speaking, similar conditions exist throughout Ontario. A dead set will be made on public utilities. Some content that these utilities should be taxed, as they come into competition with private capital called upon to provide for high taxes. Public utilities these critics hold, should pay the same proportion as other businesses, and those who use them should contribute.

If a kitchen knife or fork comes loose in the handle, fill the opening in the handle with powdered resin. Then heat the handle end of the knife or fork and force it into the handle opening. Tie a string around it and allow it to remain until dry.

GORDON ROBERTSON CROWN ATTORNEY

By order-in-Council of the Ontario Legislature, S. Gordon Robertson, Belleville barrister, has been named as Crown Attorney for the County of Hastings for the duration of the war. The appointment of Mr. Robertson to this important law enforcing and prosecuting post was necessary following the calling for military duty of Lieut. Col. B. C. Donnan, K.C., who was appointed Commanding Officer of the 2nd Battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment recently.

Before taking up residence and practicing in Belleville two years ago, Crown Attorney Robertson was connected with one of the largest law firms in Western Ontario, with offices in London and Windsor.

ARTHUR L. HILL IS NEW D.D.G.M.

VICTIM OF FRAUD

A resident of Frankford was the victim of a confidence man in Toronto early this morning and the fact that a hoodwinking had taken place was not discovered until recently. The game is an entirely new angle in taking in the unsuspecting. Everyone has heard how bogus radio licenses have been sold at one time or another throughout Canada. In this case it was a bogus driver's permit. It seems that on requesting a taxi driver to proceed to the coldest office issuing car licenses the caddy complied with the request and drove his fare to the office of a clever gang of crooks. They sold a permit (that is a slip of paper resembling a permit) after giving the buyer a driving test and all was serene as far as the purchaser was concerned. Everything went well, and the underhand act might never have been noticed, until the person carrying this phoney permit was involved in an automobile accident.

Investigation took place and no record was in the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Parliament Buildings that a lic-

It Makes a Nicer Cool Drink

One had ever been purchased. The money had been pocketed and the hens had flown the coop. As the driver's permit had been issued early in the spring and discovery just taking place no trace could be found of the perpetrators of this crime. — Frankford Advocate.

JUNIOR FARM BOYS AND GIRLS RAISING AMBULANCE FUND

Junior Farmers and Junior Farm Women are not only doing an excellent job on the farms of Ontario, but they have already subscribed $375 toward the $1,750 needed to provide an ambulance for the Red Cross Society, states A. H. Martin, Assistant Director of Agricultural Representatives, Ontario Department of Agriculture, who is in charge of the fund.

The suggestion that Junior Farmers and Junior Farm Women purchase an ambulance for the Red Cross was first made in the June issue of the "Junior Farmer News" which goes to all Junior farm organizations each month from the Agricultural Representative Branch, and was enthusiastically received by the Juniors.

All cheques and money orders should be forwarded to Mr. Martin, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto, and made in favour of the Junior Farmer and Junior Farm Women Ambulance Fund. No contribution will be too large and none too small, Mr. Martin states. It is expected that every Junior Farm Organization in the Province will contribute to the fund.

The ambulance, a standard, fully-equipped, four-bed vehicle, will be purchased through the Red Cross and will carry a name plate indicative of the Junior Farmers and Junior Farm Women.

HUTCHEON — WALLACE

A pretty wedding was solemnized at "Hillside" the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wallace, Rawdon township, when their elder daughter, Edith Margaret, became the bride of Malcolm William Hutcheon, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hutcheon, Seymour township, Rev. M. E. R. Boudreau, D.D., officiated and was assisted by Rev. D. A. McKenzie. The ceremony took place beneath an arch of evergreens and roses. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a frock of white mousseline de soie fashioned in princess lines with short jacket and her embroidered veil fell from a halo of pleated tulle and orange blossoms. She carried Briar Cliff roses and baby's breath.

Miss Edna Wallace was her sister's only attendant, and she chose a becoming turquoise blue sheer over taffeta with pink halo hat, and carried Tailsman roses and baby's breath. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Howard Hutcheon.

During the signing of the register Miss Doris Randle sang "I love you truly," accompanied at the piano by Miss Marion Nichol, of Oshawa.

After the wedding Mr. Ernest Thain, cousin of the bride, ushered the guests, numbering 65, to the living room, which was beautifully decorated in pink and white, where the wedding dinner was served by the Misses Thelma Ketcheson, Springbrook; Alma Nichol, Malone; Evelyn Todd, Campbellford; Guelda Dunk, English Line; Thelma Wallace, Burnbrae, and Audrey Cassan, Toronto.

The bride's mother mother received the guests in a gown of navy sheer with white accessories and corsage of roses and bouvardia, while Mrs. Hutcheon, the groom's mother, was in blue crepe with white accessories and corsage of roses Gaillardia.

Later the bride and groom left amid showers of good wishes and confetti on a wedding trip to the Maritime Provinces, the bride travelling in a frock of Queen's Blue crepe with lace packet, light champagne flannel coat, with white accessories.

Upon their return they will reside at Beaverton, Ontario, where the groom is on the teaching staff of the Continuation School.

MRS. ANNIE WOOD

The funeral service of the late Mrs. Annie Wood was held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. Jones, in Stirling, to St. Paul's United Church on Friday afternoon, July 12th, conducted by Rev. A. M. Lavery, who spoke with sincere appreciation of her long and devoted Christian life.

Born in Huntingdon Township ninety years ago last November, the daughter of the late Wm. Collins and Mary George, she was the last surviving member of her family. Two sisters (Mary) Mrs. E. Langman, and (Ellen) Mrs. James R. Clarke, passed away many years ago. She was a half-sister of the late Mr. Hector Wood, and of Mr. John G. Wood, of Ivanhoe, whose death occurred in March last. Mrs. Wood was married first to Mr. John Arthurs and the many years of their home life in Stirling brought them many warm friendships in their association with the activities of the community and church life. In the Sunday School she was for many years teacher of the Young Men's Bible Class. Mr. Arthurs died in 1909 and some years later, she was married to Mr. Joseph Wood, of Ivanhoe, where they were faithful and active members of Beulah Church. After the death of Mr. Wood, Mrs. Wood came again to Stirling and as long as her health permitted, continued her active interest in community and church life.

Left to mourn her passing are one daughter, Mrs. W. Jones, of Stirling, who before her marriage was Hattie Arthurs, and her granddaughters, Mrs. Thelma Tulloch, Mrs. James Palmer and Mrs. Wm. Mastin.

Surviving are also her step-daughters, Mrs. John Fox, of Belleville, and Mrs. George Reid, of Peterboro; also several nephews and nieces.

BRIDE AND GROOM ARE SHOWERED BY FRIENDS

On Tuesday evening friends and relatives of Ivanhoe and Minto districts gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hagerman at a shower. The Ivanhoe friends gave miscellaneous presents while the Minto district presented Mr. and Mrs. Hagerman with a beautiful studio couch. The large crowd was accommodated on the spacious lawn which was well lighted with gas lanterns. The bride and groom were given seats of honour on the veranda. Rev. S. Delye, who was Master of Ceremonies, called the gathering to order and presented a well-prepared program during which Miss Doris Twiddy gave a solo, a piano duet by Misses Hilda Kilpatrick and Phyllis Twiddy. Mr. Murney Johnston then read the address for the Young People's Union and Lorne and Margaret were presented with a handsome mirror. Miss Mae Saries then favoured the gathering with a solo; a reading by Miss Betty Haggerty, "There'll always be an England". An address by Miss Hilda Kilpatrick was followed by a duet by Irene and Gwen Ray and a comic solo by Mrs. B. Fitchett. The address was then read by Mr. Vincent Farrell. Margaret and Lorne thanked their friends in a few well-chosen words. Everyone joined in "They are jolly good fellows" and the National Anthem. Lunch was served and enjoyed by all.

The addresses follow:

Dear Lorne,—
We, the members of Salem Young People's Union wish to extend to you heartiest congratulations as you are past president and a valued member and we wish to show our appreciation and gratitude for your loyal service. Margaret, we give you our best wishes and a hearty welcome is extended to you from our Young People's Union and we hope that you will find friends who will prove this welcome to you. We present this mirror as a slight token of our esteem in which you are held by all the members. Never doubt, or fear, or falter. If you find the way grows hard, God has promised He will strengthen you if you will His way regard.

CHAPTER IV.

Synopsis

Len Rollins, tennis ace, is torn between two desires. He dreams of going to Europe to help win the Davis Cup for America, and he is in love with the rich Grace Worthington, who is willing to defy her family and marry him if he will give up tennis. Fate takes a hand when he injures his ankle so seriously that the doctors say he can never play again. He gets a job at Talbot's sporting goods shop and he and Grace are married. Len finds his ankle will stand up while he tutors a rich man's son at tennis. But on a Tuesday evening, Grace decides to meet Len at the store, only to have a wizened up old man open the door of a closed shop.

"Is Mr. Rollins working late?" she asked. "I'm Mrs. Rollins. He should have finished an hour ago."

He gazed at her out of pale eyes, a puzzled expression on his face. "Working? No, no one is working here, Ma'am. No one at all; they all cleared out at five-thirty. I was comin' in when he was goin' out. He went home."

"What time was that?" "Five-thirty. I come at five-thirty every day."

"Thank you," she said, panic gripping her, and turned abruptly away.

The cab had to stop for three red lights, but at last it braked sharply to a halt before the building. She thrust some money at the driver, ran through the hall and up the four flights of stairs, unlocked the apartment and fell against the inside of the hall door. The radio was playing.

"Len," she cried out in relief, "where have you been?"

"It!" His voice was icy cold. "Where have you been? You might at least have left a note to say you'd be late. I've been spending my time worrying about you."

"Why," she stammered, "I was — I went for a walk. What time did you get home?"

"What time did I get home?" Man-like, his concern over her safety expressed itself in anger. And he was hungry. "What time do I always get home when I work overtime?"

Something snapped inside her. "Len Rollins," she returned evenly, her breathing nearly normal now, "don't stand there yelling at me like that. And furthermore, don't keep on telling me lies. I went to meet you. Where were you?"

He took a step forward. "So it's like that," he stormed. "It's reached the point where you're spying on me. Well, I won't have it, do you hear? I won't have it."

"Very well," she said softly. "Very well."

He crossed the room in long strides, and shut off the radio. He hadn't meant to let go the way he had — lose complete control of himself. But the combination of worry at her absence and Grace's discovery of his deception had caused him to lose his temper. Now he wanted to retract his words at it was too late.

She was crying — and it was all his fault.

"Stop crying," he said gently. "Let's forget all about it."

"You lied to me," she managed between sobs, "You lied to me."

"Oh, it wasn't really a lie; honestly it wasn't, Grace. Sit up and dry your eyes and I'll tell you all about it. It wasn't really a lie," he repeated with some heat. "I'm trying to tell you that, but you won't listen. I had an opportunity to earn a little extra money — and took it. I didn't tell you anything about it because I wanted it to be a surprise.

"You see, Mr. Richmond — he's a very wealthy sportsman — has a son, and he asked me to give young Bob some tennis lessons. I wanted to talk to you about it before agreeing, but then I figured if I took this job, I could give you something you want."

He paused, glanced at her bent head hopefully.

"But you know very well I don't like you hanging around tennis places," she said brokenly. It is the only thing I ask, but that doesn't seem to make any difference. First thing you know, instead of two nights a week it'll be four."

He laughed unconvincedly. "That's utterly ridiculous, darling. My ankle wouldn't permit it, even if I did want to play that many times in one week."

"Then you do admit that if your ankle could stand it you'd be out more often, playing tennis? If your ankle ever should become normal I wouldn't mean that to you." She snapped two slim fingers weakly.

He laughed. "I'll show you how much it means to me. Tomorrow I'll tell Mr. Richmond I'm through. You don't think I care particularly about hanging around a damp, bare armory after work, do you? I much prefer coming home here to a good dinner."

"Couldn't you," she asked with a wan smile, "have said come home here — to me?"

Inquisition. "That's exactly what I mean. Home here — to you."

She raised her lips to his. "I—I suppose we're all made up now, aren't we? And tomorrow you'll tell Mr. Richmond?" she snuggled closely to him.

"Yes. Tomorrow I'll tell him."

Len gave up instructing young Richmond. But with the arrival of mild weather he faced a new and more difficult problem. The men at Talbot's wanted him to play on their tennis team in the business league. He was undecided for days whether or not to speak to Grace about it. He didn't dare play without telling her, and he was afraid that when he mentioned it she would object. But finally at the theatre one evening — it was Grace's birthday — he corralled his courage and did.

The curtain fell on the first act and they went out to the lobby to smoke. "Grace," he began, after they had smoked the play, "they have organized some sort of industrial tennis league at the shop."

He paused, cleared his throat nervously. "The men at Talbot's asked me to play with their team. I told them," he spoke slowly, trying to keep his voice indifferent, "that I wasn't interested; that I was busy."

She sighed. "How often will you have to play?"

"Once a week. On Sundays."

"And it won't hurt your ankle?"

"No, I'm sure it won't."

"Will you promise that if we ever have something important to do or somewhere important to go you won't feel you have to play?"

"Surely. There's no obligation. You know I won't let it interfere with anything important."

"All right, then." She knew it would be useless to forbid him to play. After a year of marriage to Len Rollins she realized fully that he had only one interest outside her and his work — tennis. And that was all right.

Tennis as a hobby was fine. As a life work — which he once considered it — it was all wrong.

The nearest courts were those on Riverside Drive, not far from where Len and Grace lived. As he donned his familiar white clothing all the tense, familiar excitement returned. He practiced with the three other men of the company whom Durkins from upstairs, the manager, had chosen for the team. It was, as he had been sure it would be, mere child's play compared to the competitive game he had known. It was not necessary for him to move around much and the ankle took practically no punishment.

Darkness finally came and the session was over. In the locker room they discussed the first league matches which were to be played Sunday.

"With you, Rollins," Durkins offered, we should have no trouble at all taking them. For that matter, we ought to clean up the whole league. The cup's as good as ours right now."

The others heartily agreed. Johnson looked across the bench which separated them, admiration and a little awe in his face.

When they left Durkins gave each of them a copy of the season's schedule. "So you'll know when and where we play," he explained. Len put it in his pocket, bade them good night and went home.

He arrived at the apartment in high spirits, his body suffused by a slight, but contented tiredness.

"What's wrong?" he asked Grace, who was unusually silent during the evening. "You don't appear very chipper. Feeling all right?"

Her answer was, "I saw Mother today. They've made the first move toward reconciliation. They've asked us both for the week-end."

He frowned. "You know I don't get off until ten on Saturday night."

"Couldn't you possibly get the afternoon?"

"I'll ask."

"If it can't be arranged we'll leave early Sunday morning."

Sunday. Sunday.

"Mind if I speak frankly, Grace? I don't want to go. I'd feel uncomfortable after the way they've been acting toward me and about our marriage. It's only natural, I suppose, and I don't hold any resentment against them. Just the same I'd feel out of place, embarrassed."

"I see," her voice was soft and small. "I suppose you're perfectly right from your point of view, but I thought that for my sake perhaps you would try and see it through. After all, it would be only one day."

"Now," he replied, "you put me on the spot. You know I'd do anything in the world for you, sweetheart. Even go out there with you if you're absolutely set on it. But just put yourself in my place."

"Yes," she said softly, evidently disappointed. "I see what you mean. We'll just forget about it. I'll make some excuse."

Now, damn it all, he was on the spot. How would he be able to make it clear to her that the matches Sunday afternoon had nothing to do with his not wanting to go out to East Hampton? It was true that he did not care to visit her family. But would she understand that or would she accuse him of wanting to stay home because of the game?

In any case it would be foolhardy to say anything about it to Grace now. In her present mood she would not understand. She would misinterpret everything. It would be best, he finally decided, to postpone mentioning it until the last minute. It might rain. Playing then would be impossible and the situation saved all round. Yes, that was best. His mind was eased and he gave it no further thought.

Friday evening they walked over to Riverside Drive to view a huge steel-gray warrior of the sea not far from where they lived, one of the Atlantic fleet anchored in the Hudson after annual maneuvers in the South.

"Mother," Grace said as they stood at the stone wall that overlooked the river, "was really quite upset at our hot coming out. I believe they're honestly sincere about accepting my black sheep into the fold."

He shrugged. "I know a good way to find out. You go out there Sunday and determine their attitude. Lay your cards on the table; make them do the same. Ask them point blank how they feel about our marriage now that we've made a success of it."

Her hand pressed his arm gratefully. "If they're still horrid about it," she murmured, "I'll tell them to go to the devil and to find another daughter."

They turned back toward home. "You will go out for the week-end?"

She shook her head, looked up into his face. "I don't want to be away from you any longer than I have to — especially overnight."

When he arrived home Saturday night Len found the house strangely dark and quiet. He switched on the foyer light. On the small Queen Anne secretary was a note. He picked it up and read:

Len:

I decided after all to go to East Hampton. I'll be back tomorrow or Monday. Tuesday at the latest.

I found the enclosed in the coat pocket of the suit you asked me to send to the tailor.

Grace

He had never experienced before and hoped never to experience again the all-gone feeling that he knew now. His head was like lead. "The enclosed," was a carbon copy of the schedule for Talbot's team.

DESTINATION OF RED CROSS BLANKETS

Blankets contributed to the Canadian Red Cross Society during its recent appeal have not been sent to France, Dr. Fred W. Routley, said on Friday last.

"Although these blankets were intended for the suffering refugees and wounded soldiers in France, we could not take a chance on their falling into German hands," the national commissioner said. "The first shipment had been authorized before the French armistice, but we were able to divert the blankets to England, where they will be stored until needed. The remainder, about 60,000 will be held in Canada."

Dr. Routley gave assurance that every blanket contributed will be needed in the days to come. Already, he said, the Canadian Red Cross had been asked by the Dominion Government to loan a quantity of blankets to equip the colonist trains carrying refugee children from Britain to destinations in Canada.

"We shall have blankets, sheets, pillow cases, towels and so on waiting for the children at the port of arrival," Dr. Routley said.

THE WEED OF THE WEEK —

Poison Ivy may be found growing under a variety of conditions throughout Old Southern Ontario. Everyone should be familiar with it, and should take immediate steps to eradicate it. It is sometimes mistaken for Virginia Creeper, though it is easily distinguished by its leaves which are in groups of three, whereas those of the Virginia Creepers are in fives. The leaves of Poison Ivy are quite smooth, glossy and firm.

Poison Ivy has a distressing toxic action on the skin. The active principle of the plant is an oil which is present throughout root, stem, leaf, flower and fruit, and even the easily detached hairs. Tearing or bruising of any liberates the oil which comes in contact with exposed parts of the body.

Poison Ivy can be entirely eradicated by the use of chemical sprays.

One method is to dissolve 1 pound of Sodium Chlorate in 1 pound of Elephant Brand Ammonium Sulphate to 1 gallon of water and spray to saturation any time after the middle of June, using a fine nozzle sprayer with as much pressure as possible. Wet the infested area thoroughly. Use Elephant Brand Ammonium Sulphate.

Caution: Do not mix Sodium Chlorate and ammonium sulphate in dry form. Each ingredient should be put separately into the water immediately before spraying.

A second method is to spray with Atlacide Weed Killer, 2 pounds per gallon of water. Apply this solution in the form of a fine spray any time during the growing season. If new growth appears late in the fall a second spraying will be necessary.

Thorough cultivation will eradicate Poison Ivy. Hand pulling is often the simplest way to eradicate it from very small areas. Trailing parts should be pulled or grubbed out. Gloves should be worn and precautions taken to prevent transferring the oil to the skin. Persons highly susceptible to poisoning should leave the work to others. Cattle, sheep and goats relish Poison Ivy and can pasture in it without any harmful effects.

Space does not permit a lengthy discussion of treatment for poisoning so it is suggested that all interested persons should write the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, for the pamphlet, "Poison Ivy". It will be sent immediately free of charge.

Ontario, with its thousands of children and its enormous revenue derived annually from tourists, cannot afford to neglect this weed. Municipal councils, organizations, summer resort owners, park commissioners, school trustees, road authorities and the general public are urged to completely eradicate this weed.

IMPORTANT ORDERS BY DAIRY PRODUCTS BOARD

In the issue of the Canada Gazette of June 19, 1940, the Dairy Products Board, orders, by virtue of powers conferred by Order in Council P.C. 2138, of May 23, 1940:

That all cheese sold on Country Cheese Boards east of Toronto in the Province of Ontario, shall be purchased at a price not less than 13 1/4 cents per pound, basis First Grade, F.O.B. Country shipping points;

That all cheese purchased in the Province of Quebec shall be on the basis of not less than 13-9-10 cents per pound, basis First Grade, F.O.B. Montreal;

That in the interest of the Canadian Cheese Industry the quantity of cheese any licensed exporter will be permitted to export to the United Kingdom shall be allotted on the basis of the average amount of cheese exported by such exporter during the calendar years 1937, 1938 and 1939 or at the discretion of the Board;

That all shipments of cheese must have an average temperature of not over 60 degrees Fahrenheit at the time of delivery at the dock for export. The temperatures taken and recorded by the Cargo Inspectors of the Dominion Department of Agriculture shall be the official temperatures, and where the first recording exceeds a maximum of 60 degrees Fahrenheit, three temperatures of three other boxes of cheese shall be taken, and the official recording shall be the average of the four temperatures.

If the shipments from any exporter exceed a maximum of 60 degrees Fahrenheit, the Board shall notify the shipper and in the event of subsequent shipments continuing to show temperatures higher than the maximum of 60 degrees Fahrenheit, the Board will refuse such shipments for export until such time as the cheese is properly conditioned for shipment.

That a license must be secured from the Board by each exporter before tenders for cheese for export to the United Kingdom will be accepted. Licenses will be issued only to exporters who shipped cheese to the United Kingdom prior to the outbreak of war, or at the discretion of the Board. Quantities allotted to each exporter will be determined by the Board.

MINISTER OUTLINES REGISTRATION PLAN ON NATIONAL SCALE

A nation-wide plan for the registration of every man and woman in Canada above the age of 16 years, has been announced by Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of National War Services. National registration is the first step in carrying out the objects of the National Resources Mobilization Act.

Four days will be set aside about August 14 for registration purposes.

Julius Castonguay, Chief Electoral Officer for Canada, has been appointed Chief Registrar, by order-in-council, to supervise national registration. A provincial organization will be set up in each province with the Chief Justice of that province or a judge appointed by him as the head.

To carry out actual registration members of the House of Commons are asked to name a registrar and a deputy registrar in the constituency they represent. These in turn will appoint two men in each subdivision of the riding to carry out details of the plan. This plan is patterned along the lines followed in taking the vote in a Dominion election, with the exception that registration will be compulsory, during the four days set aside by the Minister. Each sub-division will be divided in four areas and the people in each area will register on a given day.

Rates of pay for registration officials will approximate those given to election officials as will the pay for rental of registration offices. Registrars and deputy registrars will be allowed necessary travelling expenses.

An appeal to make registration a national effort was sent out by Hon. J. G. Gardiner and the services of voluntary workers and organizations solicited.

BRITAIN A BAD TARGET

Knowing that the skill and courage in flying is not all on one side in this war, many people wonder about the difference in effectiveness between British and German bombing raids.

The official news bulletins from the British Air Force constantly mention precise targets hit and the amount of damage done in Germany and serious damage is done night after night, and often by day. On the German side, it is beginning to be admitted that the damage is heavy.

Against this, we have normally the report from Great Britain after a German raid that the damage has been slight and no military objective hit, with a mention of a small number of people killed or wounded.

Is it all true? Fortunately, there is good reason to have complete faith in these reports. The explanation was stressed by an aviation expert speaking on the British radio last Sunday.

Great Britain is the worst country in the world as a target for bombing aeroplanes. The Germans would need not the skill and courage we know they have, they would need not merely machines and pilots as good as the British, which we know they have not. Skill vastly superior to that possessed by the R.A.F. pilots and observers would be needed to achieve results on these scattered raids, as distinct from mass air attack.

British flyers have been known to get lost in going from one air-field to another five miles away! The roads which motorists have cursed for a generation all wind and twist to an extent that makes them worse than useless to air navigators; and the railways are not much better. All the fields are small and divided by high hedges and the general result is that to any navigator not intimately and long familiar with the ground, flying over Britain is like finding the way on a jigsaw puzzle map that has not yet been put together. In comparison, flying over continental countries, and especially Germany, is more like the navigation of a checker-board. No camouflage can conceal such an element in the landscape as a German "autobahn", the modern highway so broad and for scores and hundreds of miles, so dead straight.

So, when the Nazi bombs drop in "open ground", it is only what experienced flying men foresaw and expected. You can believe the British communiques. — Cobourg World.

HOLSTEIN COW MAKES RECORD FOR MONTH

Two thousand nine hundred and forty-one pounds of milk in thirty days is the record of Minnie Abbecker Vale, a nine-year-old Holstein cow owned by Amos Hudgin and Brian Dodds, Picton-Cherry Valley road. This record was made in June under the Record of Performance and checked by the R.O.P. inspector. The milk test was very good. During the month this fine animal milked as high as 105 pounds a day and at present is averaging around 90 pounds. — Picton Gazette.

RASPBERRY CROP ABOUT 11,000,000 QUARTS

Reports from growers in the areas which raspberries are grown in Canada in commercial quantities indicate that the 1940 crop will be as large as in 1939 when it totalled 10,861,000 quarts of which Ontario accounted for 5,673,000 quarts, Quebec, 2,217,000 quarts, British Columbia, 2,852,000 quarts and the Maritime Provinces 119,000 quarts. The quality of this year's raspberries is notably good. The crop is now on the market and large quantities will be available, particularly in Ontario and Quebec, until about the end of July.

POTATO FLEA BEETLE POISON SPRAY CONTROL

Potato plants are commonly attacked by tiny, actively-jumping insects known as flea beetles. The beetles feed on the leaves, eating out small round holes. If the insects are abundant, serious injury to the foliage may result, and where the seedlings are attacked, the injury is often fatal. The beetles hibernate under rubbish, emerging early in the spring to commence their work of destruction. The eggs are laid in the soil and when the larvae hatch, they descend into the ground and feed on the roots of plants. The tubers attacked frequently have a pimply appearance and are spoken of as "pimply potatoes."

Control can be brought about by thoroughly spraying the infested plants with poisoned Bordeaux mixture which acts both as a repellent and a stomach poison, states Alan G. Dugan, Entomological Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Spraying should commence as soon as the first beetles are seen and repeated at intervals of ten days to two weeks, depending on the severity of the infestation. All parts of the plant should be covered by the spray, both the upper and the lower surfaces of the leaves receiving attention.

HOW TO PREPARE BORDEAUX MIXTURE

Bordeaux mixture, although primarily a fungicide is also used as a control for many species of flea beetles and some leaf hoppers. It is practically always used as the basic liquid when spraying for the Colorado potato beetle since it is the standard remedy for many important potato diseases.

It is made by mixing copper sulphate (bluestone), hydrated lime and water together in the following proportions: copper sulphate (finely ground) four pounds; hydrated lime, six pounds, and water, 40 gallons.

The method is simplified greatly if finely ground copper sulphate and hydrated lime are used. After the spray tank has been filled with water, the engine is started and the correct amount of finely ground copper sulphate gradually added. With the agitator running, the fine powder will be thoroughly dissolved in 5 minutes. In the meantime the hydrated lime is placed in a large pail and slowly stirred with a stick while sufficient water is added to fill the container. After thoroughly mixing, the liquid is then added gradually to the now dissolved copper sulphate in the spray tank, while the engine and agitator continue to run. This proceeding is repeated 2 or 3 times until all the hydrated lime with the exception of the insoluble foreign matter in the bottom of the pail, has been carried over into the spray machine.

Two pounds of calcium arsenate are added, when the mixture is ready to apply. Where small hand sprayers are used, the method of preparing Bordeaux mixture is exactly the same except that the agitation of the liquid in the sprayer will have to be done by means of a flat stick in the absence of an engine and mechanical agitator.

ONLY CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES SHOULD BE GROWN

The seed potato certification service was organized by the Dominion Department of Agriculture twenty-five years ago as a result of a survey which showed that potato crops were being seriously reduced by virus diseases. The function of the service was to assist and supervise the production of virus-free seed potatoes that would give good, profitable yields.

The success of the undertaking has been remarkable. Crops from certified seed, of which four million bushels have been produced annually during the past twelve years, average 275 bushels per acre. The average yield from ordinary seed is 140 bushels. Not more than one-tenth of the total potato acreage in Canada is planted with certified seed. The annual export trade of about two million bushels shows that a strong demand exists in foreign countries, but domestic sales average only a quarter million bushels. Certified seed potato growers retain three-quarters of a million bushels for their own seed, bringing the total planting of certified seed in Canada to one million bushels only.

If every potato grower planted certified seed, states the Agricultural Supplies Board in its special pamphlet of the wartime production series on "Certified Seed Potatoes," either the crop could be doubled or the potato acreage reduced by half. The increased profits that the grower would obtain are even more significant. Assuming that 100 bushels are required to cover the cost of production, the yield on which profit is estimated would be increased from 40 to 175 bushels. The pamphlet, which gives full information on the factors essential to successful seed potato production, may be obtained free from the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Rollins Family Hold Re-union

On July 17 about 160 members of the Rollins family gathered at Tweed Fald Grounds to hold their annual picnic. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gunning, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Gunning and Mrs. Jon. Taylor motored from St. Thomas and were among the first to arrive. After everyone had their appetites more than satisfied they were called to the grandstand to hold a business meeting. A gift was given to the youngest member present, Robert Rollins, Plainfield, age 2 months; also the oldest member present, Mr. Hercules Rollins, Cooper. Several of the members were called for speeches. James Gunning, St. Thomas recalled being at the first reunion and the happy day they all spent together. Mrs. Jon Taylor, St. Thomas, spoke of the capable manner in which the Rollins reunion was conducted and believes it to be one of the best picnics. Mr. Delbert Rollins, Oshawa, suggested that the history of the Rollins family be made out in pamphlet form and given to the different families. Mr. Hercules Rollins, Sr., Cooper, reminded the gathering it was nearly one hundred years since our ancestors came to Canada from Ireland. Mr. Harry Rollins, Belleville, Mr. Albert Beatty, Tweed, and Mr. Lee, Belleville, also spoke a few words. It was decided to hold the picnic at Plainfield next year. The new officers are: Pres., Mr. Harper Rollins, Stirling; Vice-Pres., Stanley Rollins, Cooper; Secretary, Lillie Weese, Shannville; Treas., S. B. Rollins, Tweed.

Harry Rollins, Belleville and Harper Rollins, Stirling, then took charge of the sports and everyone enjoyed the races. Girls, under 5, Fay Rollins; Boys under 5, Don Lucas; Girls, 5-10, Margaret Harris, Barbara Chapman; Boys, 5-10, Kenneth Reynolds, George Post; Girls, under 15, Dorothy Rollins, Ketha Weese; Boys, under 13, Carl Rollins, Allen Rollins, Fred Rollins; Boys under 15, Maurice Rollins, Dave Farney; Girls under 18, Dorothy Rollins, Edna Lucas; Boys under 18, Mac McMillan, Maurice Rollins; Lean Women's Race, Thelma Rollins, Winale Hill; Married Men's Race, Fred Lucas, W. CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

There was an enjoyable time spent last Sunday, July 21st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McInroy, West Huntingdon, when the members of their family gathered to celebrate with Mr. McInroy his seventy-fifth birthday. At the dinner table the decorations were carried out in yellow and white, and the birthday cake with seventy-five candles, adorned the centre. After the dinner all sang "Happy Birthday to you." Mrs. McInroy, on behalf of the family, presented her father with a leather jacket. Those present, besides the parents were Cpl. H. McInroy and Mrs. McInroy, George, Geraldine, Sybil and Marilyn, Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McInroy, Grace and Gordon, of Moira; Mr. and Mrs. Goldie McInroy, West Huntingdon; Mrs. McLaren Longwell and son, Donald Peter, of Port Colborne; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Camplin and daughter Carol, of Anson, and Mr. and Mrs. John Blakely, Tweed.

During the afternoon visitors from Toronto, Cordova and Springbrook came to call at the home.

Junior Farmers Hold Field Day

The Junior Farmers of Hastings County held their annual field day and softball tournament at Tweed Agricultural Grounds and the Memorial Park on Thursday, July 18th. The committee in charge of the arrangements was composed of Mr. H. L. Fair, B.S.A., Agricultural Representative, Stirling, the president of the Junior Farmer township organizations: Hungerford, Donald Bateman, Rawdon, George Sutherland; Sidney, Ralph Campbell; Madoc, Douglas Bailey; Huntingdon, Leonard Rollins; Thurlow, L. Ketcheson; Marmora, Don Neal and the umpire-in-chief, Don Williams, Stirling.

The umpires were Don Williams, umpire-in-chief; Herb Higgs, Stirling; J. R. Burton, Stirling; H. Brown, Glen Ross; J. Armstrong, Glen Ross.

Officers of Hungerford Junior Farmers who were in charge of local arrangements are: President, Donald Bateman; Vice-President, Bill Coulter; Secretary, Stanley Geen; Treasurer, Wilbur Bateman.

The attendance was very encouraging to Mr. H. L. Fair and his committee, although not as large as usual, due to the lateness of the haying season which made it necessary for the farm lads to make hay while their more fortunate fellows were engaging their energies in softball. At the picnic lunch which was served at the Fair Grounds, there was an estimated attendance of two hundred and fifty.

Five boys' teams were entered in the boys' softball tournament: Madoc, Manager Don Neale; Sidney, Manager Clarence Woods; Rawdon, Manager Bill Heath; Hungerford, Manager Bill Coulter.

Three girls' teams were entered in the Girls' Softball Tournament: Sidney, Manager Laura Sine; Rawdon, Manager Bill Heath; Madoc, Manager Beulah Keene.

The first round brought together Sidney and Hungerford with Sidney leading 2 to 0 at the end of the second inning. Hungerford defaulted the game and Sidney advanced to the next round to meet Rawdon. This encounter was probably the best of the day, developing into a pitchers' battle between Broadworth on the mound for Rawdon and Shortt who served them up for Sidney. Both pitchers were accorded stellar support by their teammates with the final score in doubt until the last out. The final score was Rawdon 3, Sidney 2.

Rawdon opened the scoring in the second frame, pushing over two runs on successive hits by Rodgers, Rennie and Thompson, the first two crossing the plate. Sidney cut the margin to one run in the third inning with Vandervoort notching a counter. Rawdon came right back in the same inning with the winning run. Brown, batting out a long double crossed the plate on a hit and a passed ball. Broadworth was working along smoothly and allowed his opponents only one additional counter in the sixth, Ray being the scorer.

Rawdon — H. Brown, D. Richardson, G. Broadworth, p. D. Rodgers, C. B. Rennie, I. Potts, C. Thompson, J. Armstrong, H. Higgs.

In the final encounter Madoc and Rawdon staged a thrilling battle. Both teams strove to capture the Junior Farmers' Softball Trophy. Madoc opened the scoring in the first frame. Sine Singled with one down and scored on E. Woods' first of three doubles.

Rawdon hit back in the same inning scoring twice for their only runs of the game. Brown and Rodgers were the scorers. Broadworth pitched his best ball in the second frame, striking out Ray, Delye and Coulter on nine pitched balls.

Ray was in difficulty in the second inning walking the first two men, but his support came through in spectacular style and the next three men were out.

The third inning put the game in the bag for Madoc, Broadworth's efforts, having already pitched one stiff game, took their toll and he was greeted with a barrage of hits, including doubles by the Woods brothers, and four runs crossed the plate. Rawdon again collected two free tickets in the third inning but could not connect safely with Ray's slants and failed to score. Both sides went down in order in the fourth inning as the fielding lightened up and several nice catches were made in the outfield.

An error by Thompson in centre, when he dropped Sine's fly, paved the way for the winners' final score. Rodgers dropped the third strike on Kirby and then hit the runner with the ball, which rolled to the outfield, permitting Sine to cross the rubber. Rawdon went down in order in the seventh frame. Broadworth struck out 6 and issued 3 walks, Ray struck out 2 and gave five bases on balls.

Sidney girls easily defeated their Rawdon rivals in the opening game by a score of 25 to 11. The winners scored all their runs in clusters, getting 7 in the opening frame and 5 in the fifth.

Rawdon girls were very much in the hunt for two innings, scoring 3 runs in the opener and 5 in the second to take the lead. They faded badly in the latter stages of the game and were unable to keep their rivals in check.
